Reality has been defined as that which influences the individual —

To the 2200 people who created it, reality was Robert E. Lee, 1972 . . .

Each administrator, teacher, and student —

influenced by the past, present, and future —

contributed uniquely to the whole.

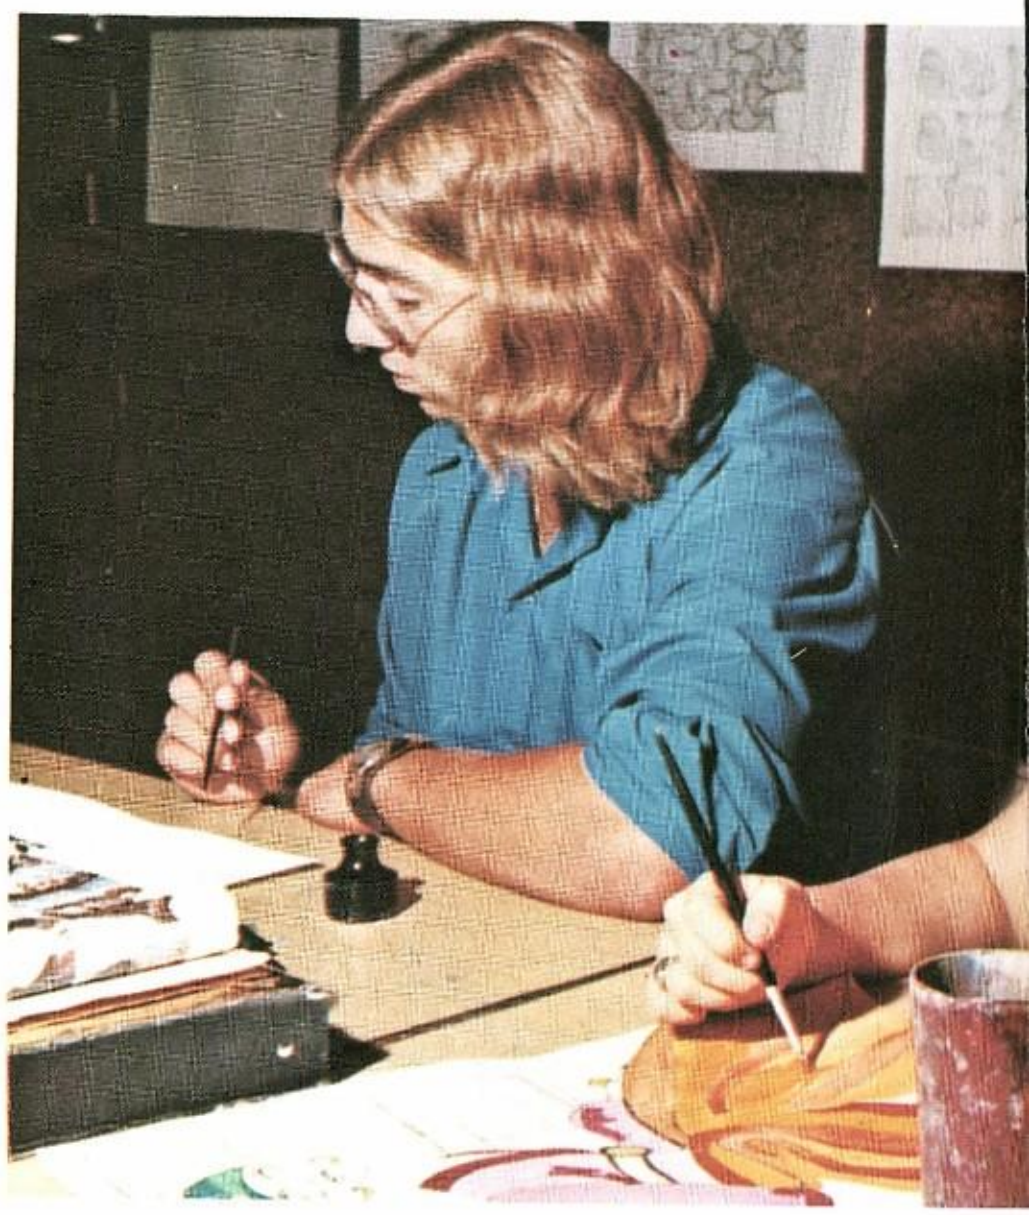
Within the classroom, focus was upon the development of the individual.

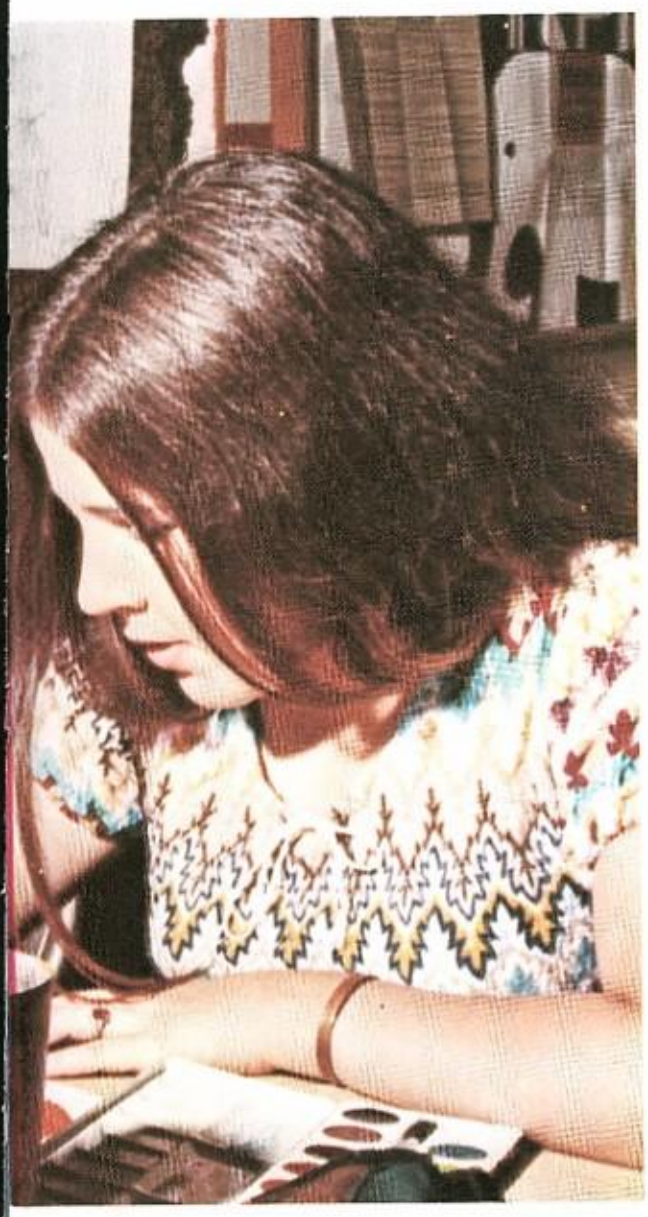
Although faced with the immeasurable responsibility of instructing exceptionally large classes, teachers attempted to teach the student as a person — forcing him to seek himself through the discussion of hypothetical and personal experiences.

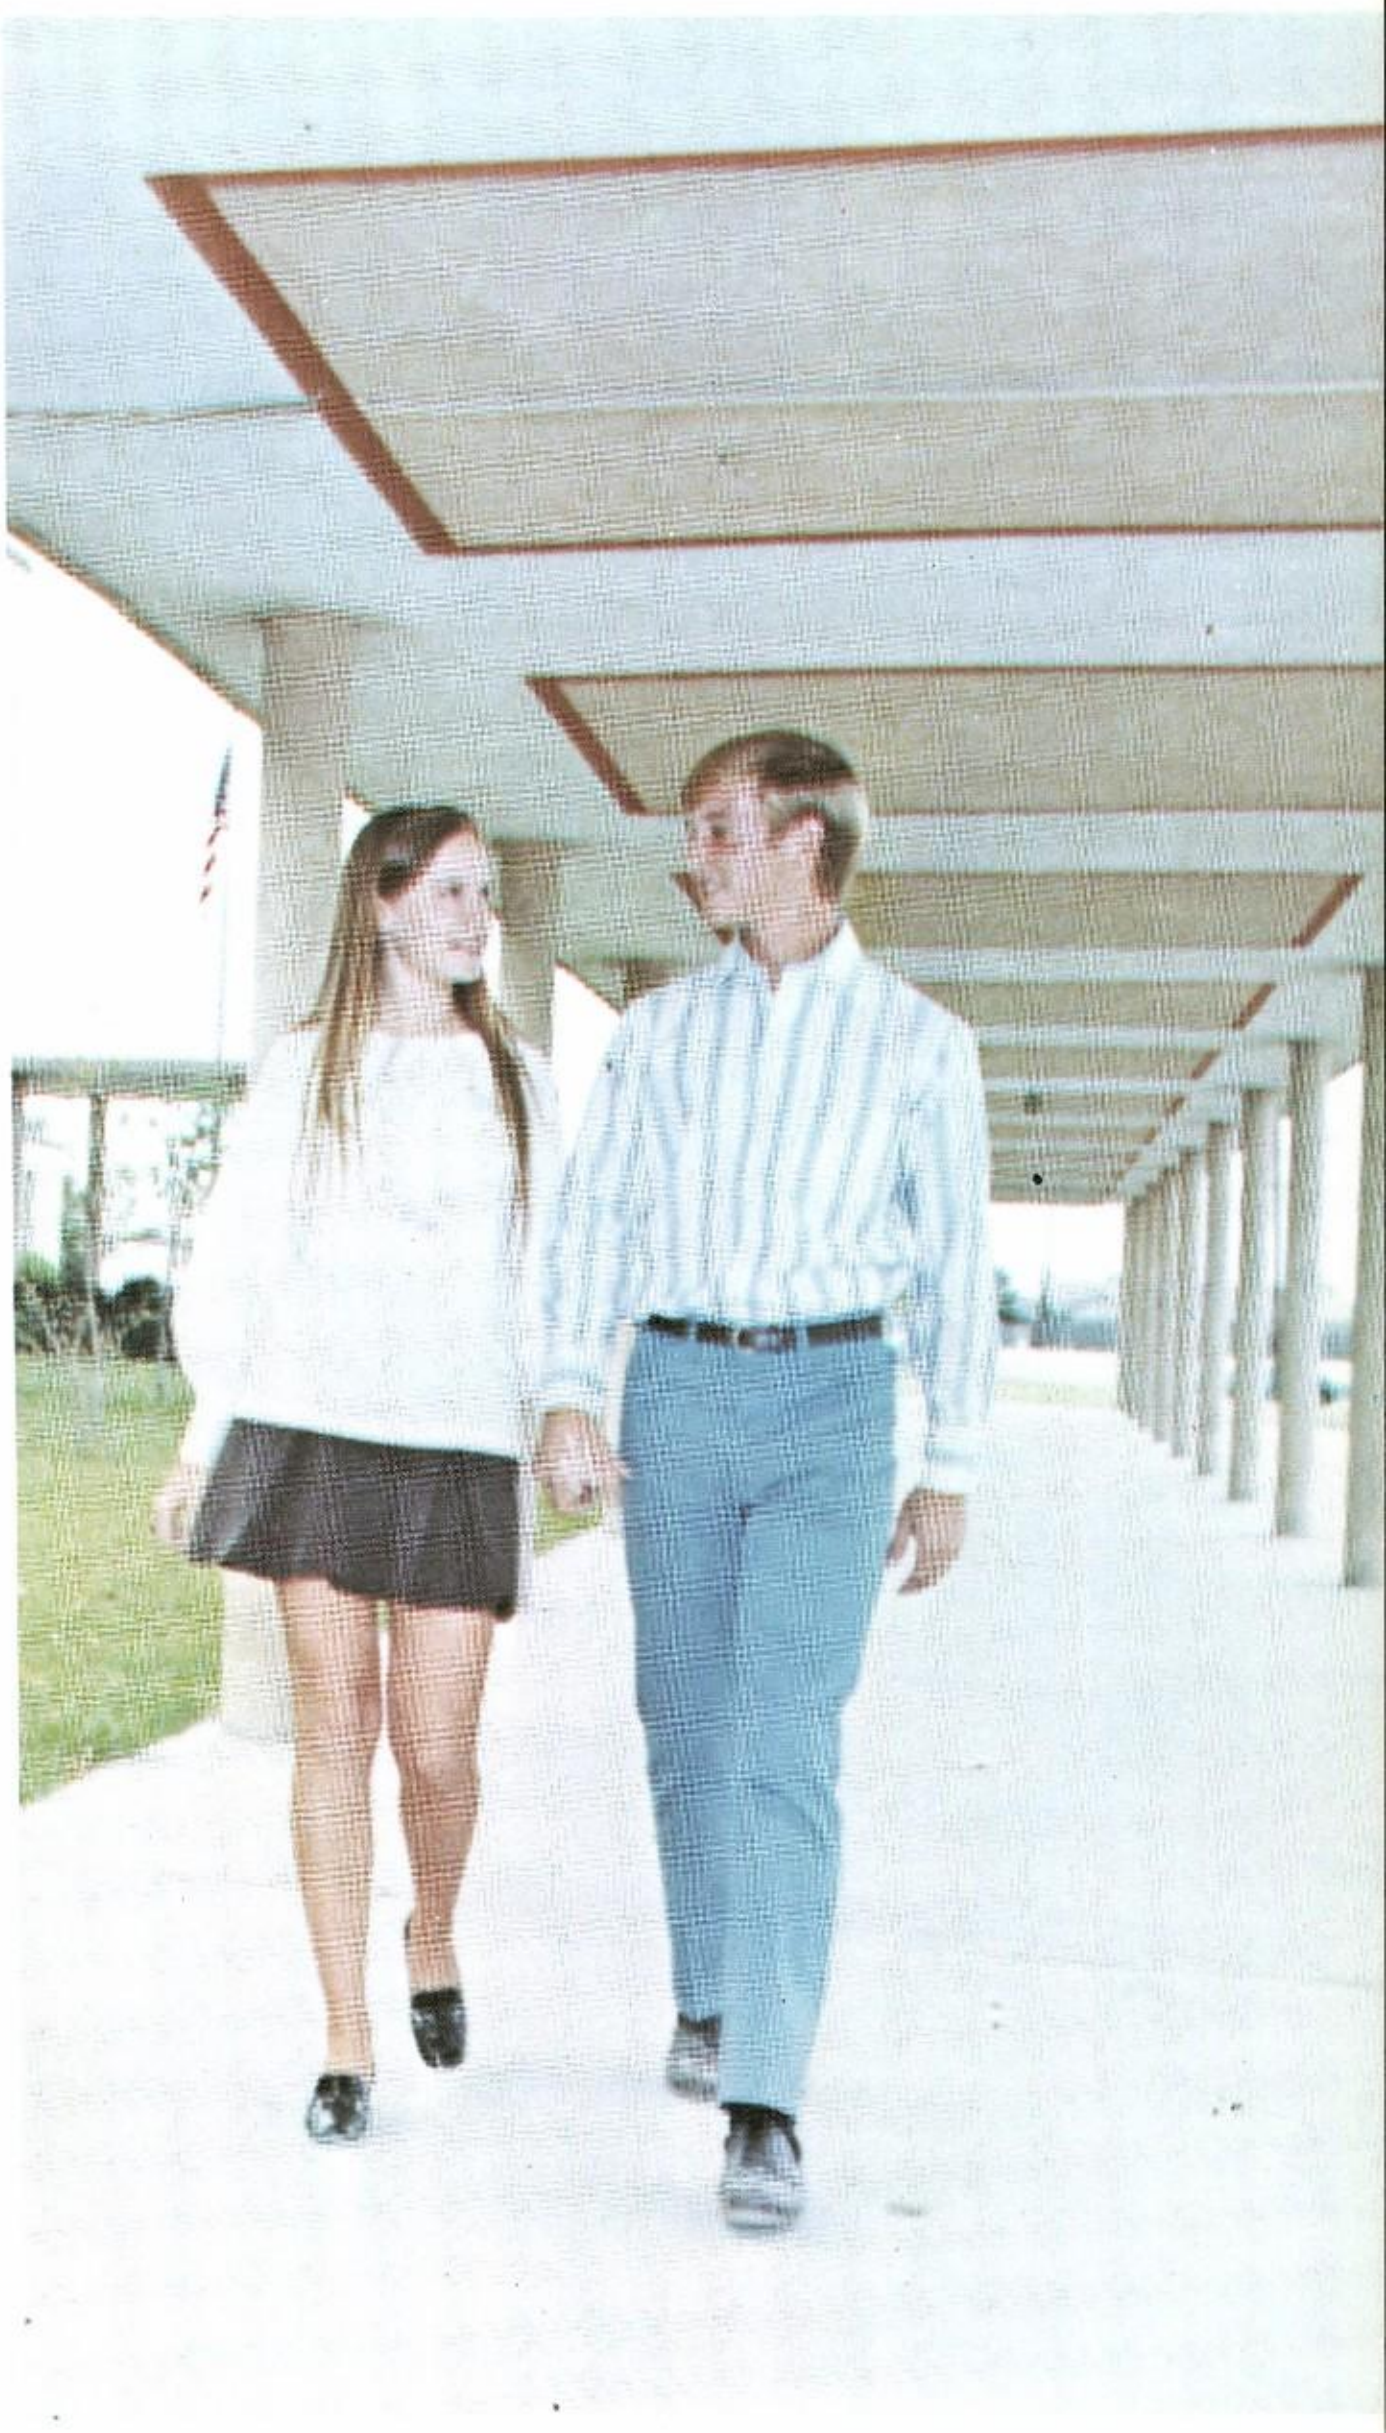
He was taught not only as a student with certain capabilities and capacities, but as a person — holding unique beliefs, determinedly yet silently compelled to voice them.

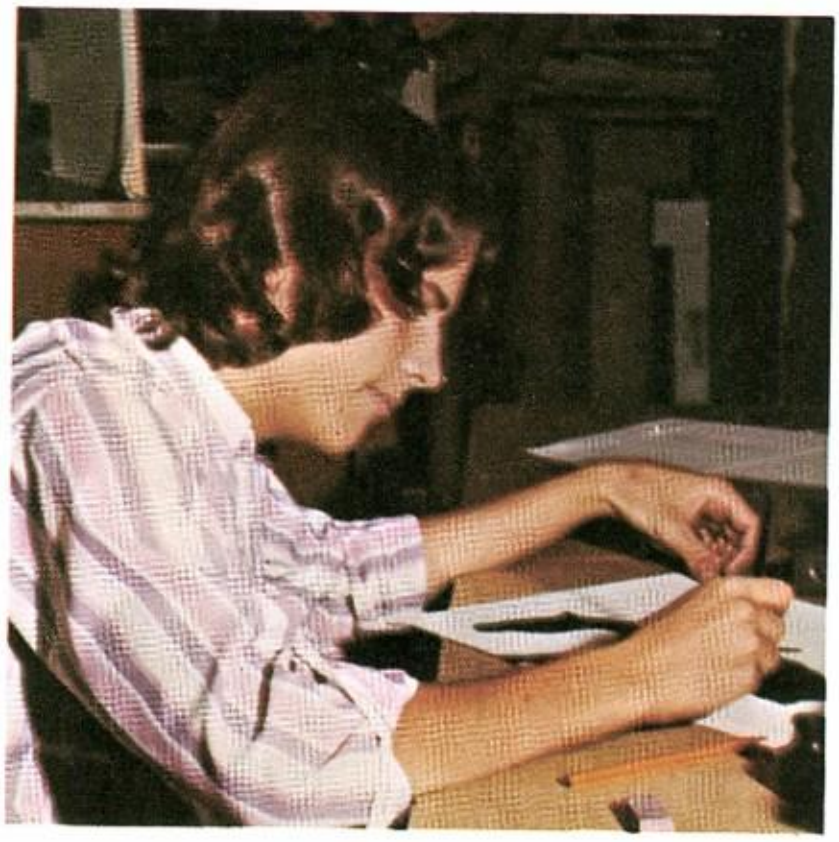
A thought or belief, stated responsibly within the framework of order, was heard with concurrence, passivity, or thoughtful dissent — but not with stubbornness or derision.

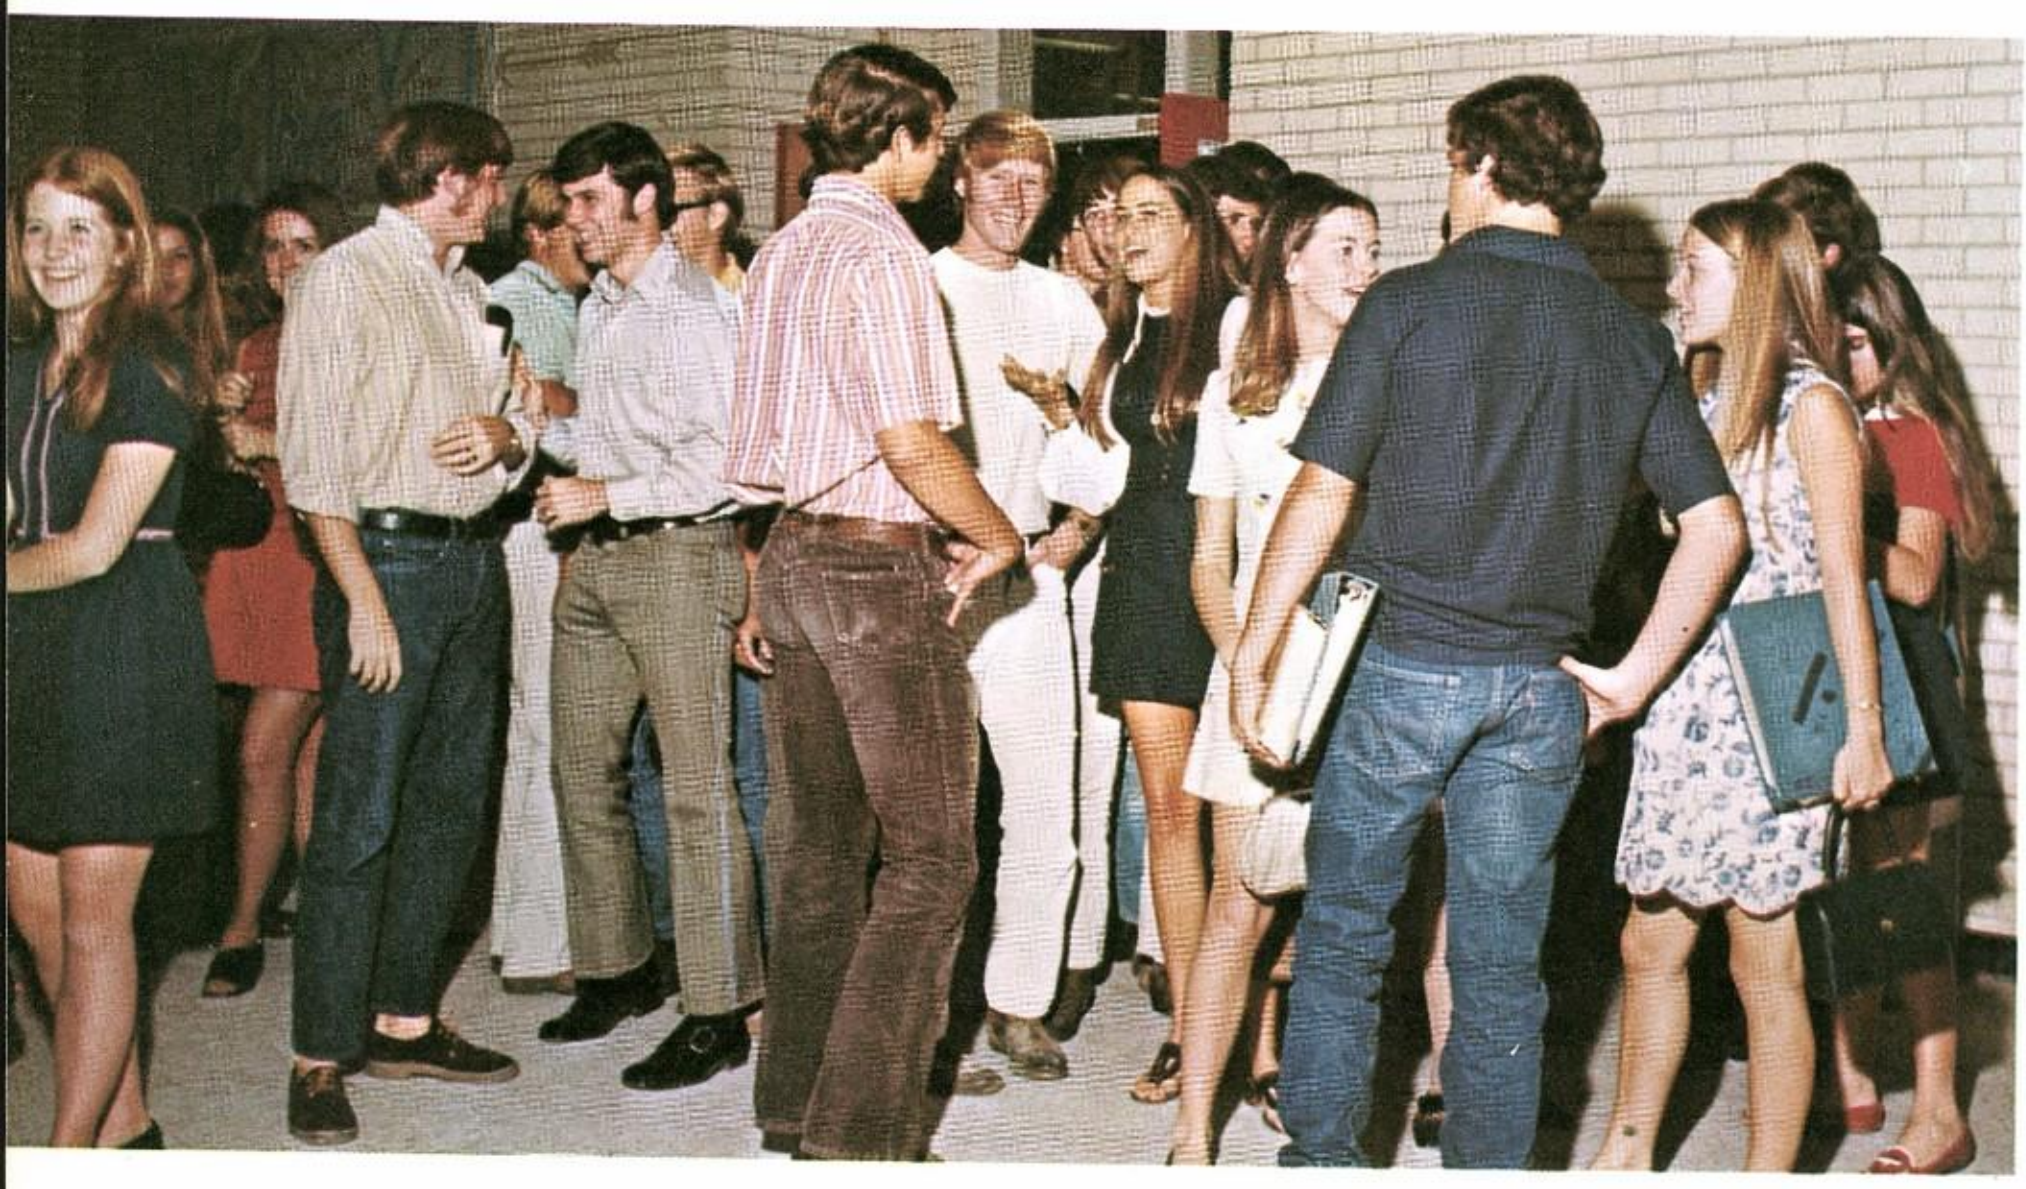
Equally as important as that which occurs within a classroom is that which transcends into one's private life.











MEG ~
I'm SO GLAD WE GOT TO BE TOGETHER AGAIN THIS YEAR -
REMINDS ME OF THE GOOD OLD DAYS IN EIGHTH GRADE HISTORY!
YOUR A GREAT PERSON & I SURELY HOPE OUR FRIENDSHIP WILL CONTINUE
GOOD
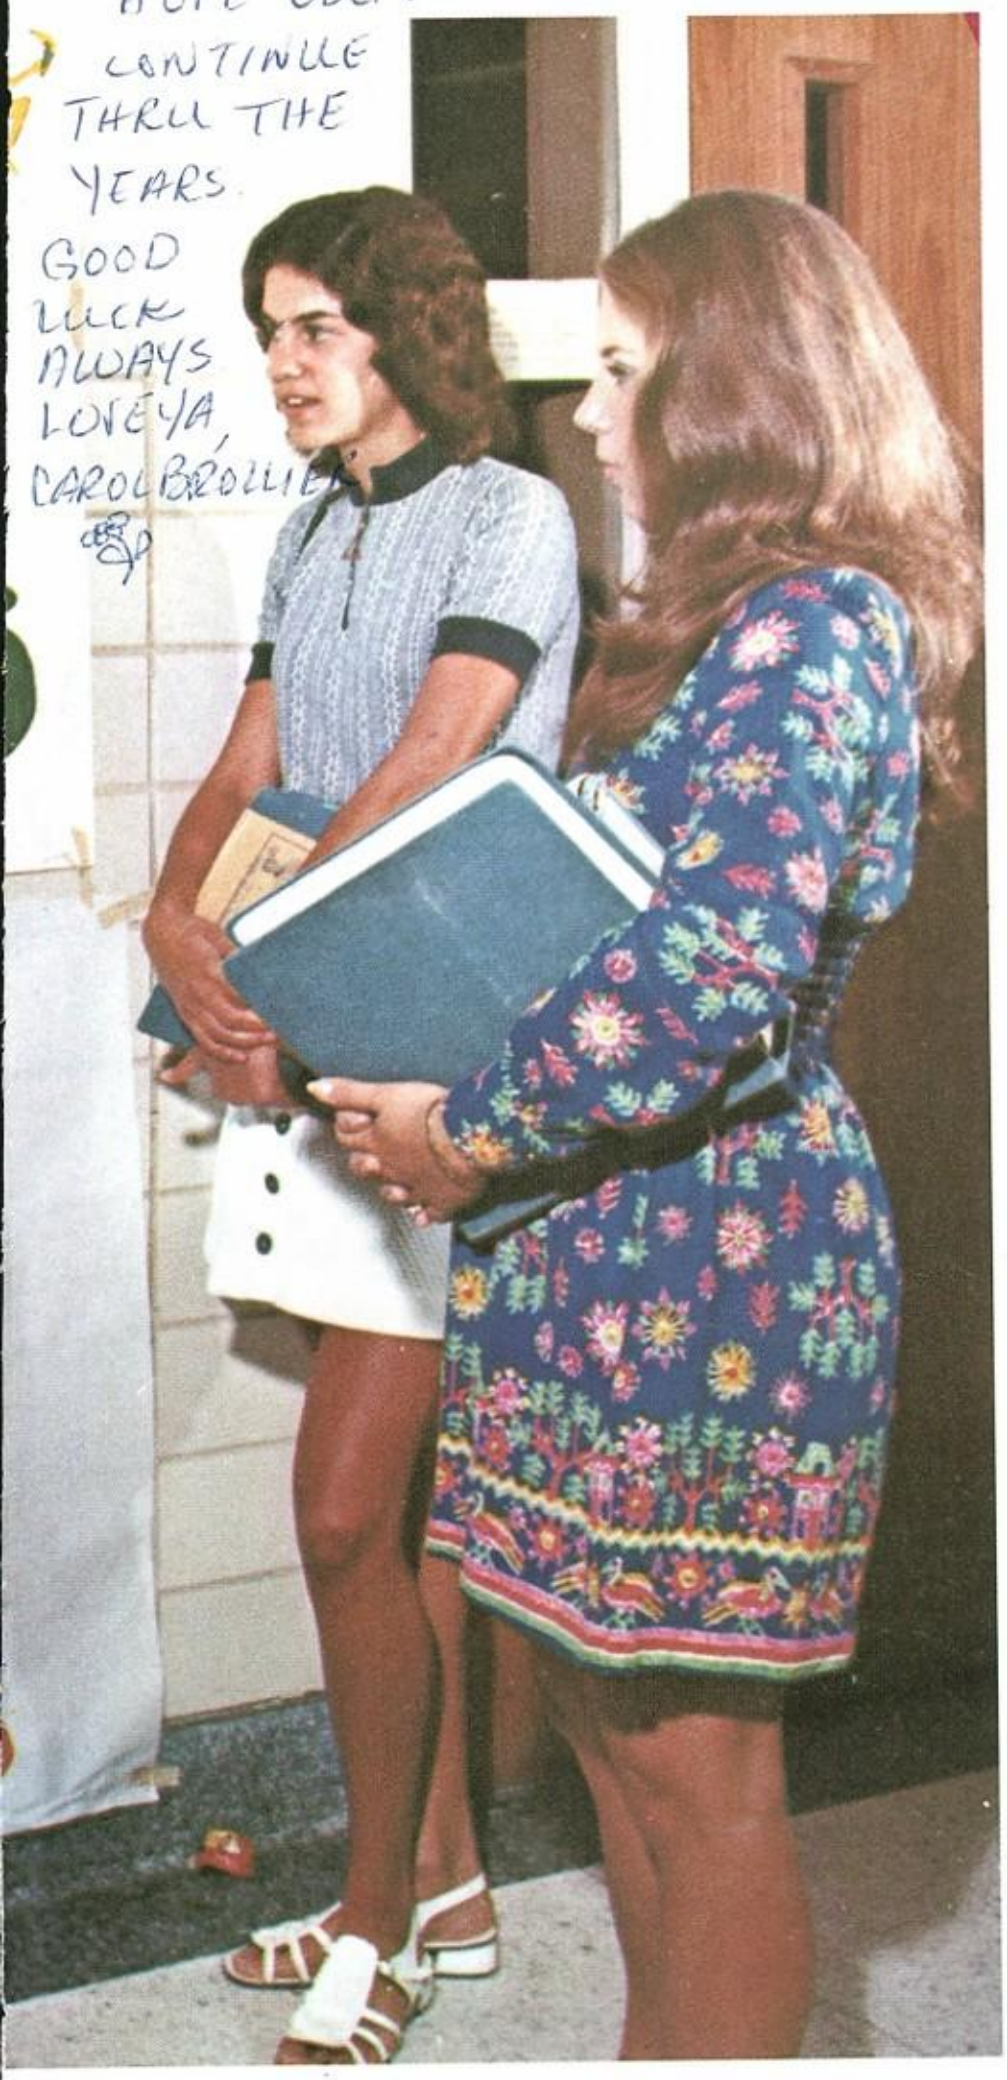
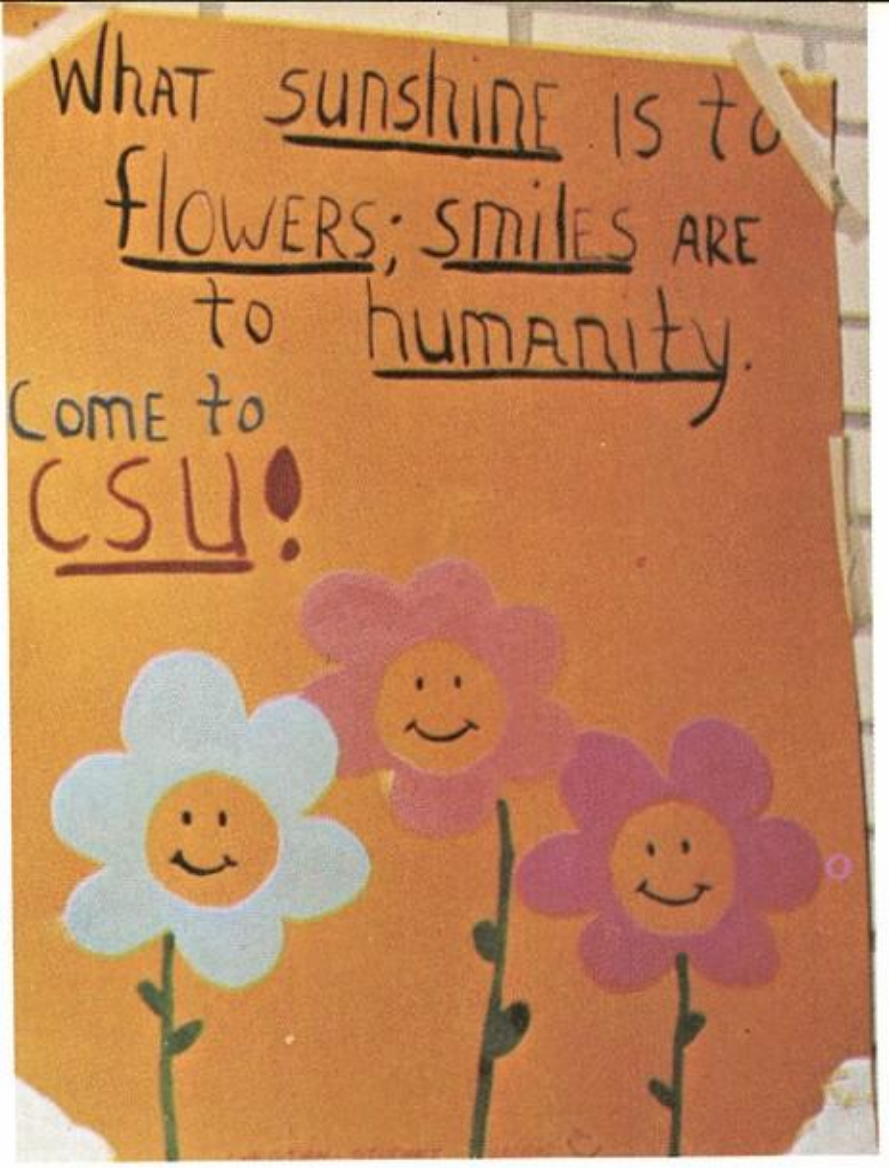
LOVE YA,
CAROL BROLLIER

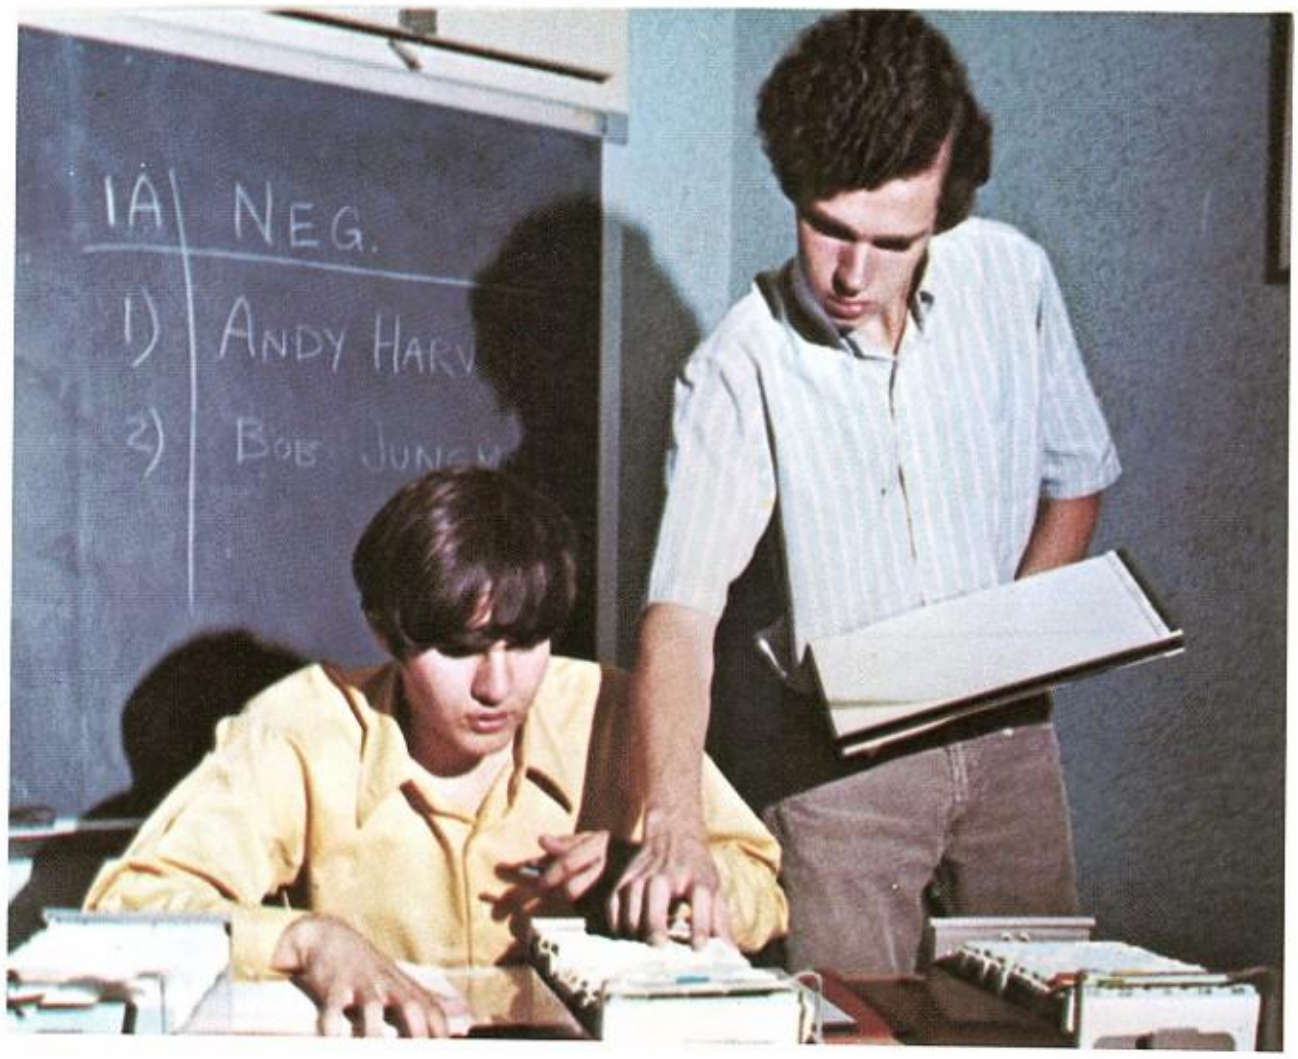




In the face of changing realities, many accepted the conventional standards of the past, while others grasped new modes . . . of religion, dress, and hairstyles: the "Jesus" people . . . girls' pants, maxis, midis . . . suede or "clunky" shoes . . . long and straight, short and "shagged" hair . . .

These were the reality of Lee.

There were those who retained old prejudices, but many who attempted to eradicate them and to judge each person upon his own merits, value, and character.



One remembers the 1972 reality of Lee:
it was like no other year's.
Each person had his own reality.
Lee was a different reality to a football player than to a debater.
Each strove to work as a member of an intricate and demanding team, but each individual maintained his uniqueness in pursuing his own goals.

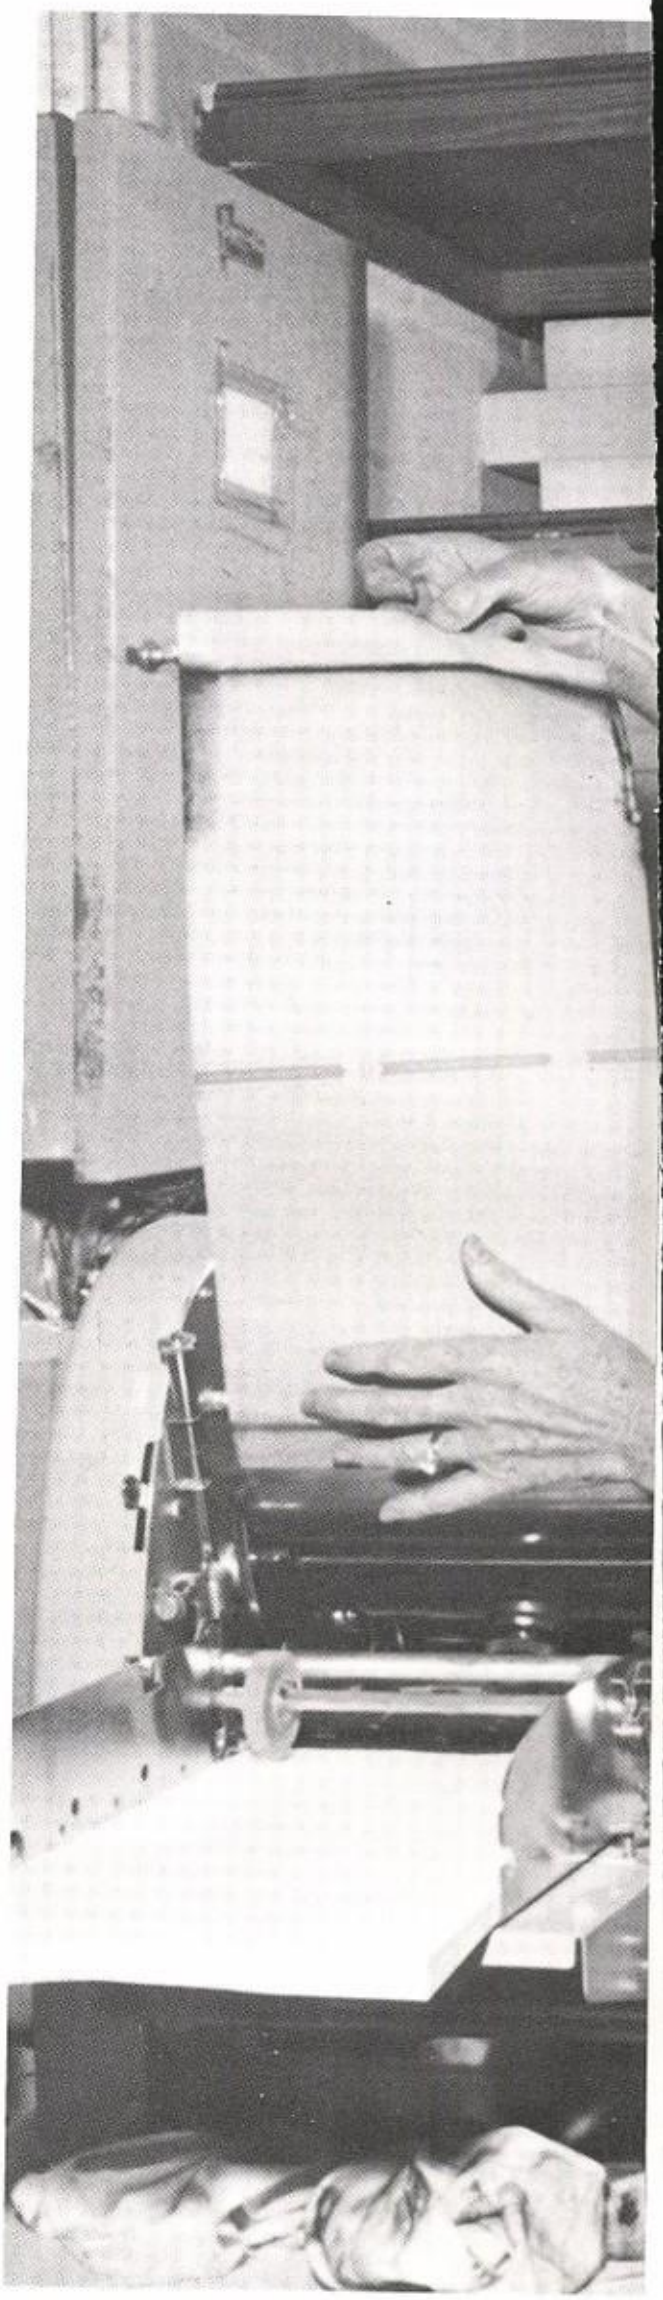
In spite of the transient values of the times and this development of individualism, there was a unity at Lee: it was the reality of Lee, 1972.



Faculty . . .

Teachers were compelled to instruct overloaded classes, yet they also attempted to reach each student, each person.

They worked with, and for, the pupil — creating a thirst for knowledge and helping to shape each's reality.

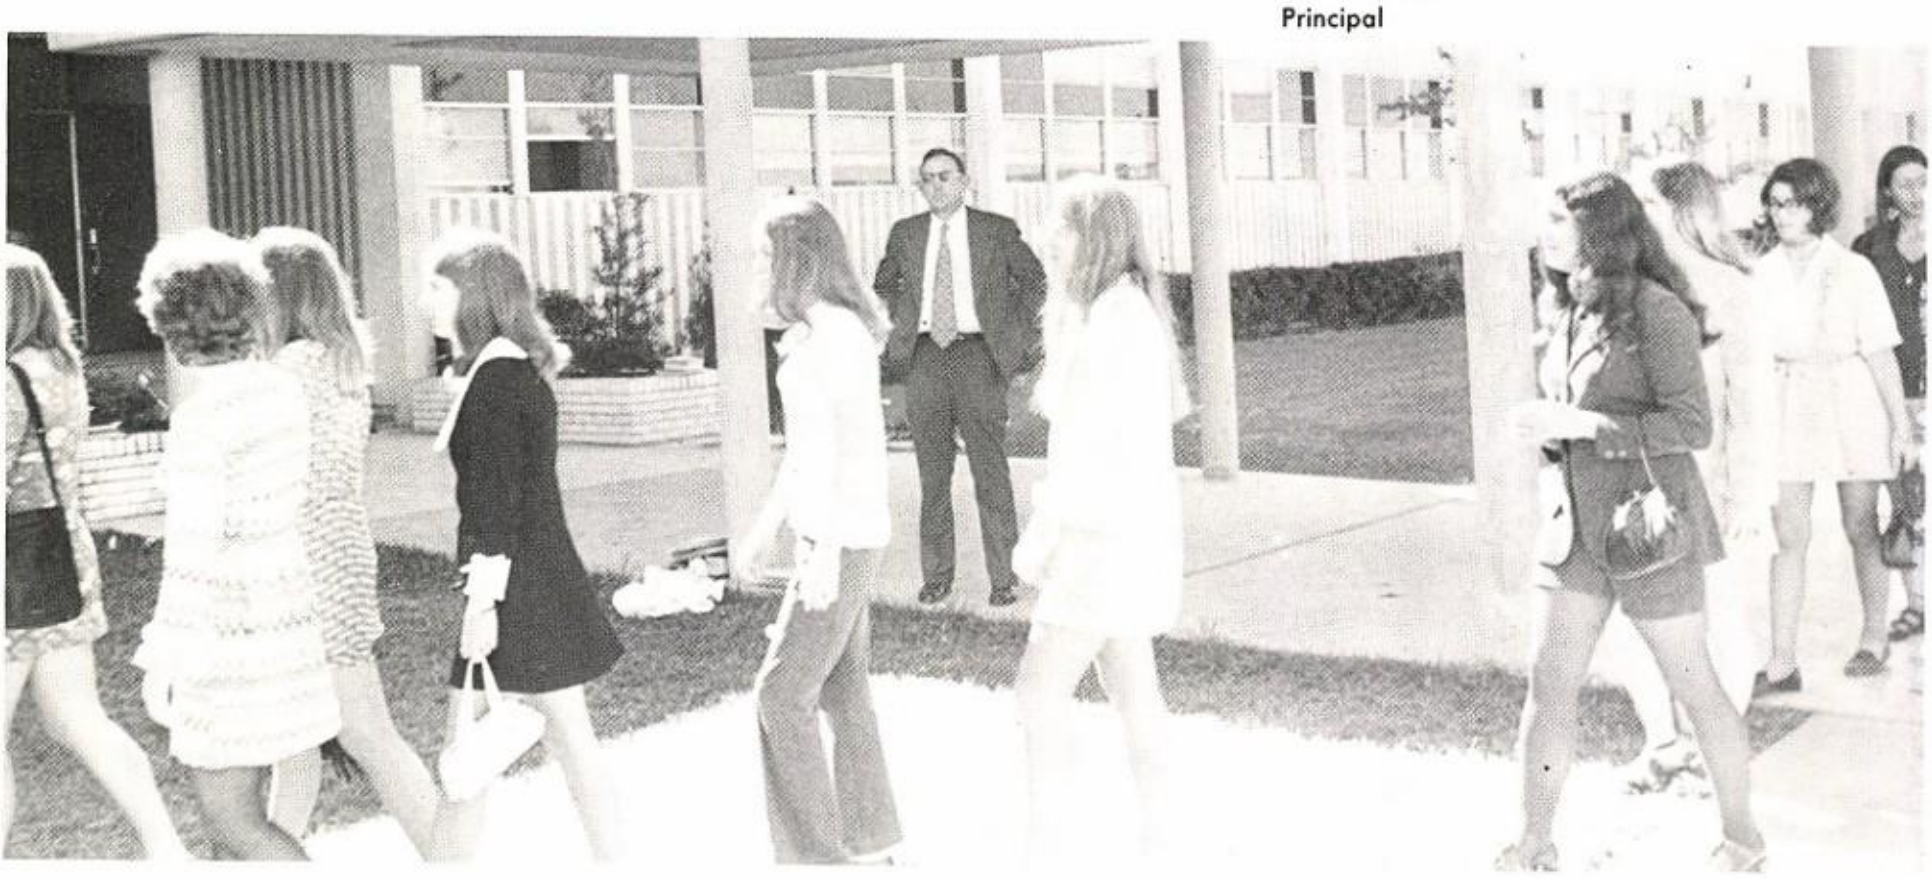
Administrators cooperated with the teacher and student: demanding more instructors, counselling, and, most of all, maintaining an open mind.

Concern Inspires Able Decisions

Despite the many vexing problems which confronted Lee's administrators this year, partly as a result of the overcrowding of classrooms, Lee's principal, Mr. J. T. Shivers, still maintained his concern for this school and its students. By suggesting a fair criterion by which students should dress and act, Mr. Shivers displayed his interest in Lee's reputation. Such a concern, which also encouraged total participation in pep rallies and football games as well as in all educational assemblies on the part of the students, was evident in all of Mr. Shivers' actions as he regularly attended athletic events, banquets, and other club activities, and actively aided the P.T.A. with its annual projects.

No matter what problems confronted him as he undertook the directing of faculty members and the setting forth of high standards for students to follow, Lee's principal was continuously willing to give of his valuable time to aid or speak with anyone, whether it be a student, parent, or faculty member. Mr. J. T. Shivers was, and is, a man concerned enough to correct and guide the students of Lee.

MR. J. T. SHIVERS
Principal



Mr. Shivers' concern and interest is most evident as he watches Lee's seniors prepare for their panoramic picture.

MRS. MARY CAROLYN SMITH
Assistant Principal

MR. JAMES COOK
Assistant Principal

MR. LUCIUS RANDLE
Assistant Principal

Having taken on the duties of assistant principal last year, Mr. Lucius Randle collaborated with Lee's other able assistant principals, Mr. James Cook and Mrs. Mary Carolyn Smith, in helping Mr. Shivers with general administration. Although they took the initiative in such taxing duties as patrolling the cafeteria and supervising Lee's physical campus, their reprimanding for tardiness or for numerous other infractions cannot be overlooked, as it is one of the disliked, but necessary, obligations of an assistant principal.

Being assiduous in their work occupied a great part of their school day, yet each found time to enjoy most of Lee's football games and various assemblies, and to attend many of the yearly banquets.

In having three assistant principals, Lee provides students with a necessary guidance which offers opportunities for more fulfilling high school lives.

To provide a basic background so that students may be fully prepared for the intense pressures which face each science student in college — this is the goal of each science teacher as he strives to inspire even the least scientifically-minded student in the fields of physical science, biology, chemistry, physiology, oceanography, and physics.

Field trips in oceanography provide an interesting activity as do the dissections of cats or pigs in physiology and majorworks biology. Students interested in chemistry are encouraged to enhance their knowledge by attending public seminars taking place throughout the year.

A science club was organized at Lee this year so that interested students could discover and experience more specialized aspects of science.

Headed by Mr. Howard Behrens, the science department continually tried to motivate the student's interest in science, of which a basic knowledge is almost essential in an increasingly technological society.

"Really, Bob, how do you ever expect to pass this course if you can't even light your own bunsen burner?" Mrs. Hunter jokes with Bob Jungman as Debbie Weyel and Mike Serant agree.

Students Attain Foundations for College

Having adopted a new textbook based on themes and writers, the English department at Lee, headed by Mrs. Velma Brennan, continually strives to instill in students an appreciation of both writing and literature. In an attempt to explore the hidden messages and themes which writers try to convey, teachers encouraged sincere discussion on the part of the students.

As each teacher endeavored to provide students with a program that would enable them to excel not only in college, but also in everyday living, most students, having been instructed in the aspects of literature and grammar, are graduated from Lee with a deeper cognizance of the English language.

Calculations Stimulate Alert Minds

Mental alertness, logical reasoning, an ingenious mind — these are a few of the prerequisites for mastering the field of mathematics. Headed by Mrs. Thera Yoes, the mathematics department at Lee seeks not to create mathematical geniuses, but to instill in each student a desire to learn to his full capacity the many measurements, properties, and relationships of symbolic quantities. Inasmuch as Lee offers related math, geometry, algebra, trigonometry, elementary analysis, analytical geometry, computer math, and calculus, each student had such opportunities.

For those interested in pursuing more complex aspects of mathematics, Mu Alpha Theta offers a challenge as students listen to informative speakers and prepare for the nationwide MAA test, in which all accelerated classes compete.

Also, to insure that each student was taught from the most modern material, a new textbook was adopted for the algebra classes.

The concern which teachers perpetuated was noticeable throughout the year as each realized mathematics was, and still is, a basic foundation in education.

Inspiring students in the realms of the past, present, and future — this is the goal which the history, government, and economics teachers at Lee strive to achieve. While influential speakers apprised economics classes of knowledge of such matters as insurance and taxes, others informed government classes of some of the many aspects of law.

History teachers, meanwhile, sought to promote an interest in material other than that studied in the classroom by bringing to each student's attention television specials and public exhibits pertaining to history. Opportunities for each teacher to enrich his knowledge of history and government were never lacking, inasmuch as each was encouraged to attend sessions such as the Freedom Foundation Seminars.

Lee's social science department, headed by Mr. Harris Butler, provided students with a wide range of courses, such as government, economics, and world, American, and English history. Ample explanation can be provided for the fact that many students graduated from Lee had the opportunity to gain a true and lasting knowledge of their country.

Mrs. Virginia Levitt, Government
University of Houston, B.S.

Languages Cultivate Diversity in Learning

Inasmuch as Lee offers a variety of foreign languages, including Spanish, French, German, Russian, and Latin, many students find it relatively easy to select the language which best accomodates both their interests and personalities. By promoting diversity in learning, the foreign language department, headed by Mr. Marshall York, motivates an interest in cultures other than our own.

The Latin Honor Society, organized at Lee for the first time this year, sought to enhance such an interest. In the special progress Spanish classes, junior and senior students concentrated on the study of authors and literature to further prepare themselves for the Advanced Placement Examination. Additionally, the National Spanish Examination provided competition with other students across the nation.

Not only in Spanish, but also in most of the other languages, contests such as poetry recitations provided a necessary innovation to perpetuate both interest and challenge for each foreign language student at Lee.

Fine arts, commercial arts, industrial arts, speech arts, and occupational programs all provide Lee students with opportunities of gaining a deeper knowledge of future careers.

Besides the distributive education program, three new occupational and continuing-education programs were offered at Lee. ICT, VOE, and CVAE exposed interested students, who still continued their high school education, to the business world.

Both the art classes in which students develop the skills of drawing, painting, and sculpturing, and the music classes from which students find expression by participating in the Dixi-Liers, Southernaires, Stage Band, Marching Generals, and Symphonic Orchestra, compose the fine arts department at Lee, headed by Mr. Henri Gadbois.

Students interested in industrial arts find inspiration from such teachers as Mr. Clark Young, the departmental chairman, while other students find their interests in vocational agriculture classes.

Some students find their personal interests in speech or debate, and other Lee students seek home economics, typing, bookkeeping, and shorthand classes to prepare them for future careers.

Thus, Lee's curriculum provides ample opportunity for each student to receive a basic background in a field particularly stimulating to him.

In an attempt to encourage the achievement of physical fitness as well as intellectual achievement, Lee requires of most of its students four years of physical education. Headed by Mrs. Ella Allen and Mr. Joe Clements, the P.E. department seeks to expose each student to the numerous activities involved in this type of education. These include volleyball, archery, modern dance, basketball, softball, badminton, and tennis for girls, and baseball, basketball, football, track, and many other activities for boys. From this broad knowledge of sports, each student decides whether or not he wants to enhance his knowledge and interest in a particular area by entering the many intramurals or by trying out for the various competitive teams.

Also, to prepare interested students for a possible military career, Lee offers an NDCC program. For those girls interested in promoting school spirit and citizenship, Lee's Lieutenants became an inspiring innovation. Wherever a student's interest may have been, each teacher sought to provide a unique challenge in the field of physical education for every Lee student.

Young Leaders . . .

In a world of shifting realities, leaders necessarily emerge — as class officers, club presidents, outstanding scholars, or initiators of class discussions.

Whether delegated or elected to the responsibilities of leadership, they must accept it and initiate spontaneity in others to formulate and accomplish goals.

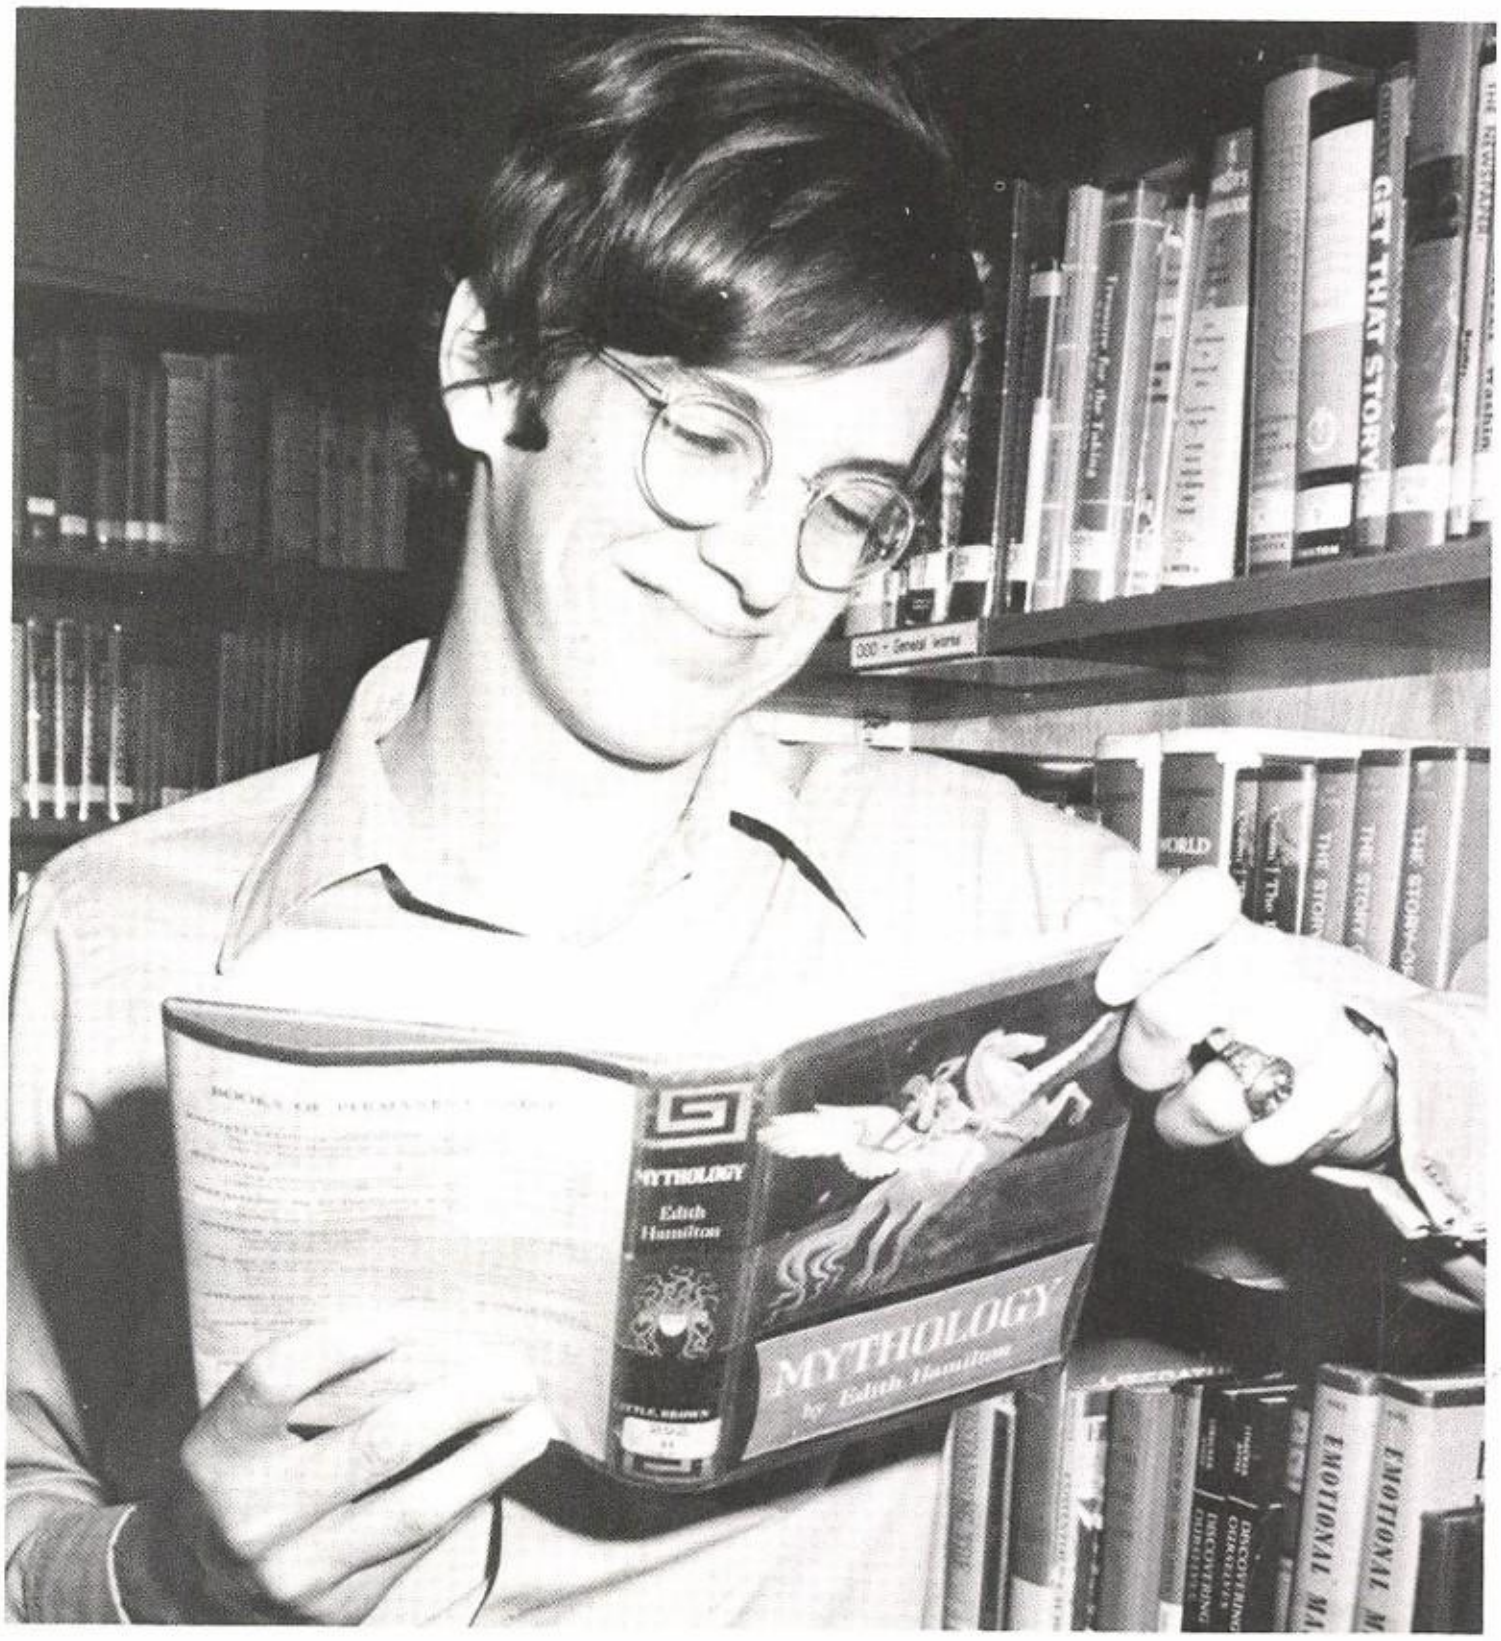
Students Prove Ability

Most of Robert E. Lee's students contribute individually to the school's activities. But, a few went beyond the call of duty in their scholarly work. These students were credited with either an award or an officer's position in a club. The activity awards are the Daughter of American Revolution Award, a government trip to Washington, and an Award for Excellence.

Kathleen Harrington had the opportunity to entertain our politicians in Washington, as winner in Congressman Bill Archer's "Intern Program."

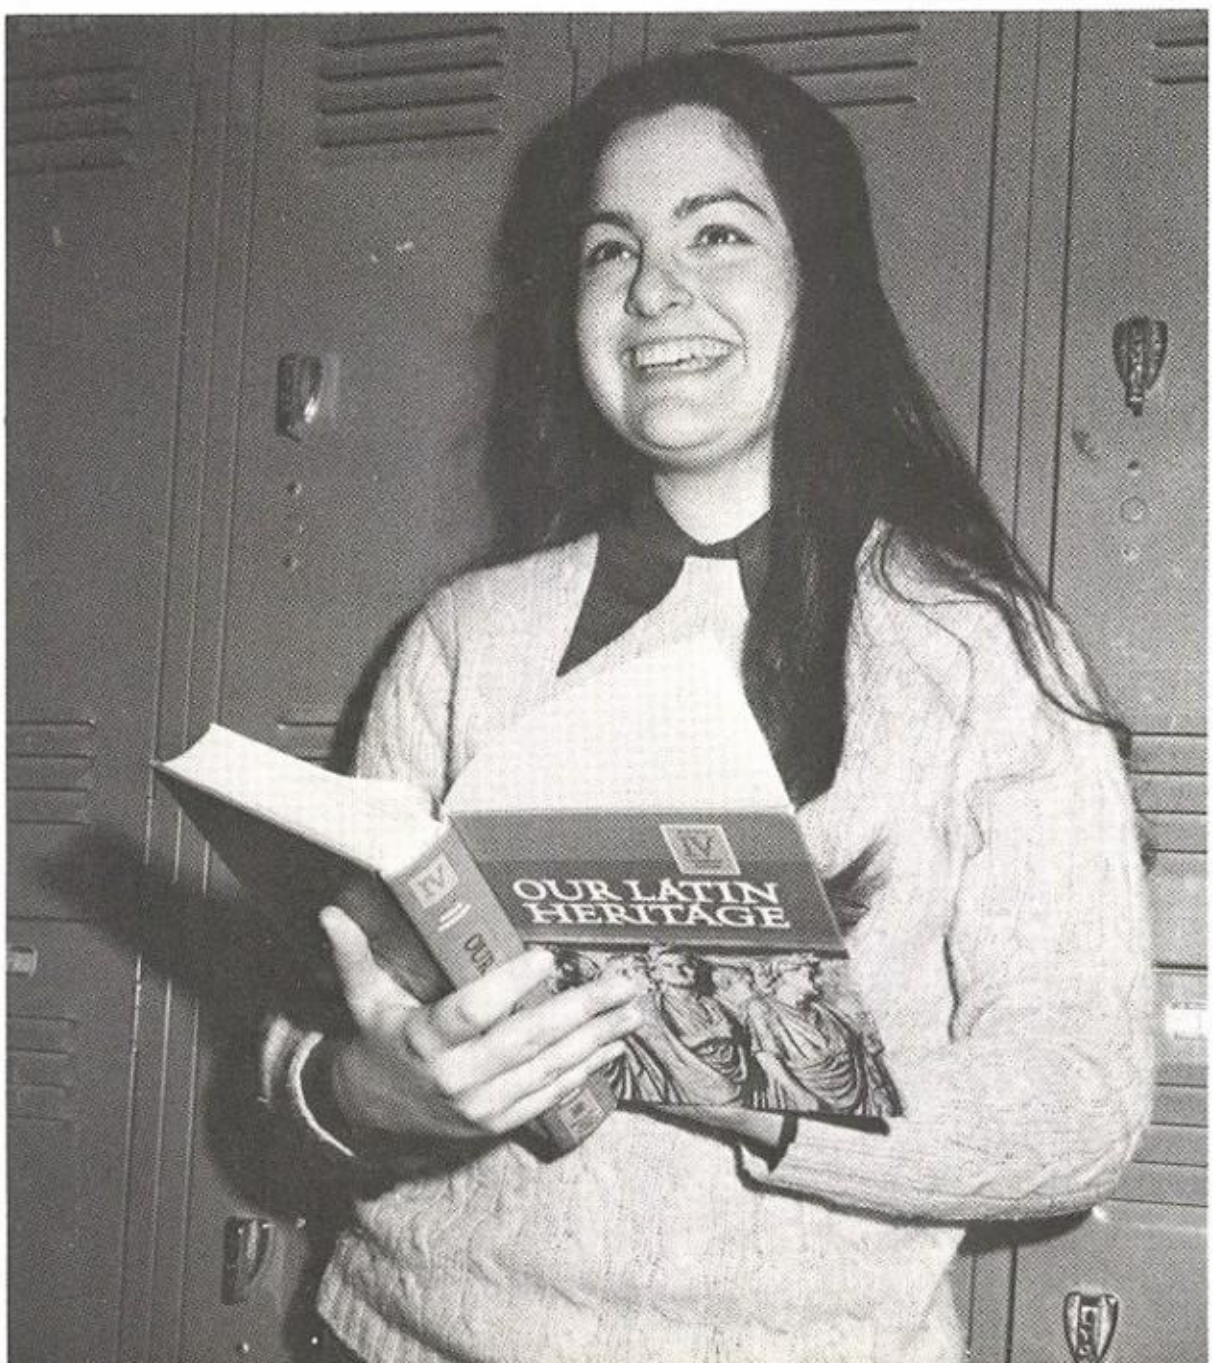
Martha Garcia, the DAR Award winner, takes a well-deserved rest from her studies.

Excellence Is Given Recognition



ENGLISH, SCIENCE, SOCIAL SCIENCE AWARD — Vernon Proctor became the first student in Lee's history to win three Awards for Excellence. He swept these awards very easily and worthily due to his work in major works English, major works physics, and economics.

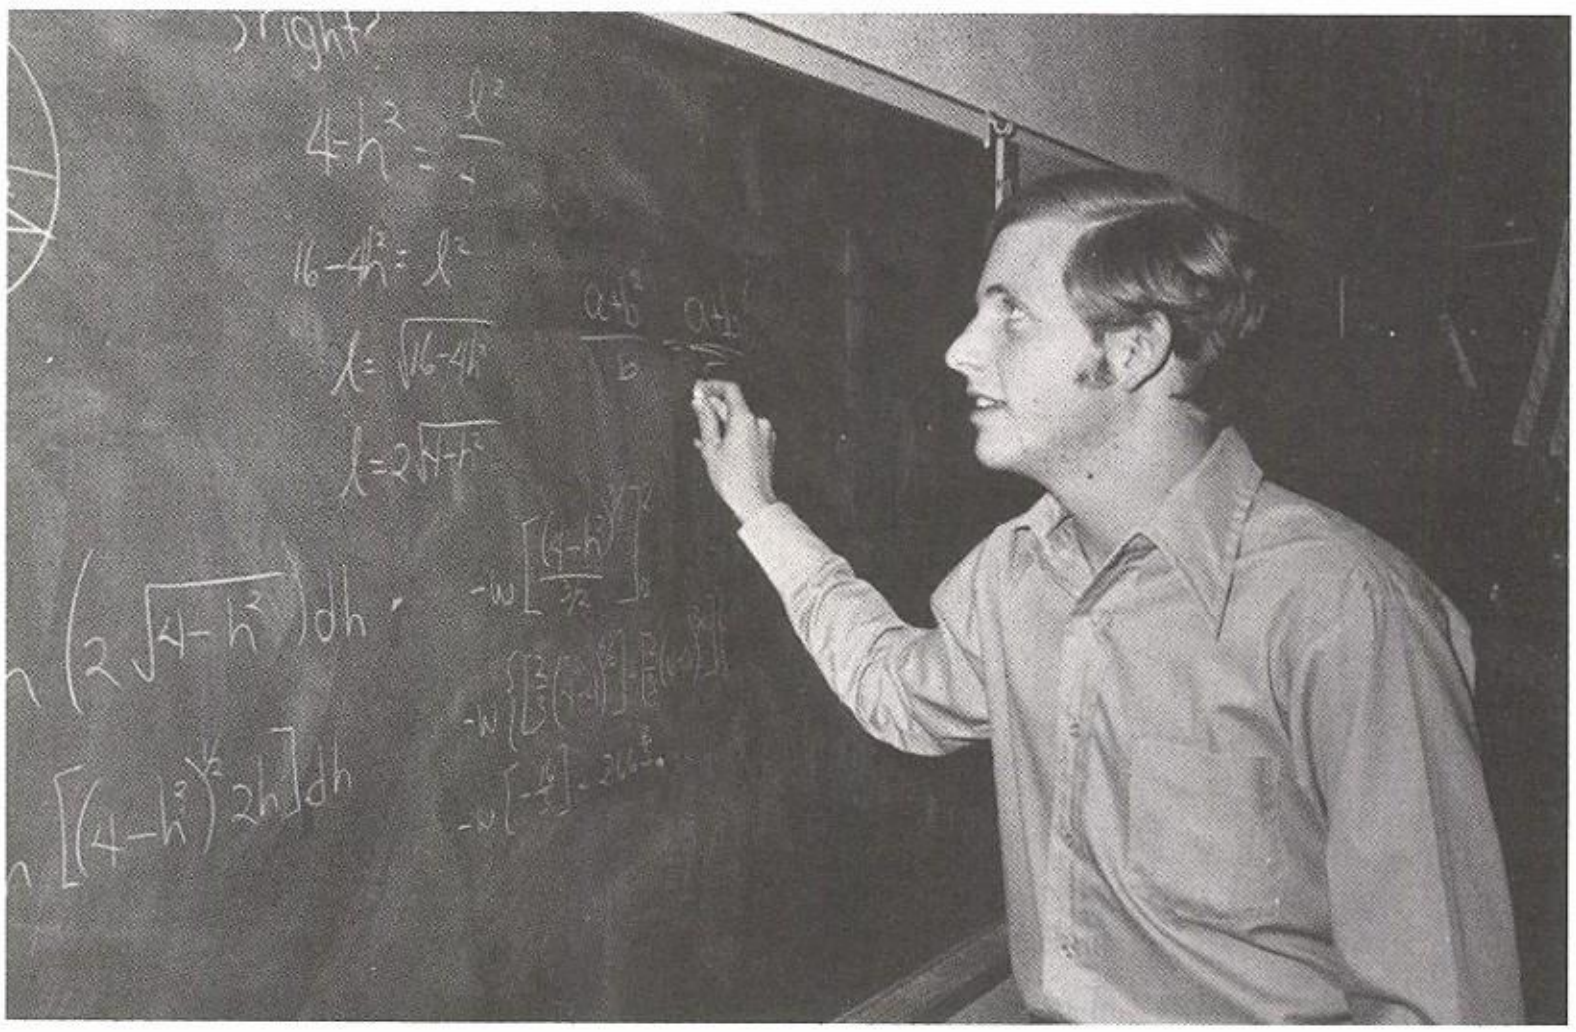
FINE ARTS AWARD — Kathi Lambert demonstrated her talent on the piano in the fine arts division in accompanying the Southernaires for two years.



Awards for Excellence are given to the students who contributed most to respective academic departments at Lee. Teachers at Lee decide the winners by their contributions and specific talents. These people are then honored by placing their names on plaques in the main hall denoting their wide work in each field of study.

LANGUAGE AWARD — Bettina Herbert, active in the music department, won an outright victory in the language department by taking four years of Latin.

HOME ECONOMICS AWARD — Janice Jenkins received this award because of her outstanding achievements in interior decorating and home and family living.

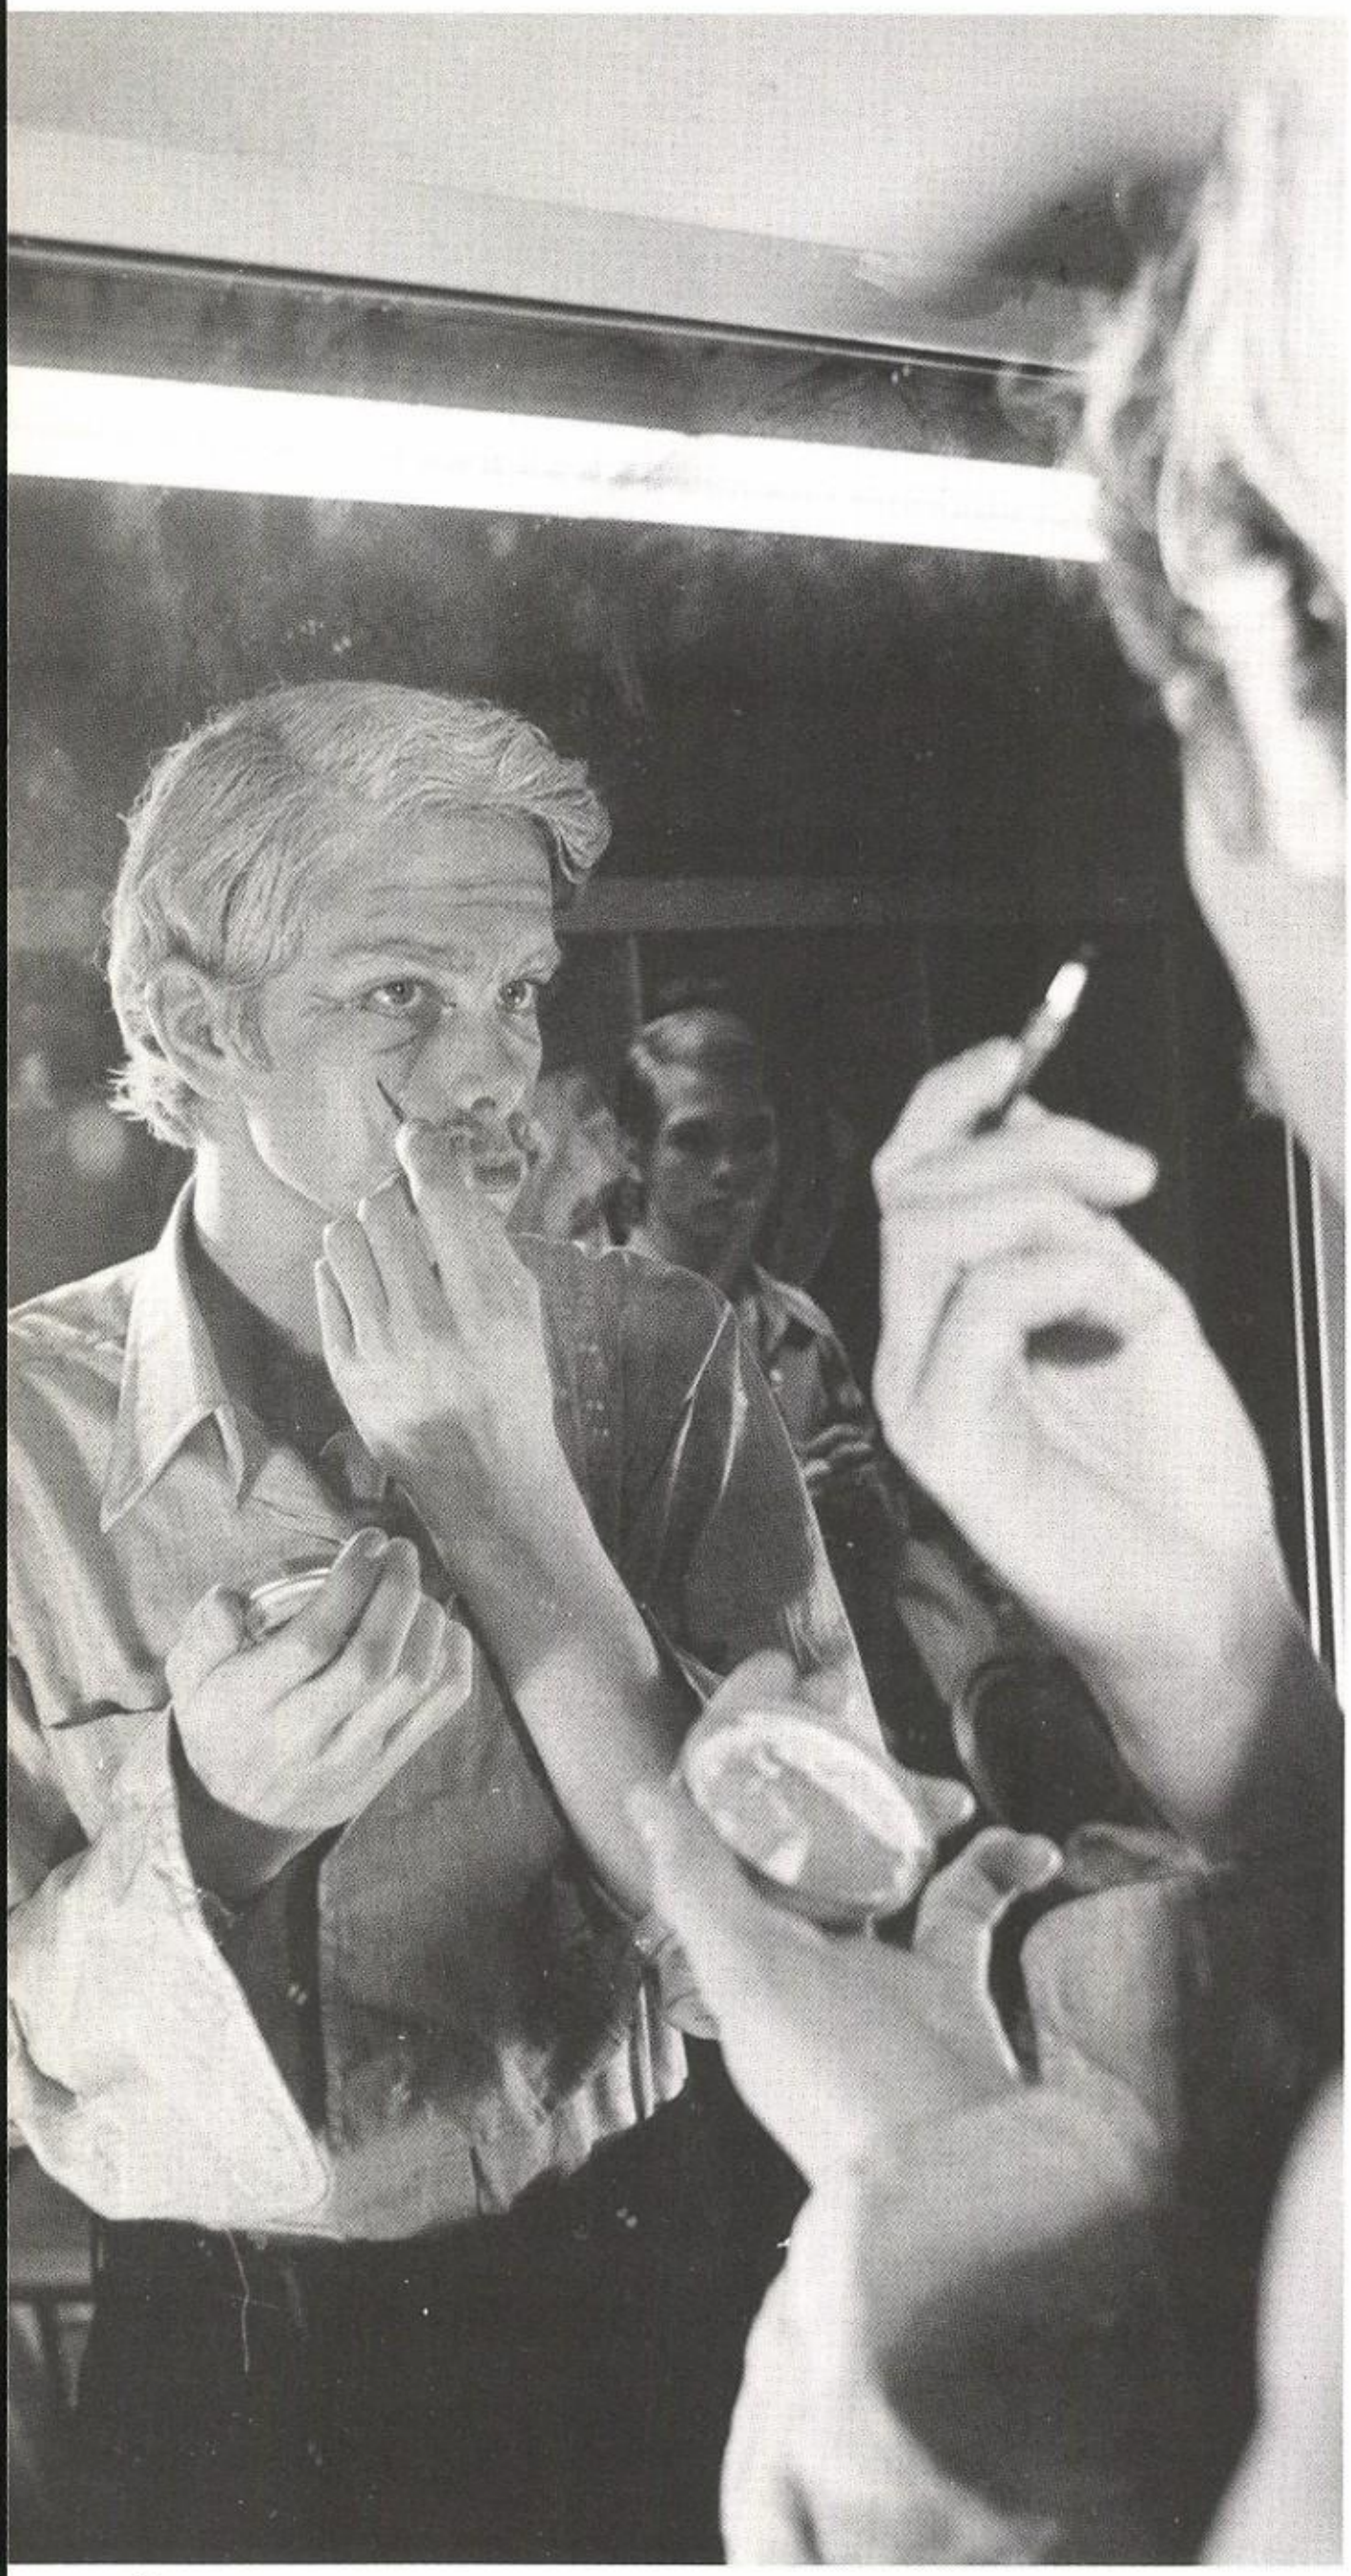


MATH AWARD — Robert Ghrist's extraordinary work in major works calculus assisted him in his winning this award.

Leeites Excell by Displaying Quality

INDUSTRIAL AWARD — Billy Ponder, a member of the Future Farmers of America, earned this award as a resourceful agricultural student.

COMMERCIAL AWARD — Marsha Doyle achieved the Commercial Award for her efforts in the distributive education program.



Organizations . . .

Joining an organization and participating in its activities is sharing a common interest with other people.

Trying for a club meant work to some, but to others "work" was a four-letter word.

Guiding, not telling, leaders of these clubs — honorary, service, vocational, or educational — must direct, and be directed by members.

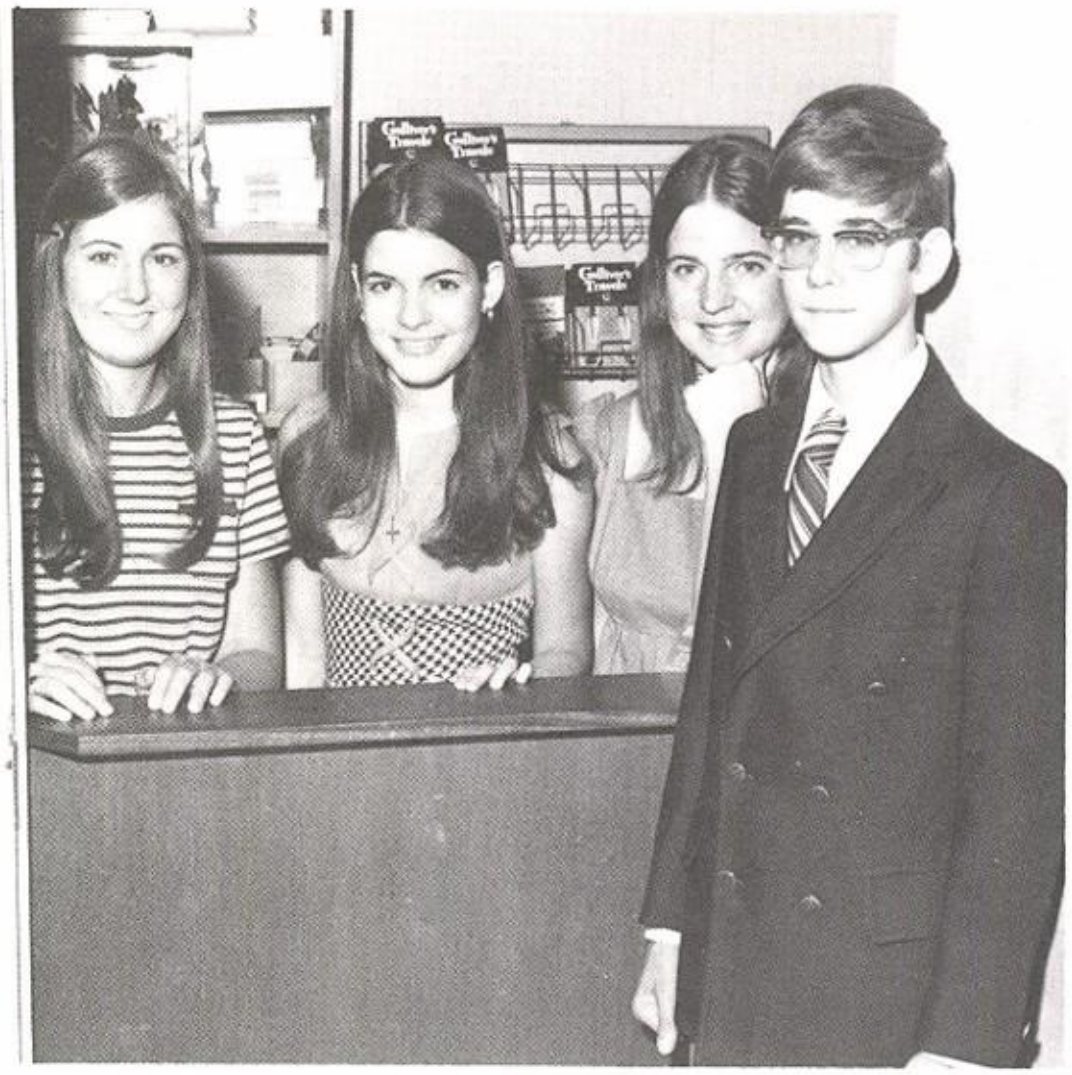
Teamwork Makes Store Efficient

Keeping students and teachers supplied with articles ranging from paper and pens to novels and cough drops is the major responsibility of the American Legion Club, sponsored by Mrs. Velma Brennan.

Members of this club daily operate Lee's Generals' Store before school and during all three lunch periods. Cough drops again made the best seller's list as many Leeites include cough drops as part of their daily diets.

This year the Legionnaires' special project was repainting the store in bright new colors — yellow and green.

To be qualified for membership in the organization, a student must be a winner or runner-up of the American Legion Award in junior high, maintain a "B" grade average and "E" conduct average, and must indicate a loyalty to service.



Eagerly awaiting their next customers are officers Pat McBride, treasurer; Pam Kostas, vice-president; Cathryn Brown, secretary; and Charles Cope, president.

Anchors Offer Community Aid

Welcoming students to Lee by sponsoring Sophomore Orientation, the fifty members of Anchor Club began an active year of service to their school and community.

In the fall, the group organized Clean-up Day, a Thanksgiving basket project for a needy family, and the Christmas door contest. They contributed to the Christmas Goodfellows Fund and sang carols to the aged at Blalock West. In the spring, Anchors sponsored Law Day, Career Day, a March of Dimes drive, and a picnic for children at Burnett Bayland Home.

Throughout the school year, club members also entertained children at TAR's (Teens' Aid to the Retarded) and tutored children at Burnett Bayland twice a week.

From March 23-26 one junior girl had the chance to go to Valley Forge, Pennsylvania to attend a national workshop for the Anchor and Pilot Clubs of America.

Membership in this girls' honor service organization is open to a limited number of girls with a 3.6 grade average and "E" in conduct who exhibit superior qualities of scholarship, leadership, character, and service. Mrs. Mary Jane Comstock sponsors Anchor Club.

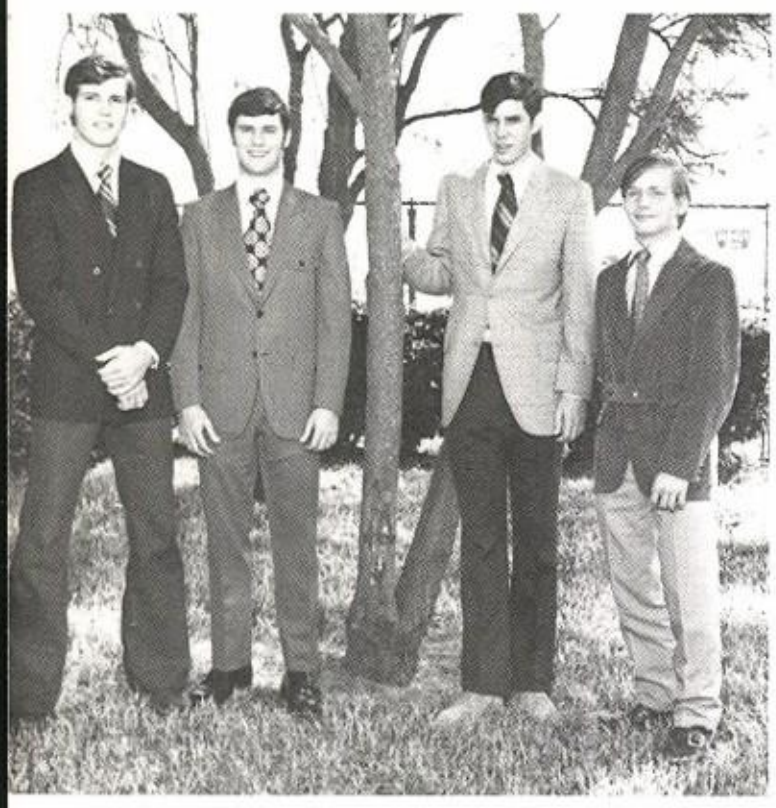
Working at TAR's sometimes means monkeying around for Anchor Club officers: Pam Kostas, treasurer; Linda Wittig, junior director; Evelyn Bumstead, historian; Georgia Kostas, president; Stacy Broun, senior director; Patty Hayes, secretary; Linda Crooker, vice-president; and Betsy Sengelmann, chaplain.

Keys Unlock Future

Sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Western Houston, the Key Club is a boys' service organization. Qualifications for membership include a 3.2 grade average and "G" conduct average.

At Christmastime, club members sponsored a party for underprivileged children at Rusk Settlement House. In January, they participated in a successful March of Dimes drive. The boys also sold grapefruit as their yearly project.

To add to school spirit, Key Club members sponsored an imaginative pep rally and aided in building the bonfire for the Lee vs. Smiley football game. Mr. Pirtle sponsors this organization.



Club activities are the key concern of Key Club officers — Mike O'Reilly, treasurer; Greg Frazier, president; Cam Lange, vice-president; and Winston Cochran, secretary.

New members — Row 1: Keith Montgomery, Bill Thomas, Roy Buckley, Dick Eastland. Row 2: Edward Breland, Randy Keeney, Tommy Ford, Bill Boss, Mark Miller, Bill Fisher.

Attaining the highest standards of scholarship, leadership, and character at Robert E. Lee are the members of the National Honor Society. Twice a year, a faculty committee chooses five percent of the seniors and high juniors on the basis of these qualities. At an April P.T.A. meeting, all new members were inducted.

Club members aided other Lee students by sponsoring tutoring sessions on Thursday mornings in the library and by helping with the organization of Career Day in April. The group also participated in the annual Heart Fund Drive.

Mrs. Arlene Parson sponsors this club.

Lynn Vance and Marcia Adam try to talk Miss Haynes into some extra honor points.

Hospitality has been defined as the cordial and generous reception of guests — this is just one of the many responsibilities of Lee's Hospitality Club. Besides welcoming all guests, the club also encourages citizenship and leadership in the cafeteria, supports all school projects, and ushers at all school functions.

With the help of its sponsors Miss Betty Baldwin, Miss Charlotte Haynes, and Mrs. Patlee Womack, the club became involved in many worthwhile projects such as giving a Thanksgiving basket to a deserving family, having a Christmas party for underprivileged children, and sending care packages to the men in Viet Nam for Easter. The club also sponsored clean-up day and a fund-raising project on St. Patrick's Day, honored teachers on their birthdays, held a banquet in honor of old officers, and gave a SABER signing party.

Meetings are held at 7:30 on the first and third Wednesdays of each month. Each student in the club must maintain an "E" conduct average and a 3.0 grade average.

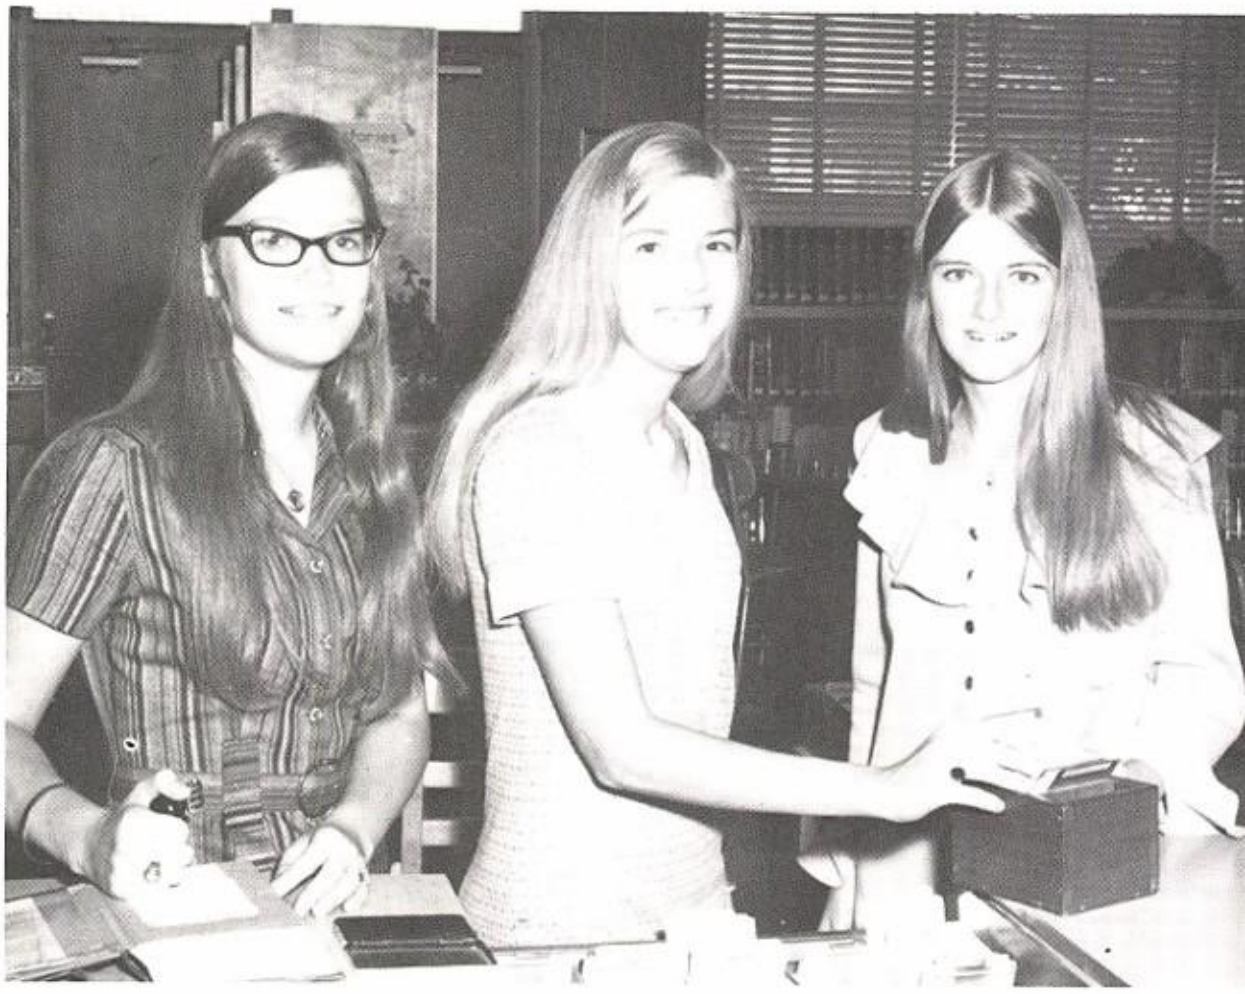
Bookkeepers Maintain Order

Keeping order and aiding students in the library are the primary functions of the Library Club. Composed of students with an interest in library work, club members work in the school library one period each day, before school, or at least one day a week after school.

Aiding the school librarians, Mrs. Spidell and Mrs. Gallagher, the members maintain an atmosphere of organization in the library. They shelve books, repair magazines, fix special displays in the showcase, and decorate the library at Christmas. Besides these and other regular tasks, club members also take part in special extracurricular activities — they attend city, district, and state meetings and serve as hosts and hostesses at Houston meetings.

Without these conscientious students, the efficiency and organization of the library could be impaired.



Working hard to keep Lee's library well-organized are Library Club officers Marsha Doyle, vice-president; Patricia Foster, secretary-treasurer; Terry Manning, president.

Leading Lee s outstanding journalists are Quill and Scroll officers Claudia Holcomb, secretary; Barbara Beale, reporter; Linda Crooker, president; Stacy Broun, treasurer; and Debbie Brown, vice-president.

Students Aid Communication

Robert E. Lee's chapter of the Quill and Scroll Society honors students for outstanding journalistic achievements. Membership is based upon the amount of written material published and advertising sold.

Combining their efforts, the members of this organization, sponsored by Mrs. Losson, served to aid the progress of communication at Lee by publishing a literary issue of the TRAVELER.

To be eligible for membership, SABER staff members must have served on the staff for at least one year. TRAVELER staff members must have published a minimum of sixty inches of editorial writing or have sold one hundred twenty inches of advertising. Members must also have a "B" grade average and "E" in conduct.

"General" Enthusiasm Generates Spirit

Planning pep rallies, painting posters, decorating the auditorium, and "wrapping" football boys' houses before each game are only a few of the many activities of the Spirit Committee. No grade requirements are specified, but each member must be willing to spend time helping to boost the morale of the Lee student body.

Under the guidance of Mr. Dale Glover and Miss Doris Countée, these enthusiastic students support all school activities and keep Leeites informed of sports events such as track meets and football, basketball, baseball, and volleyball games.

The annual cookie sale and car wash helped raise money needed for decorating supplies — poster paper, paints, brushes, and tape.

By working hard to generate an enthusiastic school spirit, the Spirit Committee achieved its "General" goal.

These spirited supporters are Booster Club officers "Uncle Bob" Gribble, president, and Jane Livingston, secretary-treasurer.

While Spirit Committee chairman Wissie Slator insists only action will make the South rise again, Doug Bratton, vice-president in charge of Uncle Bob, still wants peace.

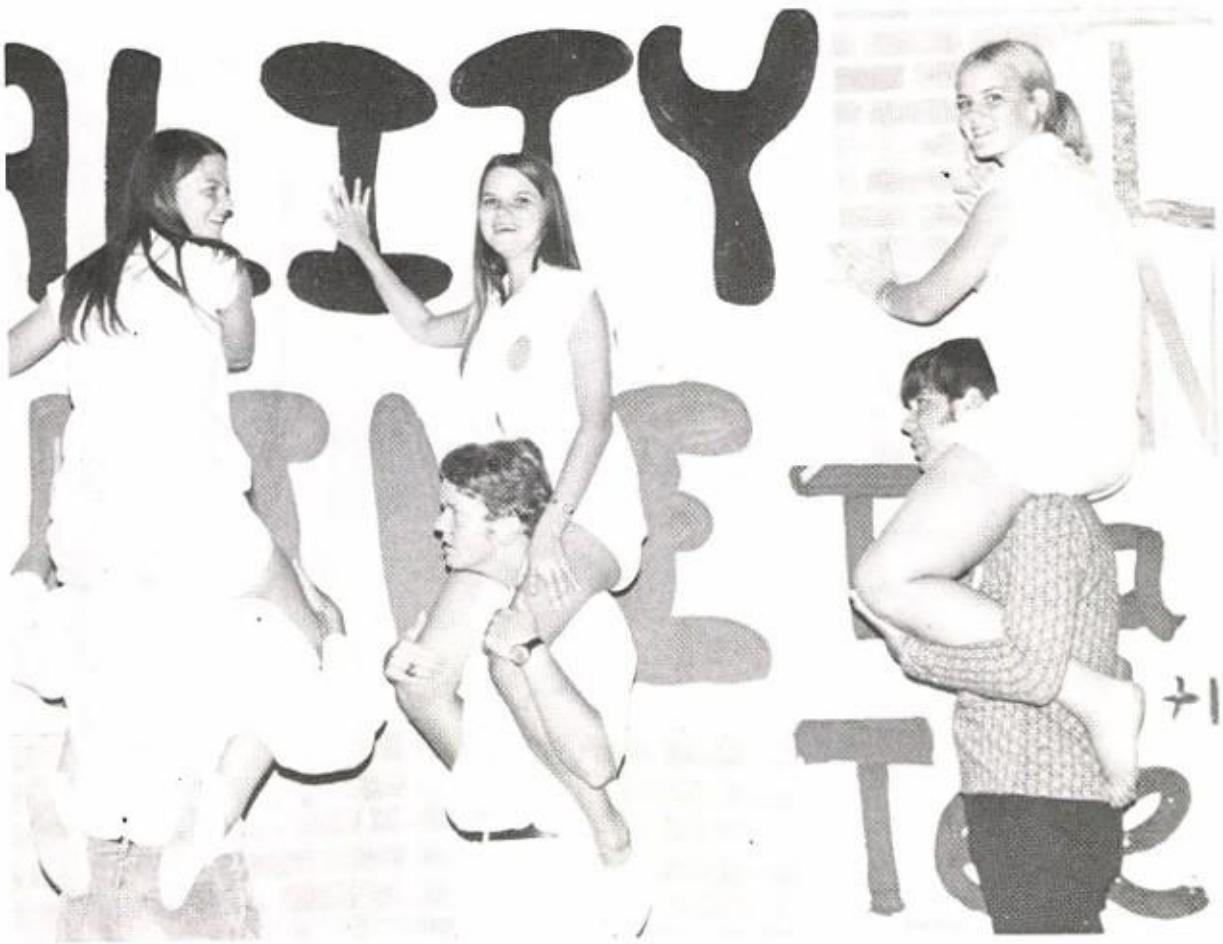
Jim Otis wonders if Favors Committee Chairman Lander Philips will finally be the one to pin him down.

The ingenious works of the Spirit Committee are seen at a pep rally like the Lee-Lamar biggie.



Brownlee Ferguson, Bob Gribble, and John Genge shoulder a big load at Lee — specifically Jackie Bang, Judy Bang, and Joann Thompson.

With an "s," with an "e," with an "x, x, x." Lisa Clarke, Skits Committee Chairman, demonstrates one of her best ideas for a skit.

Lander Philips, Susan Moss, Wissie Slator, Gretchen Curry, and Marty Shelton react with mixed emotions as Poster Committee Chairman Melinda Fugitt demonstrates her plans for the next "Fugitt Original" poster.

Students Voice Ideas

Serving as the voice of the students, the Robert E. Lee Student Council is the communication link between Lee's faculty, school administrators, and student body.

All students are encouraged to participate in school government by attending open liaison committee meetings held on the third Thursday of every month. At these meetings anyone may discuss any opinions on various school matters with the student council and its sponsor, Mrs. Arlene Parson.

Composed of one elected representative from each homeroom, the council supervises all school elections, issues a monthly calendar of school activities, and raises funds for an all-school project. This year's project was the installation of a stereo system in the cafeteria.

Keeping a general outlook on student ideas are officers Wissie Slator, treasurer; Brownlee Ferguson, president; Stacy Broun, secretary; and Jeff Wherry, vice-president.

Boys Provide Secret Security

Going to all heights to protect Uncle Bob are — Row 1: John Stegall, Bruce Vay, Randy Davies, Brian Jaehne, James Pratka, Allen Lormand. Row 2: Louis Schain, Patrick Humphrey, Frank Bonno, Doug Bratton, Mike Orf, Brad Sweetman, Reynaldo Garza, and Mr. Dale Glover.

Escorting the gallant Uncle Bob on stage at pep rallies, transporting him to and from football games, and faithfully guarding him at sports events are the vigilant Uncle Bob's Boys. Under the guidance of Mr. Dale Glover, these dedicated boys meet before every game to decide how to provide secret security for Lee's mascot.

Without the aid of this group, Uncle Bob might have been scalped when held hostage by the Lamar Redskins on October 29.

Tired of supporting a falling poster as they prepare for the next pep rally, Doug Bratton, Pat Humphrey, and James Pratka groan as Bruce Vay threatens to throw away the last roll of tape.

One Way Unites Students

Officers of CSU are: Debbie Marquis, secretary-treasurer; Mary Lynn Chandler, program chairman; Peggy Stephens, historian; Marsha Doyle, vice-president. Seated: DeAnn Lechtenberger, president.

Encouraging Christian fellowship in school and at home is one of the main functions of the Christian Student Union. Members of this club realize the advantages of "building bridges" in life by uniting all groups in Christ.

The special projects planned to bring CSU members closer together are a folk group entitled "The One Way Singers," Christmas caroling, and joint meetings and programs with CSU groups from other schools. Starting off many Tuesday mornings with inspiring messages were past CSU presidents, folk singers, doctors, and other speakers. Sponsored by Mr. Edward Adams, the club meets every Tuesday morning at 7:45.

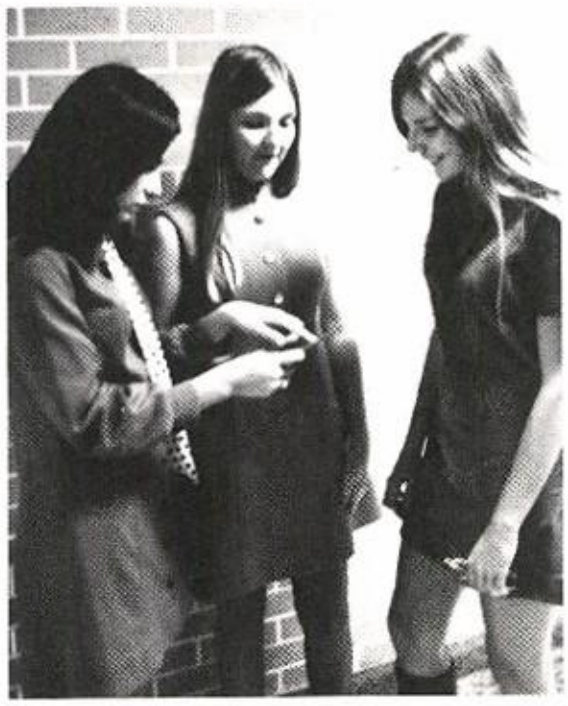
MAΘ Zeroes in on Math

Solving club problems, as well as math problems, are Mu Alpha Theta officers: Georgia Kostas, secretary; Martha Garcia, vice-president; Charles Cope, reporter; Vernon Proctor, president; and Robert Ghrist, treasurer.



"See, right here you'll be able to find all the answers to your homework," comment Martha Garcia and Jeanne Hoffman as they try to persuade Rhonda Virgil to buy a geometer.

Every first and third Friday morning at 7:30, the doors of Lee are open to members of Mu Alpha Theta. Students who have completed four semesters of college preparatory mathematics, maintain an overall "B" average, and are enrolled in the fifth semester are eligible for membership.

Aided by their sponsor, Mrs. Thera Yoes, the club promotes scholarship in, as well as enjoyment and understanding of, mathematics.

Geometers and trig tables were sold as a fund-raising project so that the math department could purchase a math typewriter. Club members attended the Mu Alpha Theta Convention at Houston Baptist College in January and a contest at Waltrip on February 5th, and took the Math Association of America Test in March. The year ended with the annual banquet and installation of new officers.

"I hope they don't notice that I've sewn the sleeve on backwards," murmurs Diane Lonsdale as she learns the fundamentals of sewing.

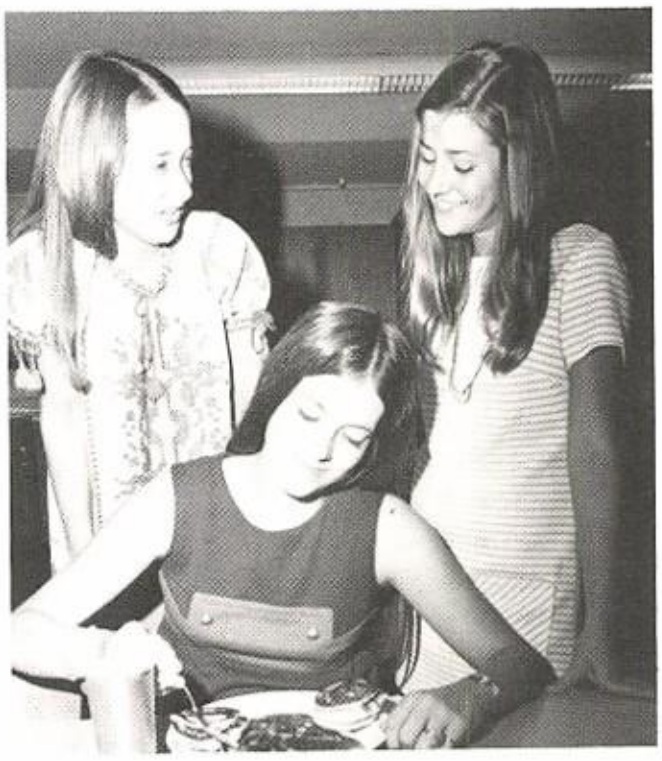
"Next crack about my food, Donna, and I'll make you eat it!" quips Marilyn Young to Donna Derkowski as Katie Gibbons looks on.

"Suzanne, about that cake of yours . . . I think it's alive!" yells Carlton Stelter to Suzanne Bullock.

Vice-Presidents: Janet Wise, Debbie Triggs, Bobbi Schneider, Curley Mae Green.

Food and Fashion Fascinate Homemakers

Officers: Sandra Mangrum, president; Sharon Petersson, secretary-treasurer; Joy Cumley, historian; Ann Denton, reporter.



"It's either a pancake or an amoeba, if it starts multiplying, kill it!" reply Becky Burkhart and Mary Lynn Bain to Suzanne Pence.

Class Chairmen — Standing: Wissie Slator, Pat McMahon, Cynthia DeGeorge. Seated: Jim Callahan, Sandra Mangrum.

To most girls, becoming a resourceful homemaker is an accomplishment. Learning difficult lessons and trying firsthand experiences are all a part of this preparation, but the work always seems to pay off as girls learn to apply their skills in cooking, sewing, interior decorating, budgeting, and other household chores.

Speakers from Foley's, Houston Lighting and Power Company, Sanborn's Travel Agency, and a hobby shop spoke on topics ranging from food and fashion to travel and handicrafts.

Many girls also served as hostesses at different businessmen's luncheons in the city and at the faculty breakfast at Christmas.

By selling Christmas wrapping paper and cookbooks, the Home Economics Club was able to add a Bernina sewing machine to its classroom. The year was ended with the annual banquet held on April 5.

Developing students' interest in Texas history through discussion, travel, and study are the major aims of the Texas History Club, sponsored by Mrs. Virginia Levitt. Members planned a historical field trip to Austin and participated in the Texas Historical Research and Writings Competition.

Meetings are held on the first Thursday of every month and all students at Lee are invited to attend. The banquet and installation of officers was held in May.

Deutsch Verein provides students with many opportunities to acquire or further their knowledge of the German language and culture. German films and lectures by representatives from the German Consulate gave club members an insight into German history and customs.

Authentic German foods were sampled at the November Wurstfest and the January food-tasting party with other language clubs at Lee.

At Christmas, the group learned German Christmas carols which they sang at Texas Children's Hospital. This activity, plus entertainment provided by the German Band, exposed members to German music.

Springtime found the German Club preparing for the German play which was presented at Lee and at the Texas Association of German Students convention held in Austin, Texas. The German Band enlivened the play, club banquet, and picnic held in May.

Mrs. H. E. Thomas sponsors the club.

Students Enjoy Taste of French Culture

Les Fleurs de Lee, Lee's French Club, promotes a broader knowledge of and a greater appreciation for the French culture.

Various educational presentations, such as a "slide preview" from France and a speaker from the French restaurant, Foulard's, aided club members in their understanding of French customs and language.

Adding to their diverse activities, French Club members held two parties to celebrate Bastille Day and Mardi Gras. They also sponsored a November faculty breakfast and a food-tasting party with other language clubs in January.

In May, dinner at the Swiss Chalet was enjoyed by Les Fleurs de Lee, sponsored by Mrs. M. R. Peterson.

"No, girls! Put the muffins from the box to the tray — not the tray to the box," instructs Mrs. Peterson as Wendy Crain, Donna Wells, and Melissa Kennedy prepare for the November faculty breakfast.

"You bet we have a taste for French culture," assure French Club officers — Seated: Paula Kelley, historian; Louise Brown, program chairman; Lisa Clarke, treasurer; Donna D. Wells, president. Standing: Jane Livingston, historian; Tweety Albritton, secretary.

¡Viva México!

Students who are interested in the Spanish culture are members of Lee's Spanish Club, sponsored by Mrs. Maxine Dorsey.

To perpetuate this interest, the club heard a Bolivian speaker, held favor parties in November, and visited St. Anthony's senior citizens to present the favors and to sing Spanish Christmas carols. The club also gave presents to the Key Club to take to underprivileged children for Christmas. In March, the group sponsored a field trip to San Antonio. The annual banquet and installation of new officers was held in May.

"If you want to find out what's really inside this piñata, come to our next Spanish fiesta," invite Spanish Club officers Jackie Bang, vice-president; Judy Bang, president; and Janet McCormick, secretary-treasurer.

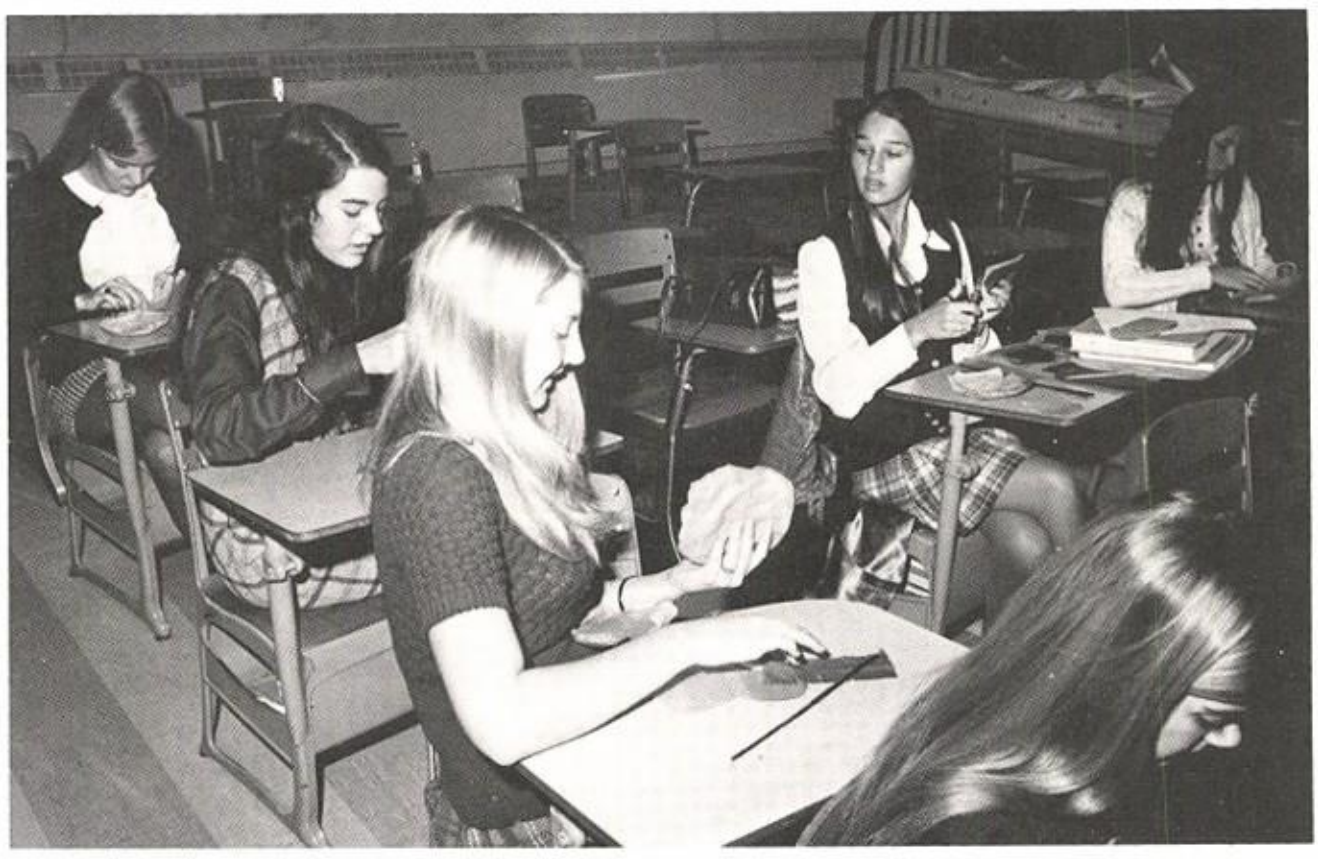
"Hey, I think I've just discovered a new species of flowers!" exclaims Jackie Bang as she unfolds a new creation for a resident at St. Anthony's.



Lynn Vance wonders if her method of making flowers is as good as that of Patricia Foster, Leigh Smitherman, Jennifer Bily, Sharon Wiggins, and Jill Sangree as they make flowers for St. Anthony's.

L.H.S. Honors Latin Students

October 1971 brought a new club to Lee to honor outstanding students in Latin — the Latin Honor Society. To be eligible for membership, students must maintain a "B" grade average and an "E" in conduct and complete two years of Latin or be presently enrolled in a Latin course.

Primary goals set by this selected group are to foster the development of academic standards in Latin and to be of service to Lee.

Mrs. Walleah Tennyson is the club's sponsor.

Russians Battle Germans

To learn more about the language, customs, and culture of Russia, many students join the Russian Club, sponsored by Mrs. Charlotte Outlaw.

Speakers, films, and various projects familiarize the club members with Russia, and the annual Food-Tasting Party provides a special taste of Russian life to the adventurous.

Highlighting 1972 was another exciting volleyball tournament played between the German and Russian Club members.

Learning about free enterprise in the business world is a daily experience for DECA officers — Marsha Doyle, historian; Corrine Kelly, vice-president; Janet Brower, parliamentarian; Steve Norwood, president; Sherri Schuler, secretary; Laura Campbell, treasurer; Lady Washington, reporter.

Many students enrolled in a distributive education class at Lee join a national youth organization known as the Distributive Education Clubs of America, or DECA. The purpose of this club, sponsored by Mr. Kelly Ritch, is to develop leaders in the fields of marketing and distributing.

Students include one D.E. class in their daily schedules, and then leave school early to receive on-the-job training at their respective jobs.

Besides completing a project involving seven studies in marketing, many DECA students attended area and state Youth Leadership Conferences and an employer-employee banquet at the Astro-Hotel.

To be eligible for membership in DECA, a student must maintain a "C" grade average and "E" conduct average and have a good attendance record. Meetings are held on the first Tuesday night of every month.

Girls Receive Office Training

Today there is an increasingly large demand for experienced businessmen and women. The Office Education Association, sponsored by Mrs. Rena Aldrich, provides students at Lee with office training and encourages citizenship and social development among other qualities essential to a superior office worker.

Students with an interest in office occupations or those enrolled in Vocational Office Education classes are qualified to join O.E.A. Club members attend school half a day and then leave to work in offices in the city. Their activities in O.E.A. also included attending three Youth Leadership Conferences in April and May and an employer-employee banquet in April.

Through active participation in this club, students gain a valuable insight into the business world.

These O.E.A. officers, learning to work with efficiency and accuracy, are — Seated: Cindy Miller, treasurer; Helen Sage, vice-president. Standing: Laura Schissler, president; Carol Hill, parliamentarian; Rhonda Breuer, secretary; and Claron Soukup, reporter-historian.

VICA Offers Vocational Training

Leading their peers in vocational training programs are V.I.C.A. officers Tom Saxenian, secretary; Terry McMullin, treasurer; Buddy Reed, parliamentarian; Carter Smith, president; Sandy Kolhauff, club sweetheart; Tom Jurancich, sergeant-at-arms; Court Greer, reporter; and Cody Barron, vice-president.

By planning and executing approved social and civic projects, members of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America are able to gain valuable leadership qualities by serving their community. Under the guidance of Mr. James Nix, students are trained in vocational skills and given the opportunity to demonstrate their knowledge of craftsmanship and guidance skills by competing in state-wide contests and by holding jobs in their local community.

V.I.C.A. members enjoyed an employer-employee banquet in April, a class picnic in the spring, and a program given by junior members at the end of school to honor and entertain graduated seniors.

Students Get A Taste Of Medicine

Open to all interested students at Lee, the Medical Careers Club explores the many fascinating aspects of medicine. Under the guidance of their officers and sponsor, Mrs. Coleman, these medically-minded students are familiarized with a knowledge and understanding of the opportunities present in the medical field.

Helping them to wisely choose professional or vocational careers in medicine, interesting field trips and informative speakers provided the students with excellent programs throughout the year. Field trips included visits to the Baylor Medical School, M. D. Anderson Tumor and Cancer Research Institute, Texas Rehabilitation Center, and Texas Research Institute of Mental Sciences. Speakers from Texas Women's College and the San Jacinto T.B. and Respiratory Disease Association gave impressive lectures to the group.

The club ended another year with its annual banquet and installation of new officers in May.

"We're behind you all the way, Linda," assure Medical Careers officers Neil McCoy, vice-president; Beth Borden, historian; Sandra Mangrum, secretary-treasurer; and sponsor Mrs. Carolyn Coleman to Linda Wittig, president (in wheelchair).

FFA Trains Tomorrow's Leaders

Those who are enrolled in a vocational agriculture class are qualified to become members of Lee's chapter of the Future Farmers of America. Sponsored by Mr. Roy Sheffield, the F.F.A. strives to help agricultural students develop leadership, cooperation, and citizenship. These farmers of tomorrow work together for the improvement of agriculture and the betterment of local communities.

F.F.A. activities encourage members to learn through active participation how to conduct and take part in public meetings, how to speak in public, and how to buy and sell cooperatively. This year, the F.F.A. members entered leadership and judging contests, displayed their animals at the annual livestock show at Lee, and entered the city livestock show in February.

Other activities included the Farm Electrification Contest sponsored by the Houston Lighting and Power Company, the student-parent banquet, and the sale of 1972 calendars.

"Not all FFA members can become truck farmers," boast officers — Standing: Gary Rymiller, treasurer; Kim Grissom, reporter; Ray Coreale, vice-president; Billy Ponder, president. On truck: Kathy Hastings, chaplain; Matt Brown, sentinel; Renee Gilbert, secretary. In truck: Susan Anderson, sweetheart.

Earning the most points for the first semester are FTC members — Seated: Sandy Wiedower, Judy Brown, Patti Gaskamp, and Peggy Stephens. Standing: Terry Deal and Sandy Gullett.

Gaining practical experience for future teaching are FTC officers — Janet Jax, sophomore representative; Judy Bang, secretary; Donna Wells, vice-president; Vivien Muckley, president; Sharon Ward, sergeant-at-arms; Chris Putscher, junior representative; Irby Williams, senior representative; and Georgia Kostas, treasurer.

Girls Prepare for Teaching Careers

"Bet I can eat just one!" teases Mrs. Kennedy as she enjoys the goodies at the Future Teachers' Tea. Mr. Shivers eagerly awaits his turn to be served by Melinda Fugitt and Pam Kostas.

In addition to preparing for a possible future in the teaching profession, the aims of the Future Teachers Club are to assist teachers and to serve Lee. While serving the school, members learn about the responsibilities of teaching and about the different fields of education.

Qualifications for membership in this club are a "C" grade average and an "E" conduct average. To remain active, each member must earn at least fifteen points each semester by checking papers, typing ditto sheets and stencils, helping on club committees, or assisting teachers in other ways.

Future Teachers sponsored the clean-up days, two candy sales, a Christmas tea for the faculty, and Teacher Appreciation Day. On Senior Visitation Day in May, senior members visited and taught students in elementary or junior high schools.

ROTC Instills Self-Discipline

Preparing students to become leaders and better citizens in their communities is the function of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps. By following the ROTC program through their high school and college years, the students are able to enter the army at the rank of second lieutenant.

Faculty sponsors Sergeant Payne, Jr. and Major Solon Tate prepare students for college and acquaint them with the ROTC program.

Meetings are held daily during 1st, 2nd, and 3rd periods. To be qualified for membership, a student must attend Lee.

In addition to Rifle and Drill Team competition at other schools, the Corps attended competition at Texas A & M. Furthermore, three bivouacs were successfully accomplished, ending a productive year.

Dramalee Presents "The Diary of Anne Frank"

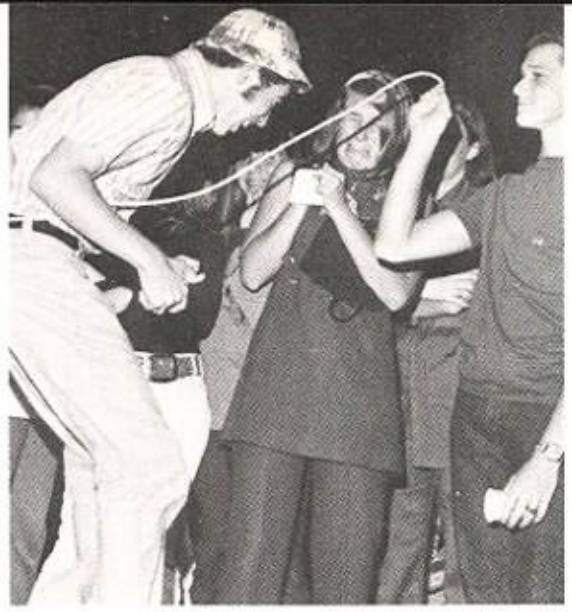
"Lights! Curtain! Action!" With these words, each Dramalee member participating in a stage production at Lee takes his place behind or on the stage, and another production begins. By promoting and producing theatrical activities, these club members learn more about directing, acting, building stage props, producing lighting and sound effects, and other jobs that, skillfully combined, can produce a successful program.

Working under the direction of Mr. Fred Smith, students who wish to take an active role in the club's projects are able to cultivate their talents and gain a deeper appreciation for dramatic literature.

After hosting a rush party in October to attract interested members, Dramalee opened its season with "The Dairy of Anne Frank." Speech tournaments and a one-act play for the University Interscholastic League kept the members busy until springtime, when Dramalee sponsored a series of three one-act plays, including "A Midsummer's Night Dream" and "To Burn a Witch." A three-act play and contest in Corpus Christi concluded the season.

Working on and behind the scenes to insure successful drama productions are Dramalee and Thespian officers — Marie Whitmire, secretary; Tena Alcorn, vice-president; Gayle Spoor, treasurer; and Jeanne Hoffman, president.

Mr. Fred Smith assists Kerry Teaff and Winston Cochran in constructing stage props.



Tommy Burke jumps at the chance of getting so close to Cyndy White at the Dramalee Rush Party, where Paul Herman demonstrates his rope act.

Thespians Direct Plays

Many outstanding Dramalee members have been honored with membership in the International Thespian Society, a national honor society for drama students.

To qualify for membership in this society, students must earn a certain number of honor points by participating in various dramatic activities, both on the stage as performers and off stage as crew members.

Members of this elite group direct the Dramalee productions and organize the action both on and behind the scenes. Guided by Mr. Fred Smith, the Thespians participated in all Lee drama productions, speech tournaments and drama contests, attended a Beaumont convention, and painted the drama room.

"One more crack about my nubs and I'll criticize your nose," teases Winston Cochran to Vernon Procter as Bettina Herbert, Tony Reed, Steve Otis, Tena Alcorn, Kathy Matranga, and Dee Russell watch with amusement in "The Dairy of Anne Frank."

Speaking Out Gains Recognition

The National Forensic League plays a distinct role in Lee's competitive spirit. The club members strive to achieve excellence in speaking skills and over-all communication while speaking competitively in the many speech tournaments. Accompanied by their sponsor, Mr. Rod Nichols, various members attended tournaments in New York, Beaumont, Dallas, Fort Worth, Nacogdoches, New Orleans, Denton, and Corpus Christi. The trophies won at these tournaments represent the diligent work done by the members of NFL.

Membership is limited to those students who maintain at least a 3.5 grade average and earn twenty-five points in Forensic Competition.

After the Spring Forensic Tournament held at Lee, the club held its annual banquet.

"I knew you could pull us through," praises Winston Cochran to Charles Cope — a team which placed first, third, and fourth in debate contests.

N.F.L. officers are — Standing: Marcia Heacker, secretary; Andy Harvin, president; Bob Jungman, vice-president. Seated: Charles Cope, ground parliamentarian; and George Cruikshank, treasurer.

Placing third in the Cy-Fairbanks tournament are Andy Harvin and George Cruikshank.

"Andrea! You wouldn't dare back out of the tournament now because of a blind date . . . would you?" chides Susan Roberts to Andrea Moore, as Mr. Nichols finds helping them prepare for a debate to be a very amusing experience.

"And to think these are all mine!" muses Stuart Coleman as he admires the first place trophies he won in oration and speech analysis.

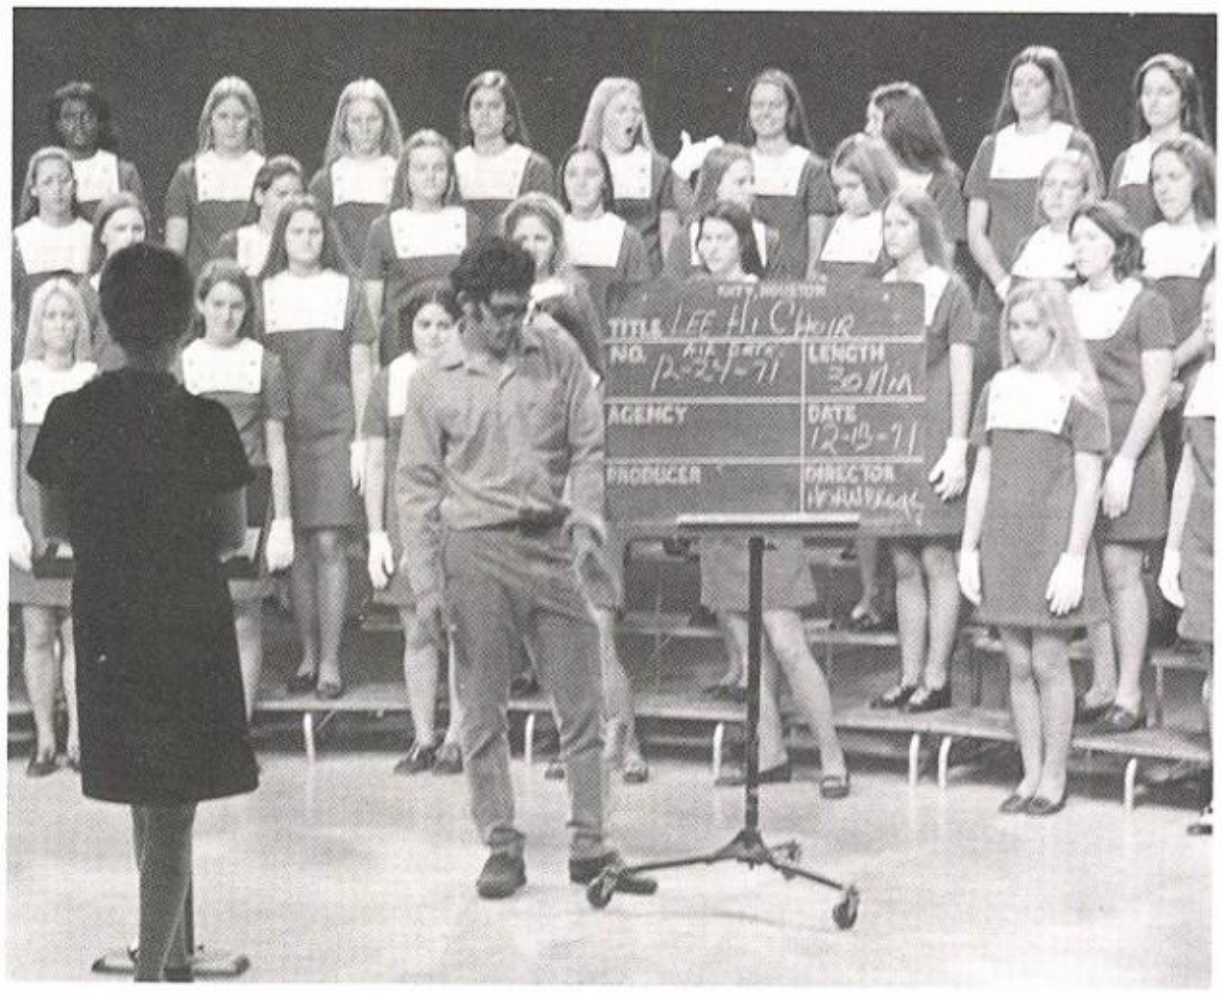
Comparing first place trophies won in oration are Mary K. Pratt and Donald White.

Spirited Voices Characterize Dixi-Liers

Bringing enjoyment and pleasure to many audiences, the Dixi-Liers kept busy performing before different organizations in Houston. Under the direction of Miss Eleanor Grant, the all-girl chorus performed at the Briar Club, the Junior League, and First City National Bank.

During the Christmas season, their extra-curricular activities included performances at the Humble Building and Sharpston Mall, in addition to their performances at school and at Channel 39.

In the spring, the choir participated in several contests, winning excellent ratings at several. During the month of May, they attended the Buccaneer Music Festival in Corpus Christi and then gave a final performance at the seniors' Commencement.



Taping at Channel 39 was a tiring but gratifying experience.

Southernaires Promote Harmony

Southernaires delight their audience at the annual Christmas program.

Anyone passing by Room 402 at the fourth period will appreciate the harmonious voices of the Lee Southernaires. The interest of each choir member in maintaining high standards of learning contributes to their superior performances.

Invited to sing at various places during the yuletide season, the mixed choir sang to the Petroleum Club, the Tanglewood Lions Club, First City National Bank, and many other civic organizations. In January, the mixed choir sang at the University Rotary and the Woman's Auxiliary.

Later, the Southernaires sang for the music teachers' division at the TSTA Convention and for the first time attended the Alvin Junior College Annual Choir Day.

Springtime found the Southernaires participating in many local and state-wide contests, including the University Interscholastic League contest. Another highlight was their competition at Galveston.

Football season would seem incomplete without the spirited beat of Lee's Marching Generals, directed by Mr. Jack Floyd. These talented musicians perform at every football game, play at pep rallies, and accompany the Lieutenants' drills. Highlighting their year was the final march at Rice Stadium in December.

With the close of football season, the Marching Generals became Lee's Concert Generals, preparing music for the spaghetti supper in January and concerts in the spring. After winning superior ratings at several local concert contests, including the HISD and UIL contests, the band went on to its first competition at the state-wide Six Flags Concert Festival in May.

Lee's outstanding performance record has led to the use of tapes of the band to train judges for the spring concert contests.

At the May Commencement exercises, the Marching Generals concluded their final performance with a triumphant beat.

Stage Bands Make Resounding Vibrations

Two stage bands were formed at Lee so that interested students could learn about modern jazz music. Meeting at third and fifth periods, these band members are carefully selected by conductor Mr. Jack Floyd. The limited instrumentation ranges from alto sax to bass trombone.

The stage bands participated in school assembly programs, talent shows, stage concerts, and contests. Beginning with the "Lee Jazz '72" festival in January, they attended seven jazz festivals, traveling to colleges such as Stephen F. Austin, Sam Houston State, Lamar, and Wharton Junior College.

Known for their outstanding performance record, Lee's stage bands were honored with an invitation to represent Texas in a West Coast Jazz Festival.

Daily rehearsals conducted by Mr. Floyd assure the vibrance of Lee's stage bands.

Symphonic Proficience Takes Time, Talent

Besides a reputable musical talent, these Symphonic Orchestra members share a sincere interest in music and a willingness to work hard. Row 1: Anne Lundy, Glenda Igo, Philip Manela, Betsy Paez, Brian Richardson, Gayle Greer, Patti Gaskamp, Dorien de Leon. Row 2: James Thompson, Ellen Hauge, Sharon Ward, Cindy Ross, Bettina Herbert, Marva Menzdorf, Martha Bearden, Vincent Zinnante, Peggy Gaskamp. Row 3: Sarah Loomis, Robert Semaan, Jayne Wheatley, Mrs. Karin Cash, Ricky Bowers, Libby Land, Larry Lewis, Eugene Garcia, James Foster, Robert Sims, Daniel Chee, W. Mark Brunson, David Crank, Rex Webb, Nelson Edwards, Howard Henderson, Curtis Bassett.

Offering talent, competence, and leadership to the Symphonic Orchestra are officers — Seated: Bob Semaan, librarian; Brian Richardson, president. Standing: Betsy Paez, vice-president; Peggy Gaskamp, librarian; Glenda Igo, treasurer; and Sharon Ward, secretary.

Daily rehearsals at fourth period along with special practice sessions before and after school explain the professional-sounding performances of Lee's Symphonic Orchestra. Orchestra members dedicate many hours every day developing their individual musical talents and perfecting the quality of philharmonic tones.

The group provided entertainment at P.T.A. meetings, the Christmas program, the annual spaghetti dinner, the spring concert, and other school assemblies. Noted for their superior talent, these instrumentalists were also invited to perform at different civic functions in Houston.

Working diligently under the direction of Mrs. Karin Cash, the symphonic orchestra won outstanding recognition at the University Interscholastic League contest in Houston as well as at other local and state-wide contests.

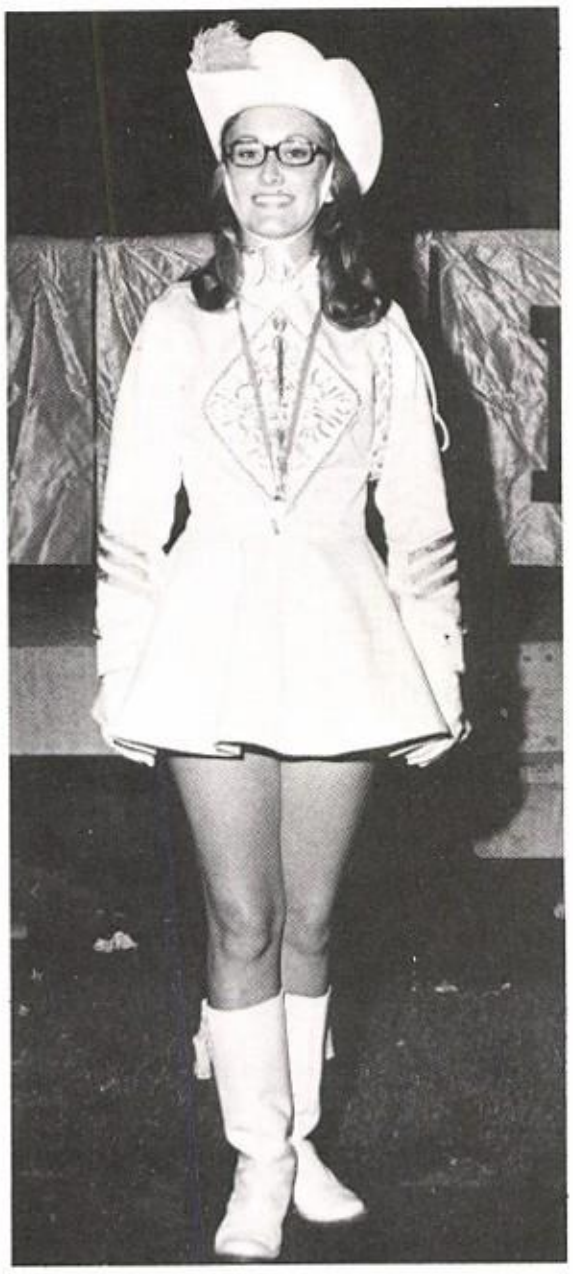
Lieutenants Possess Spirit . . .



Guiding the girls in all their duties is five-star general, Cindy Anderson.

Performance perfection demands many hours of hard work. Just ask Kathy King, Carole Zink, Chris McClure, or Linda Heard.

. . . Lieutenants Promote and

Lee's Lieutenants hold a unique responsibility because they are the only drill team in Houston that performs with its school's marching band.

During July, several Lieutenants accompanied their incumbent officers to the annual convention at Southern Methodist University. Throughout football season, the girls daily practiced original routines during sixth period and for an hour and one-half after school. The march at Rice Stadium in the bitter cold climaxed these spirited girls' activities. Later, December initiated "Secret Pal Week" ended by the mother-daughter banquet. The girls also attended all district basketball games. The Rebelee Ball was held; and new officers were announced at the officer's installation in April.

One-star generals Tootsie Voulgaris and Margie Byers exemplify the perfection of every Lieutenant.

Two-star general Barbara Beale and three-star general Claudia Holcomb display well-practiced skills.

Exhibiting the poise of the Lieutenants is four-star general Janice Pogue.

Maintain Spirit

The Lieutenants get their kicks by performing at football games.

"If I hold still maybe they won't notice I haven't done my routine," contemplates Anna Fleming during practice.

Heads of sports are: Sarah Blades, table tennis; Kim Webb, softball; Chris Putscher, tennis; Vita Streit, archery; Susie Murphy, badminton; Ann Chapman, volleyball; Marty Shelton, basketball.

Le Melee Means Winning Teams

Any girl at Lee may participate in any number of seven intramural sports — volleyball, badminton, softball, basketball, tennis, archery, and table tennis — and thus be eligible for membership in Le Melee. Points may be earned by officiating or entering and winning a competition. In May at the Awards Ceremony, letters are presented to the winners in each division of competition. Also, the outstanding senior girls with the greatest number of accumulated points are awarded silver charms.

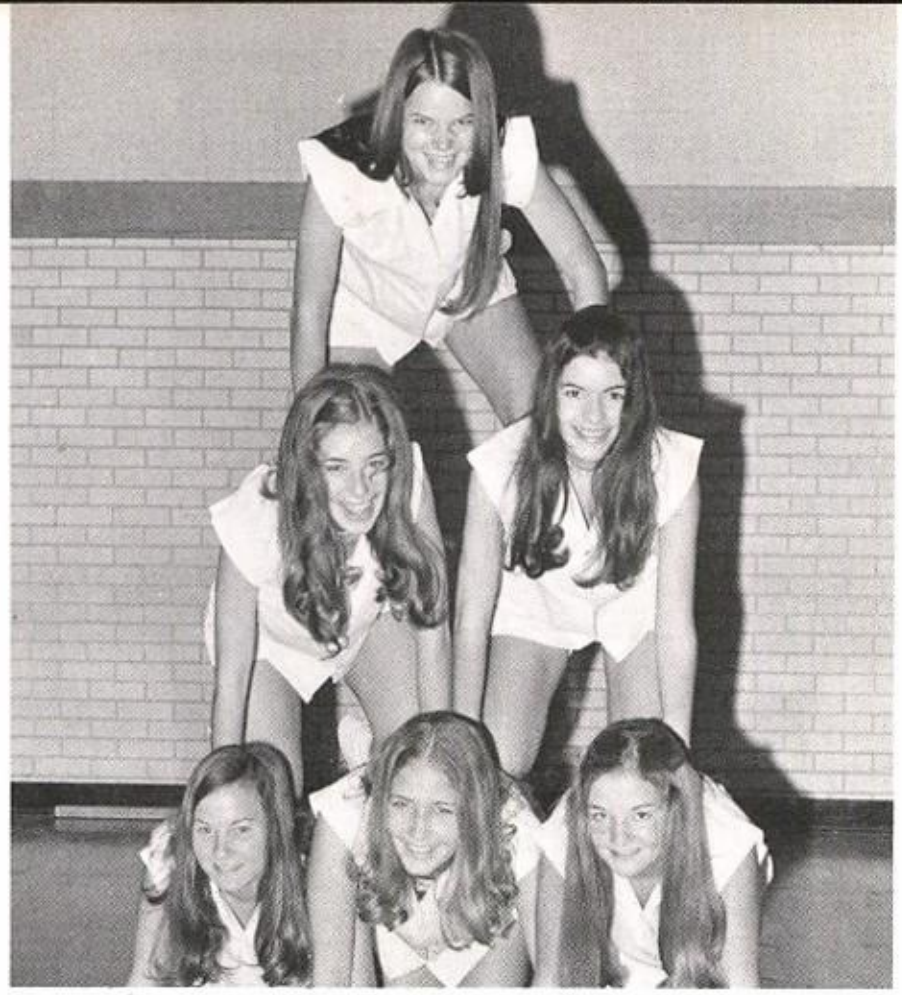
Intramurals Show Team Spirit

Along with tough competition, spirit plays an important part in the intramural program at Lee. Volleyball intramurals have become one of Le Melee's most popular tournaments, with over fifty teams participating. Winners are presented with letters at the end of the year. Besides volleyball intramurals, softball, badminton, tennis, basketball, table tennis, and archery intramurals are held.



Winners of the senior intramurals are — Row 1: Marty Shelton, Vita Streit, and Missy McAlister. Row 2: Ann Moffatt and Pam Kostas. Row 3: Judy Bang.

Creative Dancers . . .

Mu Delta Chi, alias Modern Dance Club, held tryouts in October for prospective members. Other activities included dance seminars at Sam Houston State College and a Christmas performance at the Golden Age Old Folks Home.

Mrs. Ella Allen, Mu Delta Chi's sponsor, hosted the club banquet at her ranch. Melinda Fugitt, president, held a surprise ice cream party in May for members.

Officers of Mu Delta Chi are — Row 1: Lander Phillips, vice-president; Melinda Fugitt, president; Ginger Coolidge, secretary-treasurer.

"Write On" Is TRAVELER's Motto

By publishing a school newspaper, the TRAVELER staff members are able to practicably apply journalism skills.

Besides covering all of Lee's sports events, club activities, and school projects, the TRAVELER invites students to voice their thoughts in print by submitting editorials, literary works, or art sketches.

To qualify for membership on the TRAVELER staff, students must take at least one year of journalism and have an outstanding writing ability.

The staff publishes the TRAVELER, sponsored by Miss Regina Satloff, every three weeks, as well as special editions throughout the school year.

Editor-in-Chief, Barbara Beale

Business Manager, Sherri Zink

Just follow the flash and you'll find either Bob Gribble or John Genge, photographers for the TRAVELER staff.

Reporter Luann Stanley gathers information for her next write-up.

Reporters Candy Velvin, Trisha Taylor, Kathy Stevens, Mary Jane Moody, and Mary Burkett seem to enjoy their job of gathering and reporting information involving current activities at Lee.

Staff Creates Action-Packed Yearbook

Take a pink and green shack, add pictures, layout sheets, typewriters, and pica-rulers — plus twenty-eight hard-working, fun-loving students fifth and sixth periods. What could it be? The 1972 SABER staff!

The yearbook's sponsor, Mrs. Margaret Wisdom, the faculty, and current staff members select the juniors and seniors who compose the yearbook staff. Each staff member is responsible for writing copy, proportioning pictures, arranging layouts, and racking his brain to think up humorous cutlines. Life becomes a struggle for survival through three deadlines as one spends hours of mental strain both in and out of school attempting to maintain his sanity, sometimes sacrificed for T-2 life.

Once the final pages have been mailed to the publisher in March, the staff prepares itself physically for its annual volleyball battle against Lamar.

Without patient determination, efficiency, and imagination, staff members would never have been able to publish this rewarding proof of their labors — the SABER.

These sports staff members exemplify the paradox of working on the yearbook — somehow SABER people never look busy! Standing in front of the sports board are Cam Lange; Mike Sample; Wissie Slator, Girls' Sports Editor; Jeff Kuhn, Sports Editor; and Yogi Reece.

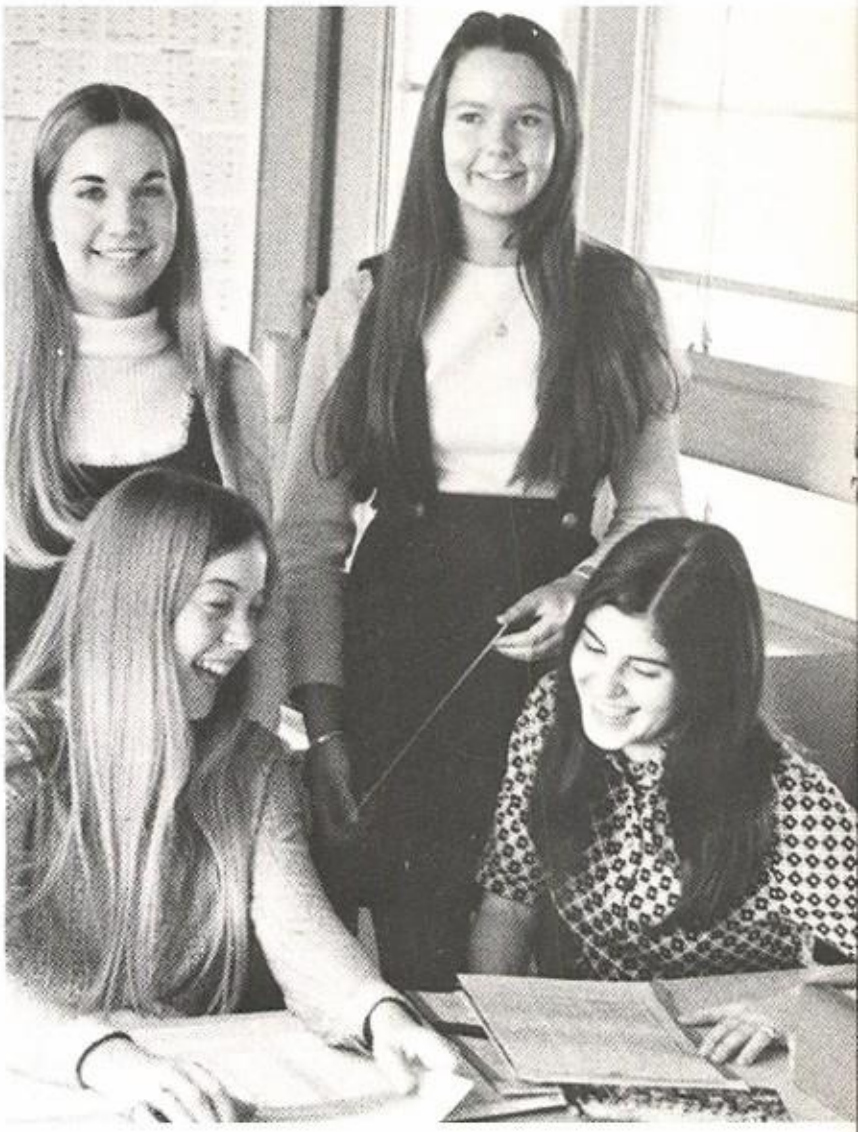
Despite her endless responsibilities as Editor-in-Chiet, Linda Crooker manages to check and recheck each page before sending it to the publisher — and still come up smiling!

John Genge, Activities Editor and SABER photographer, manages to keep his hands full with SABER workers such as Claudia Holcomb and Julie Caldwell. As Copy and Layout Editor, Claudia assists with layouts.

"They just think a junior doesn't know about senior activities. I'll show them," schemes Gretchen Curry as her fellow senior staff members Irby Williams, Ernie Bartlett, and Debbie Brown, Senior Editor, type out schedules of senior events.

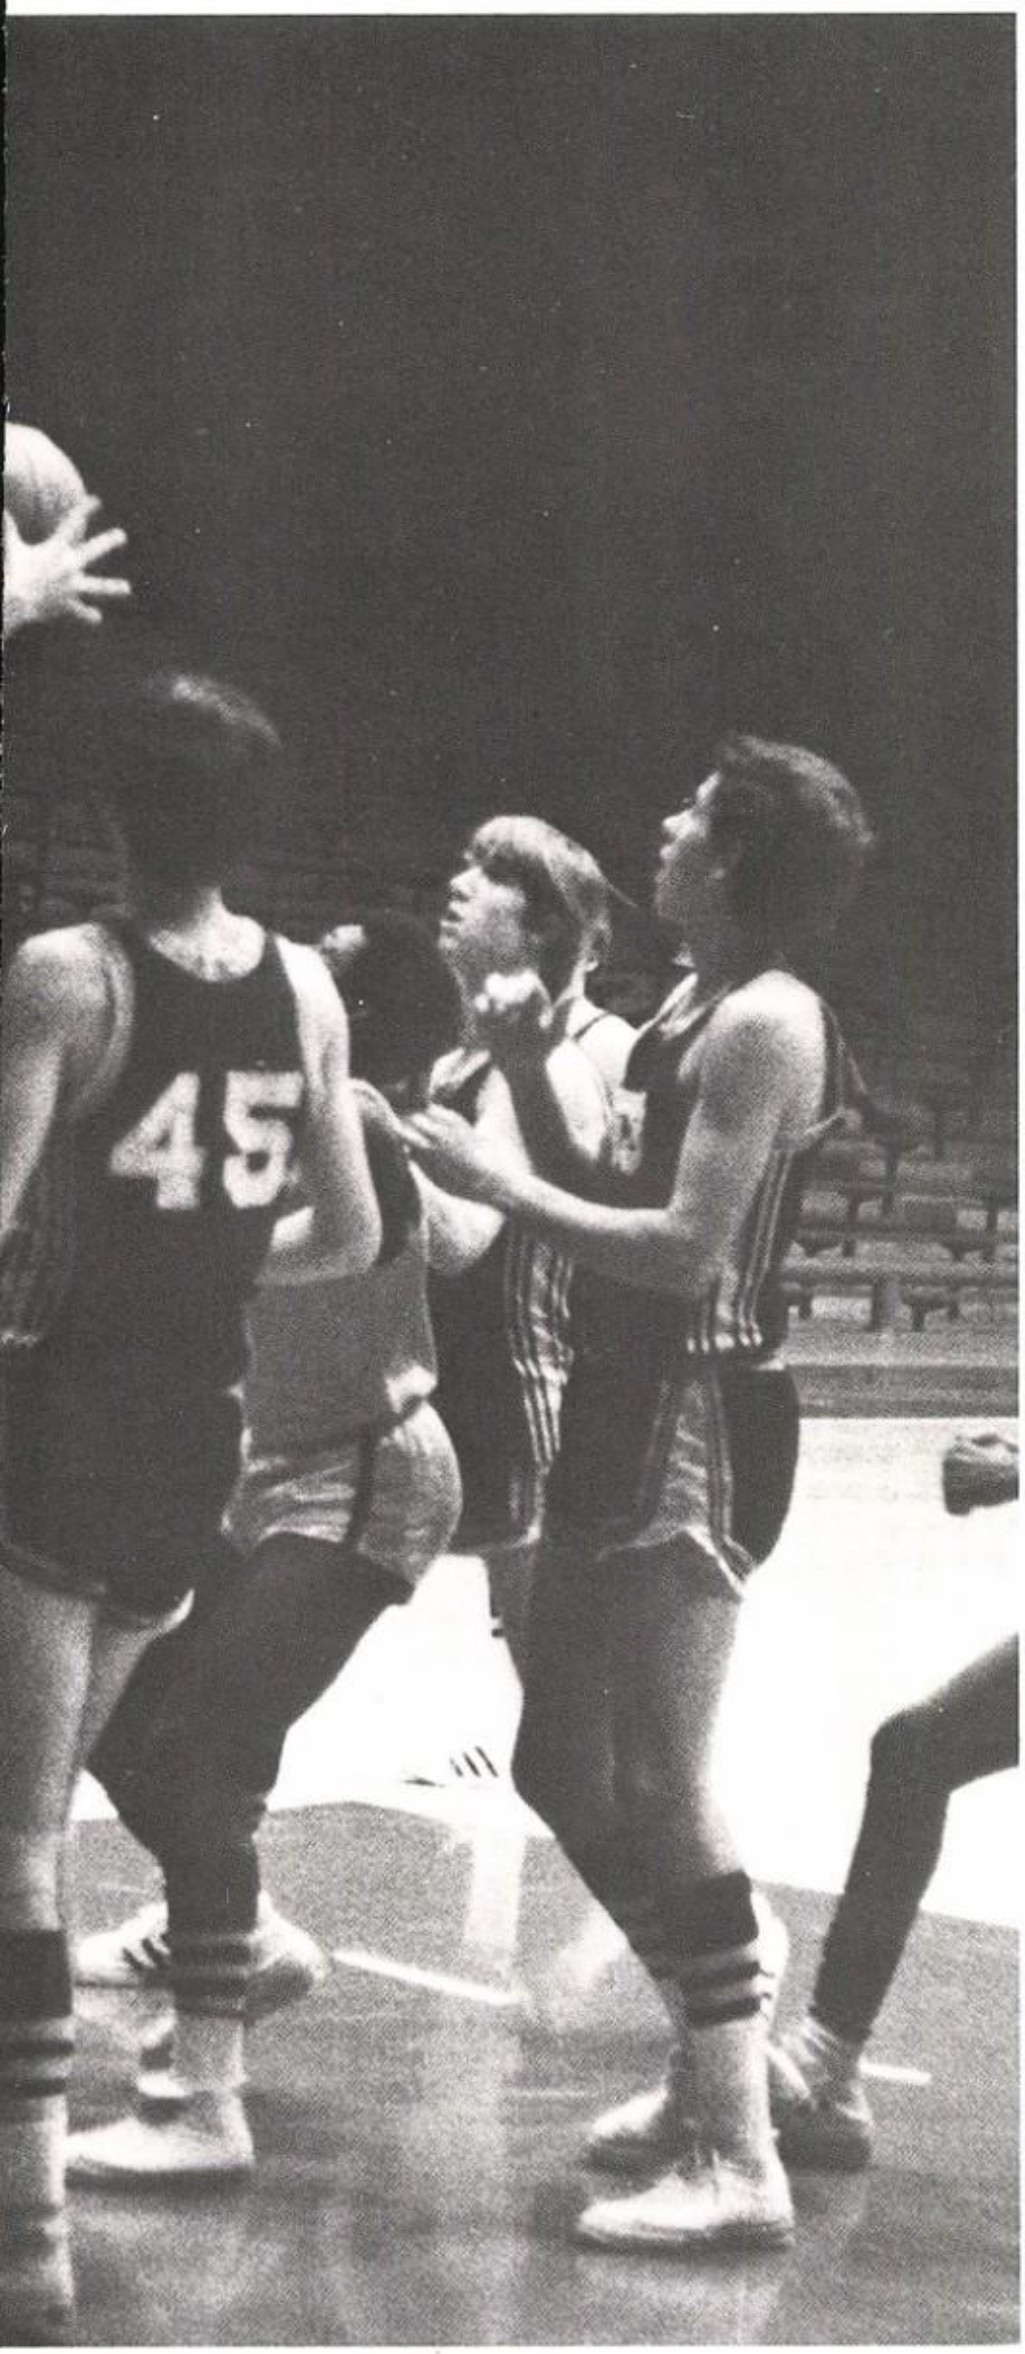
"Oops! Wait 'til she sees that next picture!" anticipates Scott Kelm as he and Sophomore Editor Stacy Broun share some pictures with the junior staff of Tina Janse and Mary Anna Payne, Junior Editor.

"I said I need a cutline — not a cut!" yells Favorites Editor Debbie Roach to Young Leaders Editor Mike Hartwig. Dottie Roach, Index Editor, and Linda Wittig, Faculty Editor, keep trying their luck at thinking up a cutline that pleases Debbie.



With the deadline nearing and pictures to recrop and copy to be rewritten, one finds that laughter is the best safeguard against growing insanity! These clubs staff members are — Seated: Suzy Cox and Georgia Kostas, Clubs Editor. Standing: Kathy Armstrong and Kitty Gallagher.

"Y'all have exactly three days to get all that money in. After all, it's your money or my life!" kids Bob Gribble, Business Manager and SABER photographer (seated) to Circulation Manager Donna Wells, Richard Capps, and Advertising Manager Timm Wooten who looks perturbed with the whole mess.



Sports . . .

Ultimately, winning is the goal of any athlete. Excelling is athletic ability plus a passion for winning.

Unremembered hours of practice and mental preparation later, the teams and individuals, drunk with feelings of victory and exhilarated by the thrilled crowd, receive retribution.

To the team, a game won or lost — to the individual, personal pride.

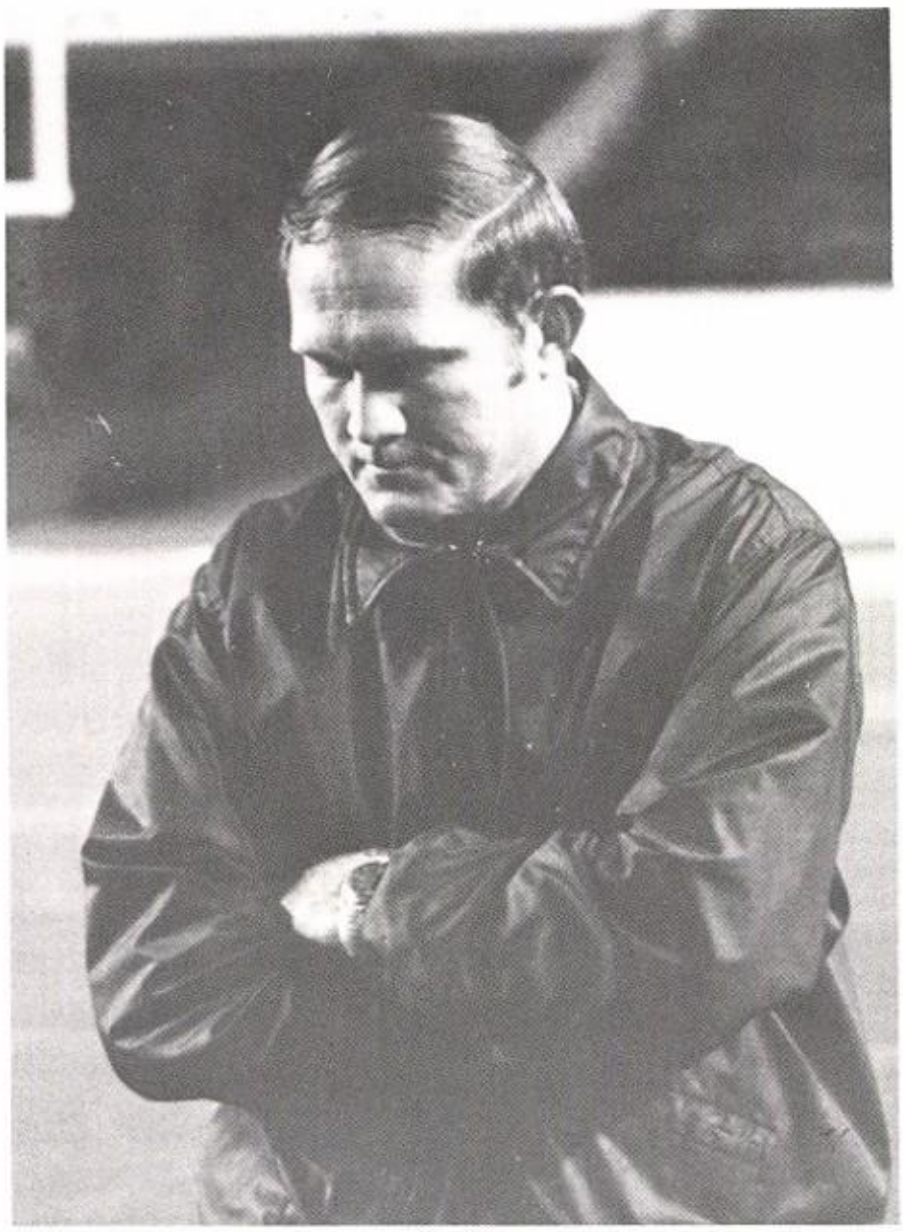
. . . To a Victorious Season



Head Coach Joe Clements was the mastermind behind Lee's greatest season ever.

Lee's Generals entered the 1971 football campaign with 21 returning lettermen. Fulfilling more than the press' expectations, the wild bunch thrashed pre-district opponents such as Galena Park, Westbury, B.T. Washington, and Austin. The only blemish on their record being a tie with a determined Jones team, the Generals went into district play with an undefeated record.

District foes fell like dominoes to the Lee powerhouse. A tough offensive line led by Bill Christie, Tommy Davidson, and Thad Foulk opened holes for the Generals' ball-control-running game. Machine man Lawrence Burton took advantage of this blocking to become the city's leading rusher and scorer.

Once again, defense was the name of the game at Lee. Scarborough, Sharpstown, Lamar, Williams, and Waltrip managed to combine for only two touchdowns. The defense, made up of stalwarts such as Jim Janke, Howard Henderson, Yogi Reece, Mike Cole, Bill Barnett, Bruce Armstrong, and Mark Revels, repeatedly gave the offense opportunities to score.

In the bi-district game against Bellaire, the defense held the Cardinals with three goal-line stands to shut them out. This win put the Generals in the City Championship game for the third time in four years. Quarterback Paul Smith and his offensive unit capitalized on Sam Houston's errors to give the Generals the City Championship! Moving on into state quarter-finals play, the team ran up against a Smiley team composed of twenty-two players and four referees. Being outmanned, the Generals bowed out gracefully, but not before compiling the best football record ever at Robert E. Lee.

Future Looks Bright With Winning J.V.

The 1971 Junior Varsity fighting Generals posted a 6-3 season slate. The best season ever compiled by a Lee J.V. team was led by such stalwarts as: Steve Kahn, Warren Tashnek Frazier, Buz White, Glen Sikes, Dallas DiFiore, Mike Little, and Danny Rinando. The Lee J.V., with an outstanding pass rush, pass defense, and running game, overpowered their opponents this season. Standout wins over B.T. Washington, Austin, Westbury, Lamar, and a homecoming win over Sharpstown helped to mark an eventful season.

Cagers Are Winners

In 1971-72, the Lee basketball team was the first group of players to be coached by Don Schmeich during their entire high school career. This coaching continuity showed. For the first time in that many years a Lee basketball team recorded a winning record. The team composed mainly of experienced seniors compiled a 19-11 mark.

Impressive pre-district play against Reagan, Conroe, Sterling, Clear Creek, and Memorial brought out the team's potential as it headed into the tough district race. The highlight of the year was an unbelievable come-from-behind victory over Lamar. Cam Lange, district 19-4A's second leading scorer, hit a career high of 31 points to lead the Generals to victory. This win in the middle of a seven-game winning streak boosted the Generals to a second place district finish.

Players Establish Winning Ways

Robert E. Lee's diamond men opened a thrilling season with practice after practice. Led by fiery — or what — Coach McMillan, the boys' outlook on the season was enlightened. Along with his technique of aggressive base-running, Coach McMillan's humor kept the boys in great condition. Propelled by outstanding play in both the Galveston Tournament and Houston Coaches Tournament, the ball boys battled their way into district.

This year's season was highlighted by the return of five gifted lettermen: Jason Chism, Jeff Kuhn, Tommy Smart, Ray Benestante, and Tommy McFarland. Outstanding players from the J.V. ranks to add even greater assistance were Mike Alexander, Kirk Lazarine, Sam McBirney, John Randle, and Jerry Pearlman. The future of the Generals was even brighter when five new sophomores hit the field. They were Steve Buckley, Dallas DiFiore, Stan Hinson, Larry Wright, and Mike McGilvrey.

Raqueteers' Record Remains Flawless

Lee's Generals went into battle with an unprecedented and undisputed record. In a four-year span, the Generals have tallied a twenty-win-no loss record in district play.

Singles player and three-year letterman Bill Fisher was backed by two-year lettermen Neel Bonner and Dick Eastland. The doubles team consisted of three-year lettermen Ernie Bartlett and Walter Montieth. The team's depth was virtually unlimited with the group of sophomores and juniors, Ben Powers, Peter Ory, John Duncan, Buddy Hightower, and alternate Edward Breland. The team was instructed by Coach Dan Schmiech.

Tracksters Make a Run for District

Robert E. Lee's 1972 track team was coordinated by late-arriving Coach Kenneth Goodrum who ably fulfilled the vacant shoes of the immortal Tommy Yates. With the vigorous training set forth by Coach Goodrum, the Lee tracksters prepared themselves for a season of excruciating competition. Opening with a few triangular meets, the Lee speed demons catapulted into the Texas and Redskin Relays. These fleet-footed Confederates proved that Coach Goodrum's theory of high acceleration was fruitful.

Leading the way of the Generals were returning lettermen Fred Knies, Robert Ghrist, Jim Janke, and Mark Miller. Added assistance came from men like Kirk Pfeffer, Mike Waidhofer, Harry Prewett, Richard Weaver, Keith Wilson, and Charles Martin.

Varsity Volleys Victories

After a season of rebuilding, the girls' volleyball team traveled to within one game of the city playoffs with a district record of four wins and one loss. The team consisted of eight seniors and eleven juniors under the coaching of their "Fearless Leader," Miss Jane Hester. The team, chosen at the beginning of each year, remains after school each day to practice until the season is over. Also, three weeks of spring training serve to keep the returning girls in shape for the next season. The team's enthusiasm, spirit, and diligent practice played an important role in their series of victories.

Net Set Swings Into Action

Tennis action began in November when members of last year's championship team started practicing after school. Try-outs for new members were held in January. Practice tournaments were held throughout January and February with other area high school teams.

Tennis play continued throughout the spring when the City Championship was held late in March. With the coaching of sponsor Mrs. Ella Allen, and the returning lettermen, Lee won its third straight district championship.

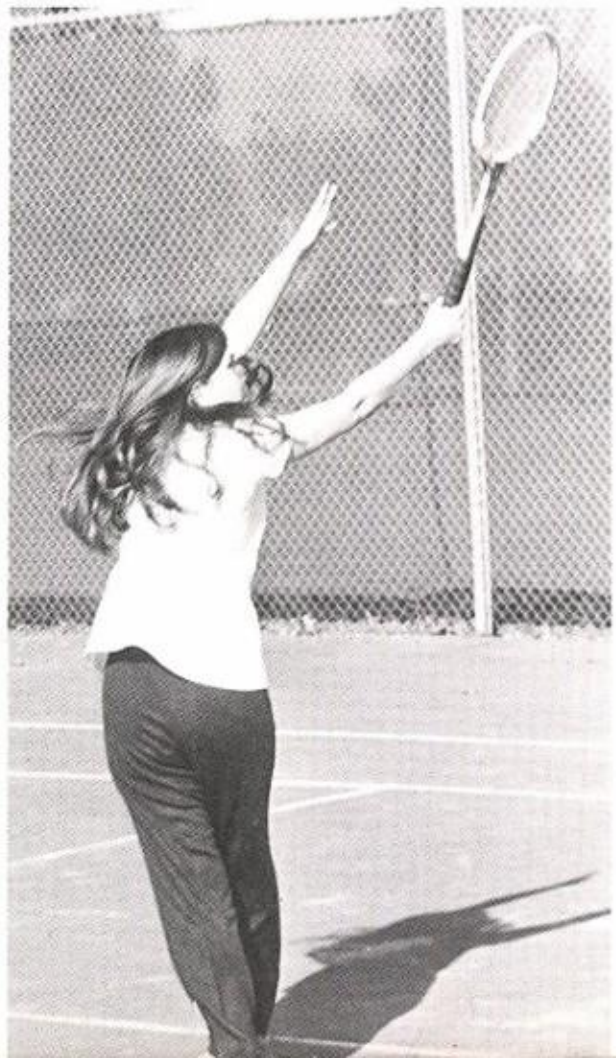
Betsy Senglemann and Julie Baucum, the team's doubles players, prepare for an intra-team match after school.



Marty Shelton, senior contender for the City Championship, demonstrates her footwork in a backhand return.

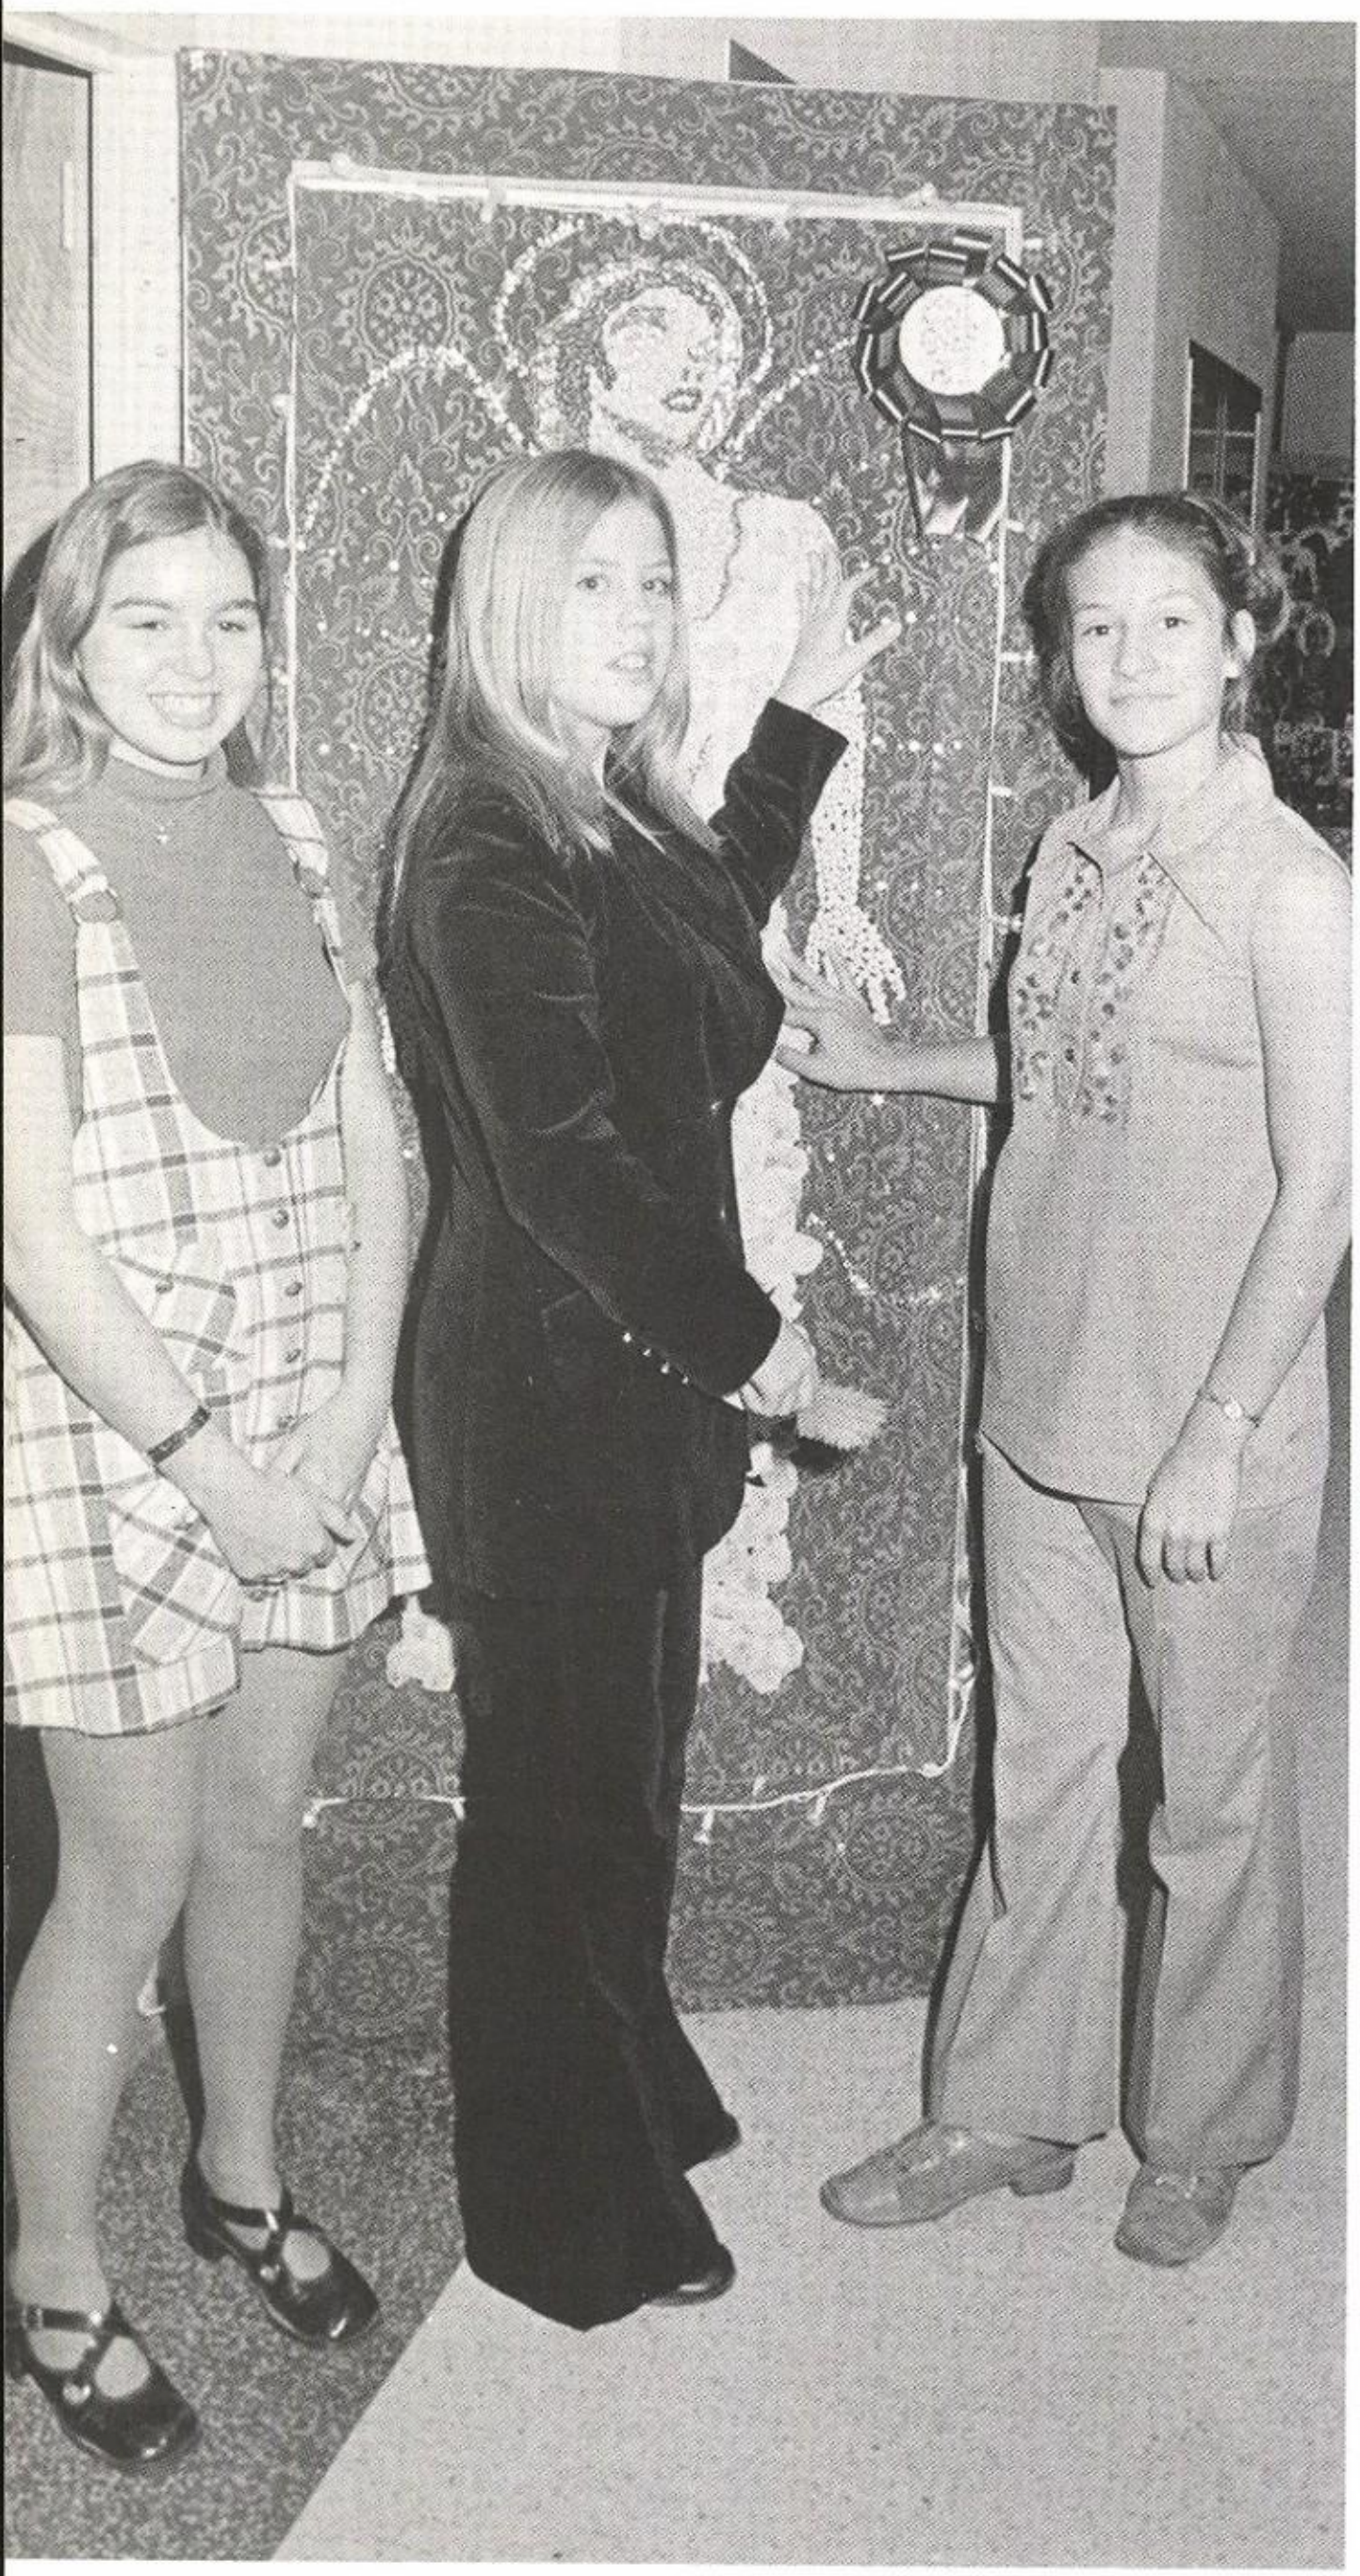
Members of the Archery team for 1972 are — Cindy Peters, Tena Alcorn, Michelle Schreiber, Barbara Eastwood, Missy McAlister, Sarah Blades, Vita Streit, Sandy Drews, Cheryl Boen, and Mary Anna Payne.

"Yes, you get the 'Fickle Finger of Fate' Award," exclaims Missy McAlister to the coach, Miss Jane Borneman, as teammates Cheryl Boen, Sandy Drews, Sarah Blades, and Vita Streit look on.

Archers Gain Points

Seven returning lettermen headed the fall try-outs of Lee's Archery team, as Miss Jane Borneman, sponsor, selected the top ten girls for competition in high school tournaments. Three consecutive City Championships and a second in City last year created a challenge for the Lee team in the April tournament. However, the experience of returning lettermen puts Lee in contention for a fourth city victory.

Contenders for the City Championship are — Barbara Eastwood, junior; Vita Streit, senior; and Mary Anna Payne, senior.

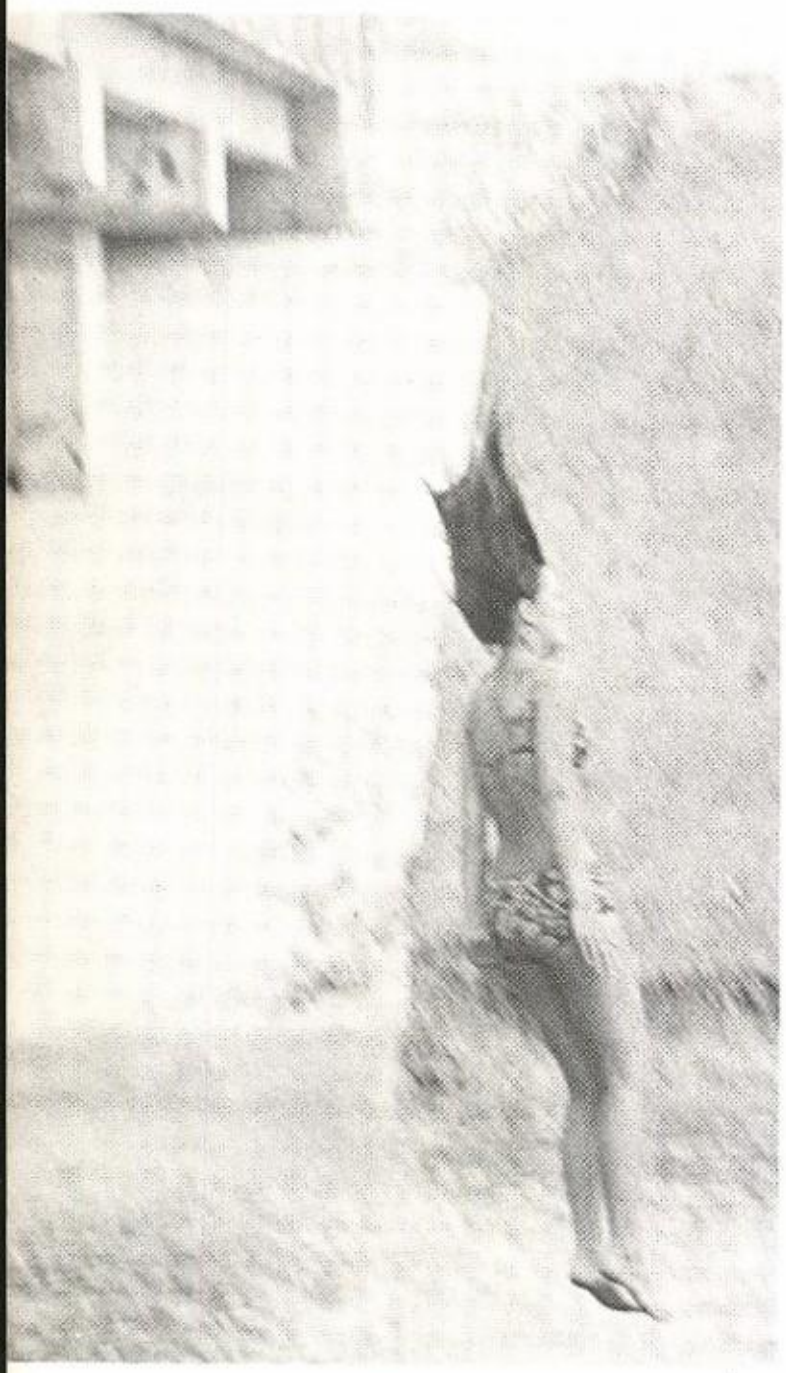


Activities . . .

School is more than an establishment of book-learning: within it is a nebulous medium of exchange and communion among teens that is effected by their activities.

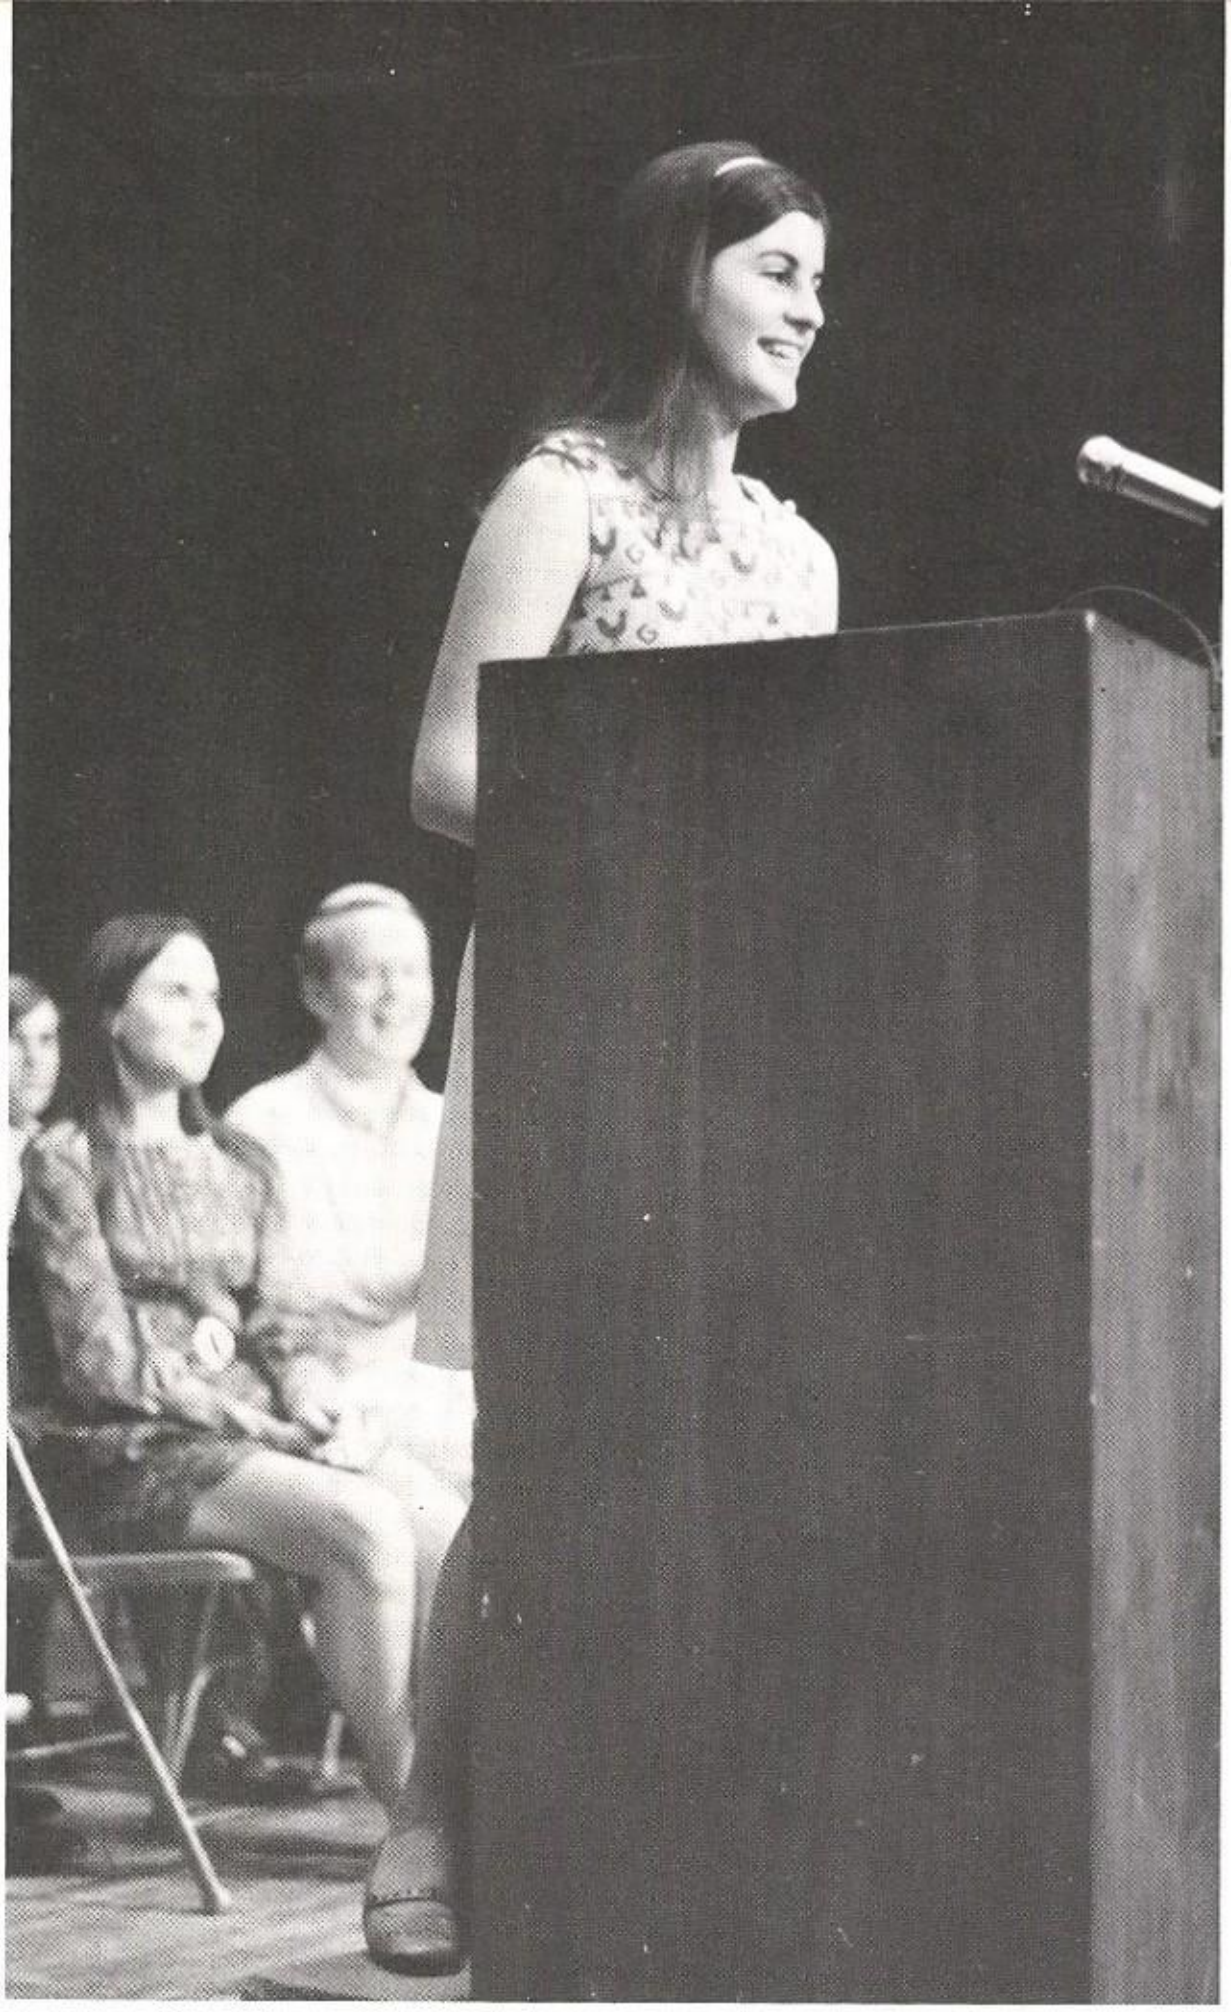
Whether planning or attending a formal dance, shopping or working at Galleria, attending or acting in a play, or actively participating in or analyzing an event — each's personality and interests were expressed.

Summer of Fun . . .

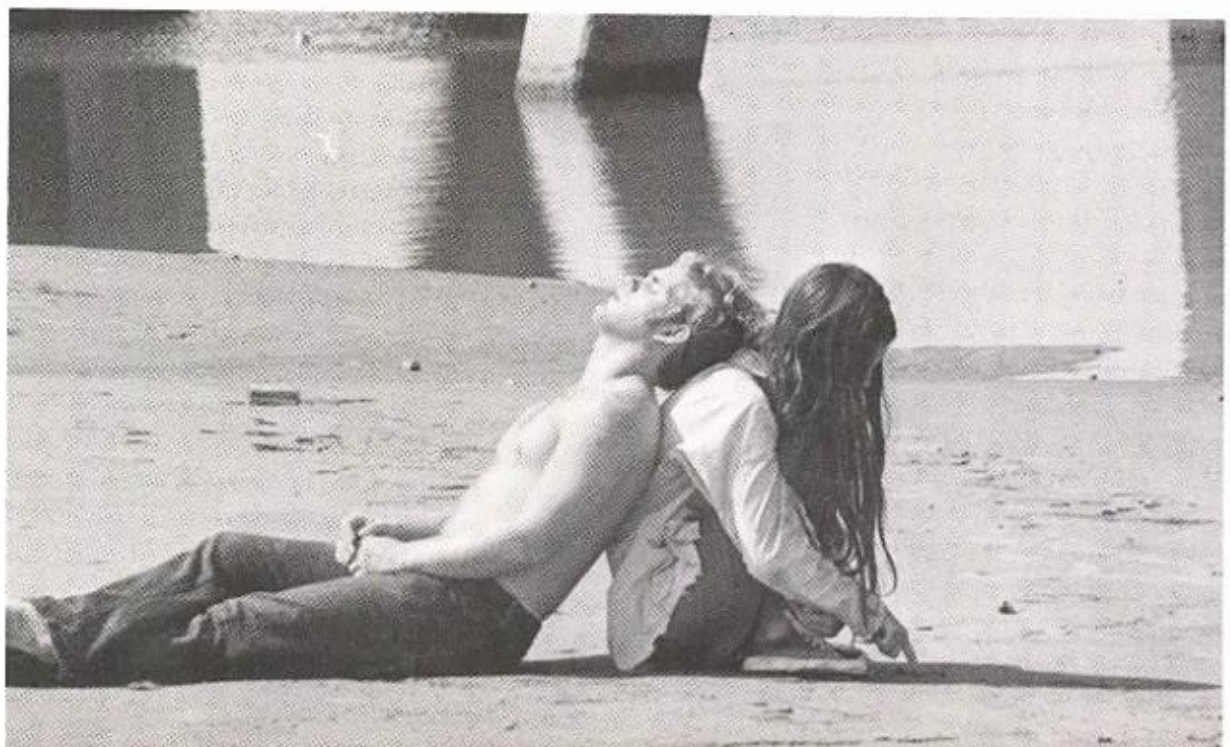


"Nothing like a quick dip on a hot summer day!" remarks Lisa Clarke as she prepares to cool off in the Bering Ditch.

David McGregor and Janet Merrill enjoy the final hours of the summer of '71 in the solitude at San Luis Pass.



". . . and if you want your first year at Lee to be a good one, you, too, will need all the support you can get," quips Georgia Kostas as she presides over sophomore orientation.



Rolls Into Fall

As the last days of summer passed, Lee students enjoyed a final fling in the summer of 1971. September neared and school became a reality.

On August 23, the Anchor Club sponsored a sophomore orientation to acquaint incoming students with life at Lee. In an auditorium program, the new students were introduced to members of the faculty and student body who would be integral to the sophomores in upcoming weeks. Following this program, they were dismissed to tour the school building and have questions answered by various club representatives.

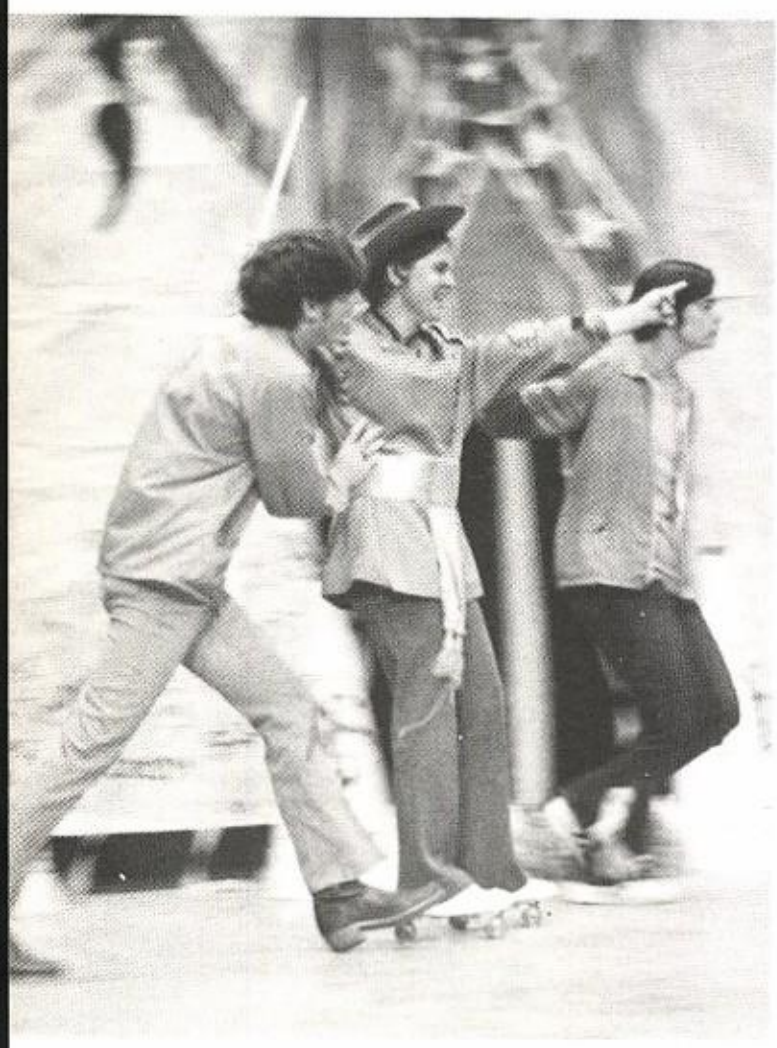
The arrival of the school year on August 26 initiated a number of routine activities. Classes began and yearbook "mug" shots were taken. Football and band practices also began, heralding the approach of football season and the excitement of the first game.

"Make it good — it's only my third retake," remarks June Bixler to the Bishop photographer.

"We have ways of making you join the German Club." Charles Hewell requests Sheree Magel to become a member — or else!

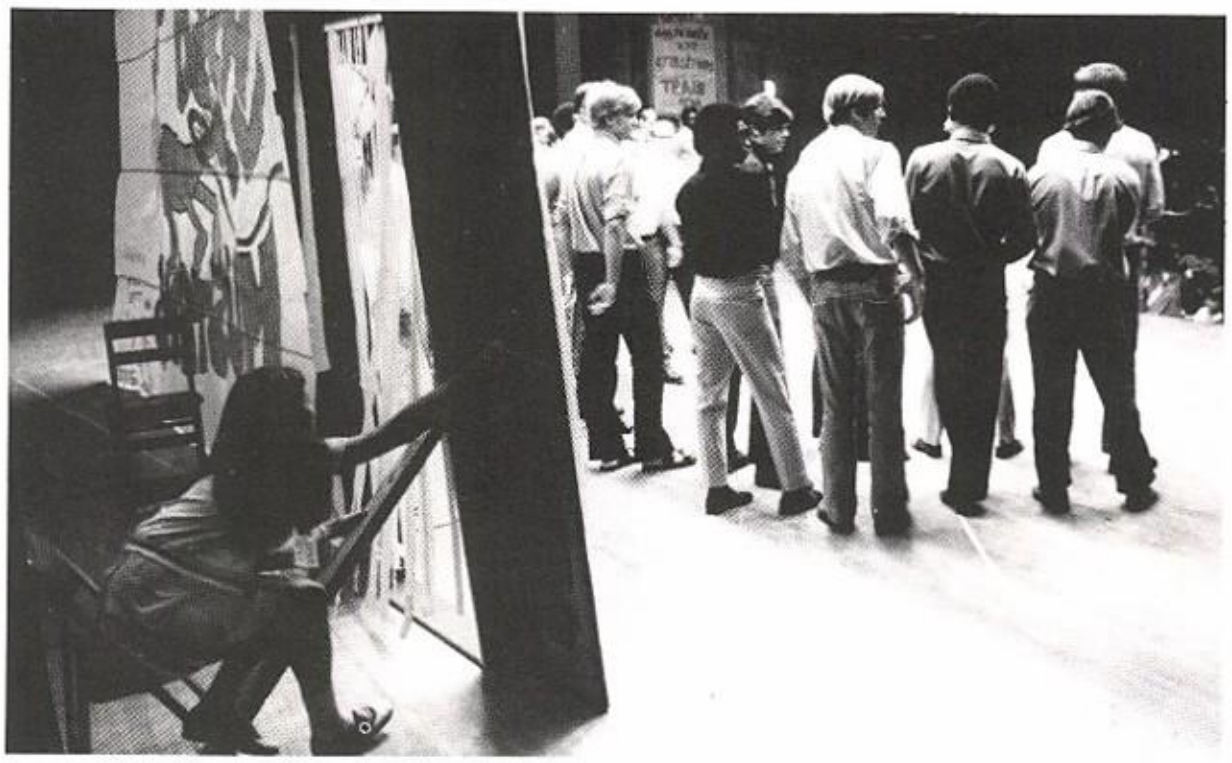
"C'mon, everybody, give 'til it hurts!" Joann Thompson solicits for the Spirit Committee Fund on the bus to the Galena Park game.

"It's much easier to find tacks in old spirit posters than needles in haystacks!" screech Pat Smith, Lise Van Slyke, Lisa Clarke, and Melinda Fugitt.

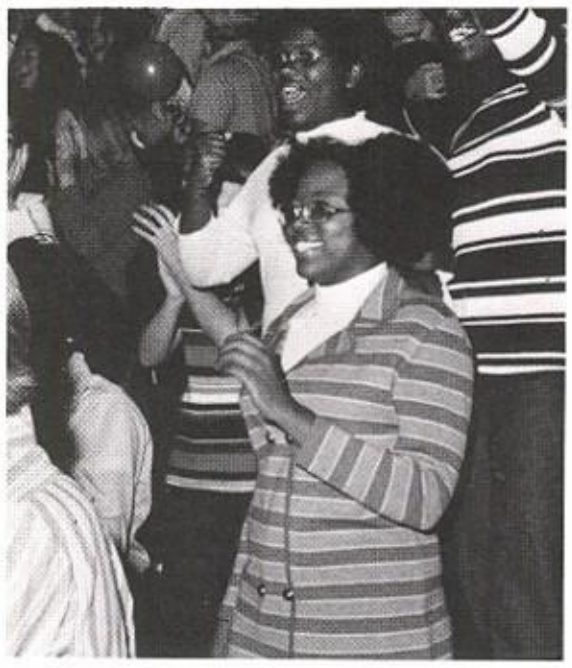


"Next time you get plastered like "Uncle Bob," Wissie, make sure it's not at a pep rally," reprimand Doug Bratton and Bruce Vay to Wissie Slator at the Lamar pep rally.

"Hey, Linda, that tickles." Linda Manthos and Kirk Lazarine zealously execute the Williams pep rally.



"Rodney Davis' outfit is too much," comments Evelyn Bumstead as she holds down the fort at the varsity introduction.



"Yogi, you shouldn't have twisted that quarterback's foot behind his ear." Rhea Reece gloats at the antics of her brother on the football field.

Competition Sparks Spirit

"Hey, you clods, stand up and show you're behind the team." Dorien de Leon spices up the pep rallies as she drums out her spirit.

Spirit is probably one of the most undefinable yet important parts of a school. It usually takes a passive role in the lives of Lee students, until, in September at the first pep rally, spirit becomes a booming reality.

Under the direction of "Uncle Bob" Gribble and Wissie Slator, the Spirit Committee decorates the auditorium and halls with posters and streamers in preparation for upcoming competitions.

The band, Lieutenants, and cheerleaders contribute their respective energies toward guiding the students in the expression of their enthusiasm.

However, it is the mass, the student body, which generates the atmosphere of a spirited school.

"We'd really like to stay everybody — the applause is cool, but the pants are hot." Mrs. Wisdom and Miss Countee finish the Lamar pep rally.

In the spring of 1971, fifty juniors appeared before a panel of teachers and selected senior representatives in hopes of becoming cheerleaders. Twelve finalists were selected to compete before the student body for the honor, and only eight remained at the end of the competition.

Fresh from the S.M.U. cheerleading camp came those who won the coveted spirit stick award — the 1971-72 cheerleaders. The winning eight are head cheerleaders Patty Hayes and Dick Eastland, Neel Bonner and Tweety Albritton, Richard Capps and Sarah Seward, and Jeff Wherry and Evelyn Bumstead.

As the enthusiastic representatives of Robert E. Lee, they serve to direct spirited voices and high hopes into a reality of competition, sportsmanship, and school pride.

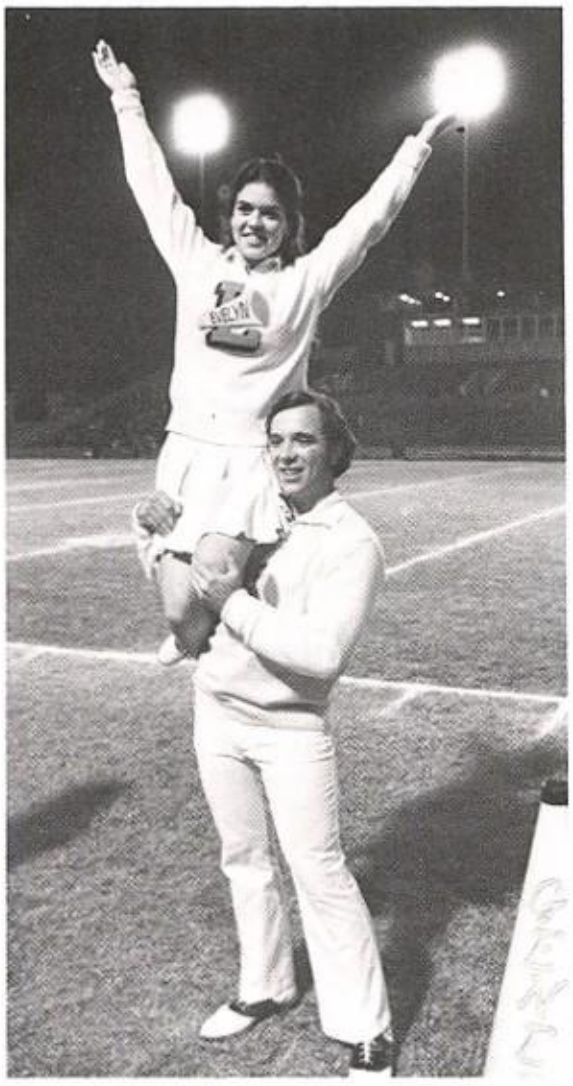
Sarah Seward, Richard Capps, Patty Hayes, Dick Eastland, Tweety Albritton, Neel Bonner, Evelyn Bumstead, Jeff Wherry.

"Do It! Do It! All Right . . ."



Jeff Wherry, Evelyn Bumstead

"Evelyn, during the school song you're supposed to clap your hands, not your feet." Miss Hester gives Evelyn Bumstead some advice at halftime.

Patty Hayes agrees that the balloon drops were intriguing additions to the pep rallies this year.

Sarah Seward's pep rally gymnastics seem unusually interesting to Neel Bonner since she added that new twist.

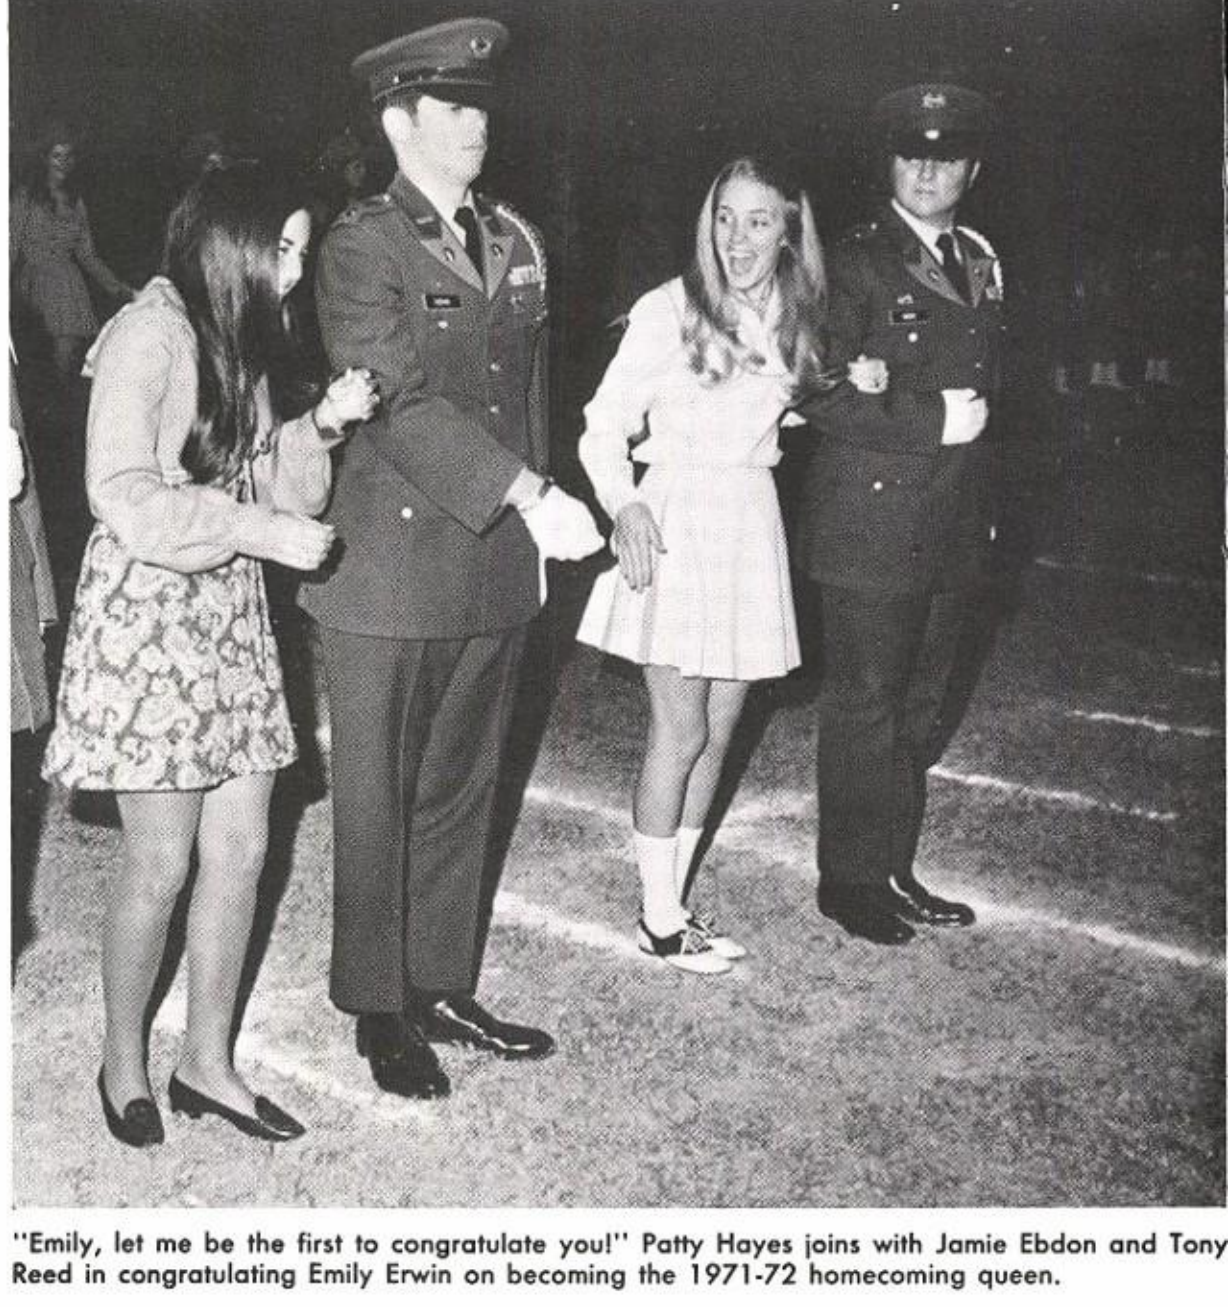
Homecoming Climaxes . . .

Halloween is the usual setting for the annual Lee-Lamar combination football rivalry and homecoming celebration. However, this year the events were spaced and the Generals enjoyed two festive games instead of one.

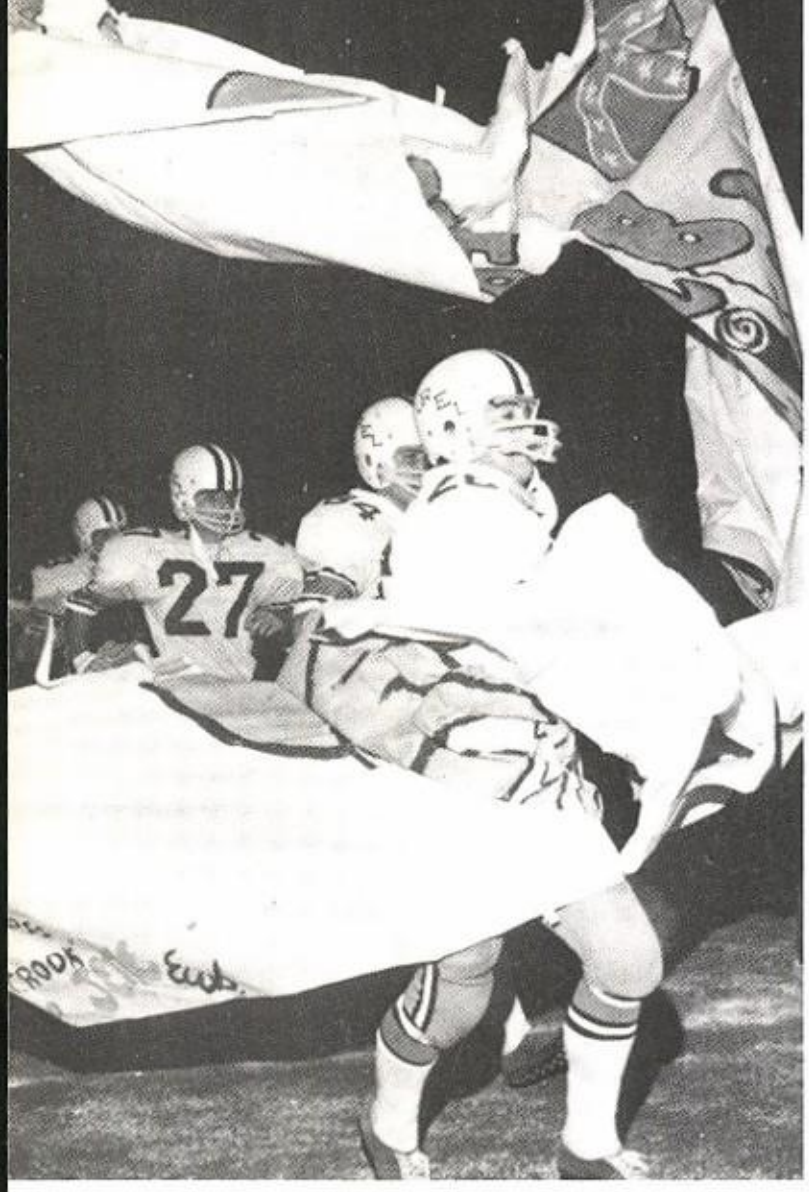
Homecoming was held on October 23, when Lee defeated Sharpstown. Helium balloons, a new homecoming queen, and an important district win all resulted in a memorable evening.

The Redskins had some revenge on the winning Generals the following week, when they kidnapped the Lee mascot before the game. However, "Uncle Bob" was retrieved in time to see "Mother" Wisdom and Miss Countee in Lee's pep rally and to attend the second district win for Lee.

The season drew to an exciting close when the Booster Club Sweetheart was chosen in a school-wide election. In December, a banquet was held for the 1971-72 city champs. At the completion of the football banquet at the Briar Club, the football season was ended. Thoughts turned from making spirit posters to the upcoming reality of finals and the advent of winter.



"Emily, let me be the first to congratulate you!" Patty Hayes joins with Jamie Ebdon and Tony Reed in congratulating Emily Erwin on becoming the 1971-72 homecoming queen.

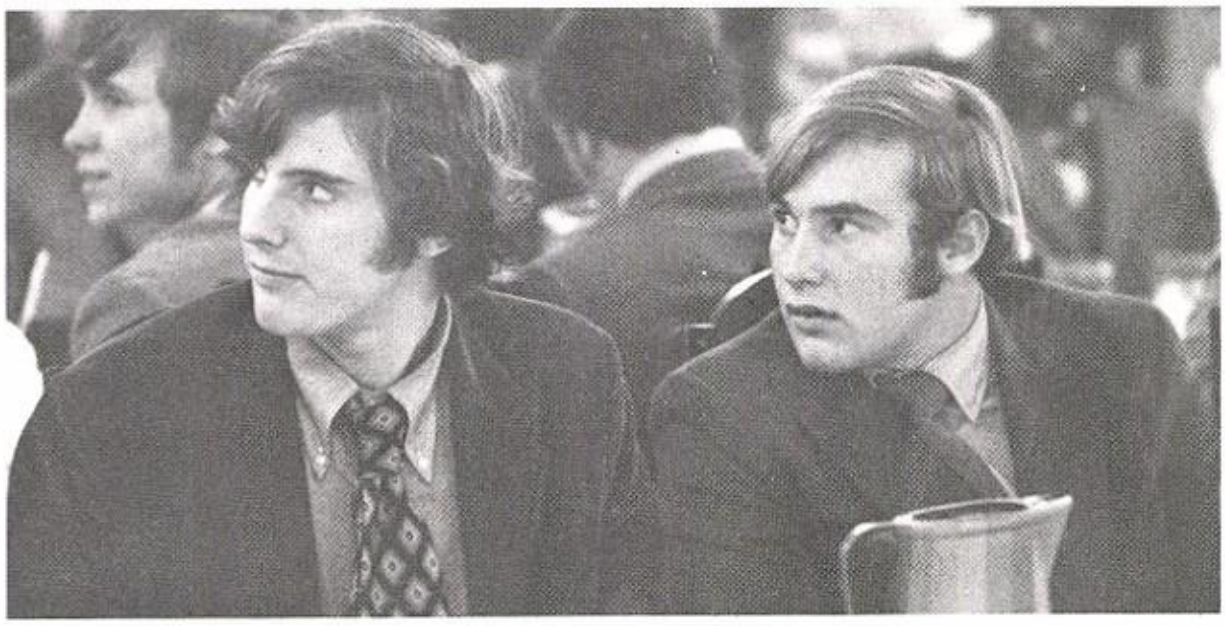


Mike Cole can fight his way out of any wet paper bag, but he seems to have trouble with this dry spirit poster as he leads the charge against the Redskins.

"Help, it's a multi-eyed monster!" Kathy Dick is only half right about Rey Garza as he sells spirit balloons to a confused Mary Di Fiore.

A Victorious Season

Mr. Shivers congratulates Lawrence Burton on a well-played year.



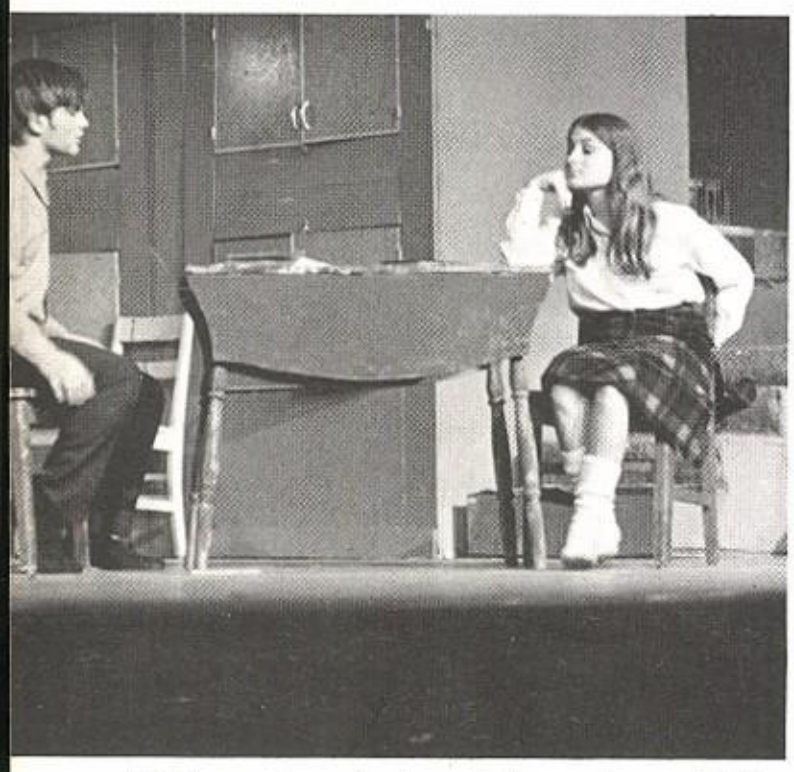
At the football banquet, Kevin Henry and Mark Revels anxiously await the announcement of the winner of the coolest athlete on campus election.

"Barbara, I think you'd better stick to the standard cheers, you're embarrassing the other girls!" Janice Pogue tries to squelch Barbara Beale's enthusiasm.

"What do you mean, take them all down and put them in the auditorium?" Melinda Fugitt finds that being Booster Club Sweetheart has its drawbacks, too.

"I'm not as good as I once was, but I'm as good once as I ever was!" Bettina Herbert chides Tony Reed as Steve Otis grieves unnoticed.

"Anne, didn't you learn any manners in that camp?" Tena Alcorn reprimands Dee Russell.



"Wake up, Dee, the director's lecture is over." Winston Cochran and Dee Russell demonstrate the perils of late-night rehearsals.

Steve Otis and Suzy Patterson bring the play to a dramatic close as Steve reads Anne's diary aloud.

"Remember, an actor's performance is not judged at the play, but rather at the cast party," Royce Wilson reminds Tena Alcorn and Shauna Pearce.

Mr. Nichols gives Charles Cope some pointers on handling his first affirmative case.

Speech Enthusiasts Show Skills

Collectively, one of the major activities at Lee is its speech department. The National Thespian Society and the National Forensic League each direct the enthusiasm of their participants into dramas and debates.

On December 9, and 10, the drama members presented a full length showing of the well known play, "The Diary of Anne Frank." It is a story of how a group of German Jews survive Hitler's reign by hiding in an attic. The cast includes: Steve Otis, Dee Russell, Winston Cochran, Tena Alcorn, Bettina Herbert, Tony Reed, Vernon Proctor, Kathy Matranga, Suzie Patterson, and Royce Wilson.

The National Forensic League also presented evidence of its hard work at a number of speech tournaments. Entrants in such events as extemporaneous speaking, oratory, and debate went to many local tournaments as well as to out of town competitions in Beaumont, Dallas, and Corpus Christi. Lee's speech department relies upon its student participants as well as its adult sponsors, Mr. Rod Nichols and Mr. Fred Smith.

Debate tournaments provide great intellectual stimulation. Susie Roberts, Andy Harvin, and Andrea Moore prove that as they wait for the results of the last round of competition.

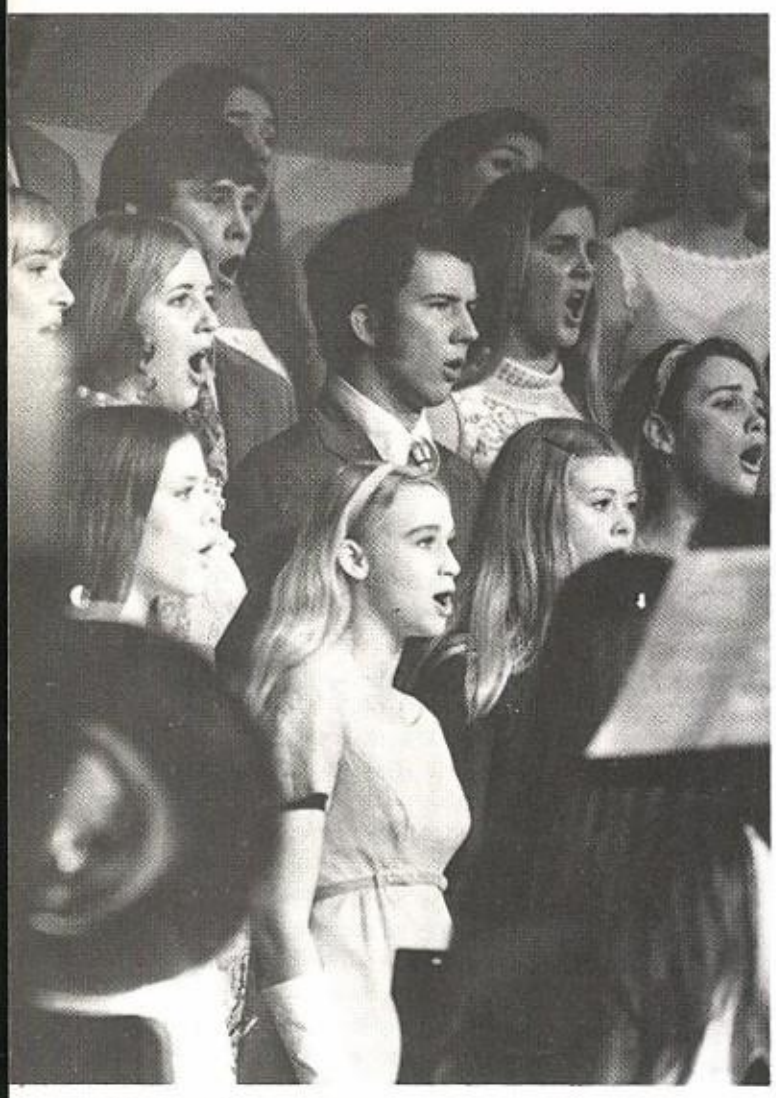
Mr. Smith gives his drama entries some advice and a pep talk before the first event at the Beaumont French tournament.

Christmas Is A Time for Unity

A dream of a white Christmas was once again unfulfilled for most Lee students; nevertheless, good cheer found its way to Leeites.

Various service clubs visited underprivileged schools to boost the spirit of Christmas and to make the season more enjoyable for others. Many students displayed their creativity by decorating their homeroom doors for the annual contest. The Dixi-Liers and Southernaires presented a program of Christmas music for the students and faculty of Lee, as well as appearing on local television to sing their carols.

Following a week of school dedicated to the holiday spirit, Lee students were dismissed for a two week vacation to recover from the fall semester and to brace for the spring term.



The Southernaires join the Dixi-Liers for a program of Christmas music they presented to the student body.

Joining together in a Christmas Eve service are: Jim Weyland, Marcia Heacker, Dick Dawson, Lau-rette Beason, Bob Jungman, Paula Bailey, and Bill Hayes.

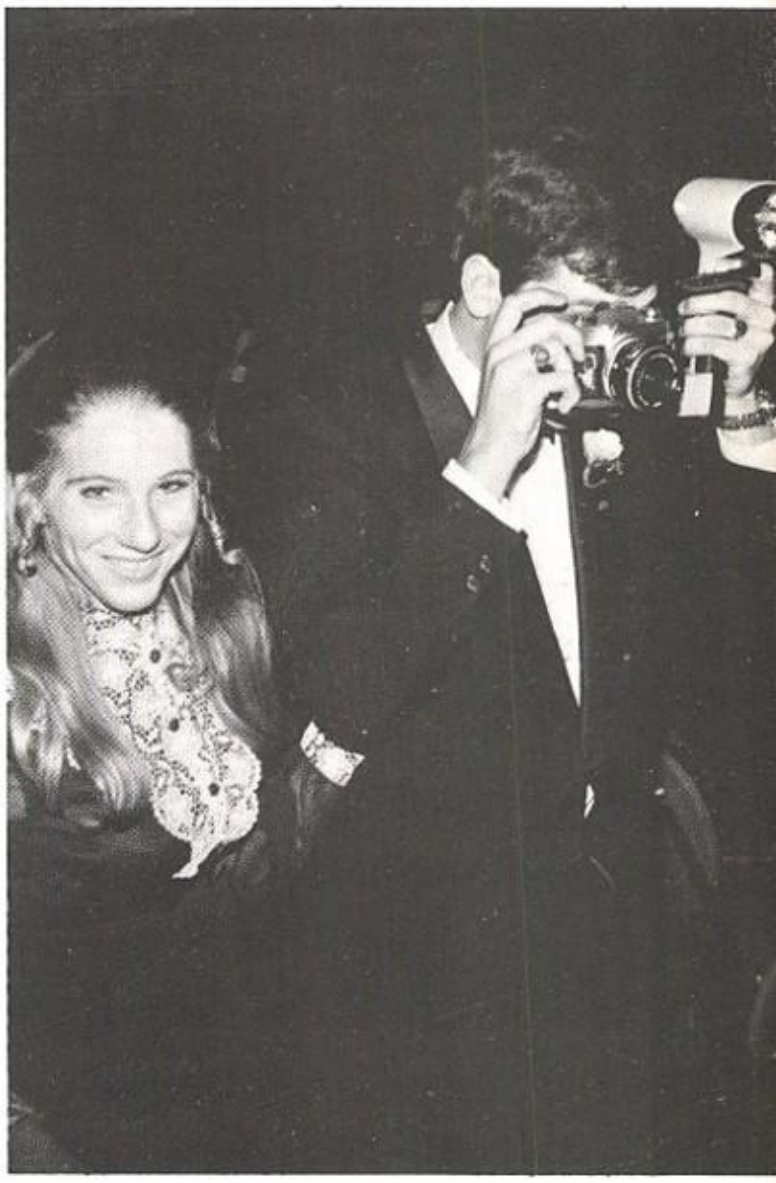
"Jeff, don't look now but the cameraman just ran off with Miss Grant." Robert Barrett worries about the outcome of the Dixi-Liers' T.V. taping, but Jeff McCrehan keeps cool.

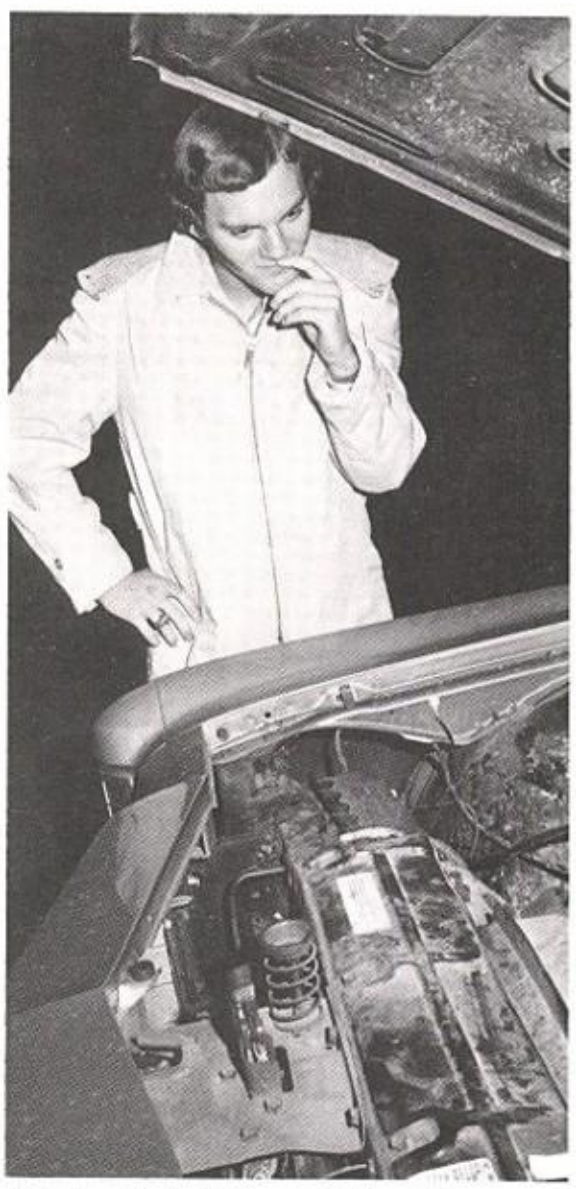


"Sure, I enjoy going with a photographer to a New Year's Eve party, but at midnight he kisses his camera." Kathy Purifoy lists the disadvantages of dating Craig Rench.

Winter Comes to Lee

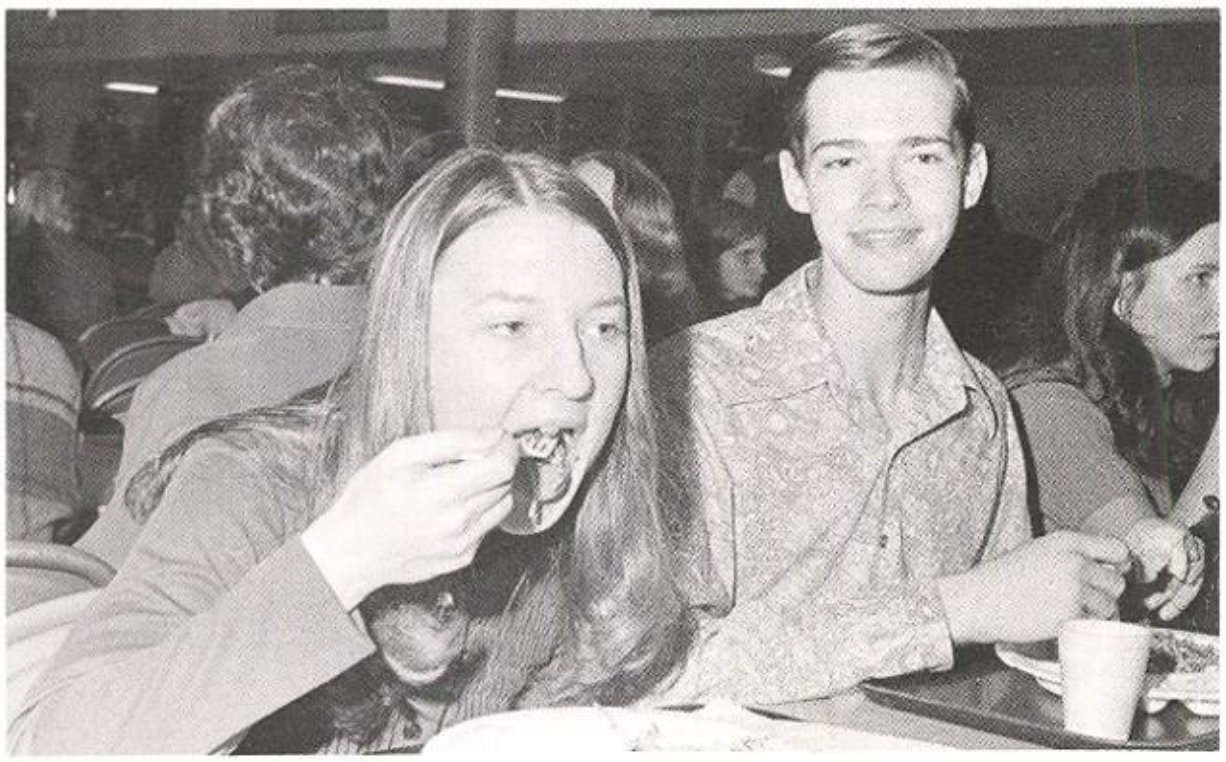
"I'm afraid that nature has an advantage over the Popsicle company." Jane Lambdin welcomes the signs of winter.

"It's so cold outside that it could take the curl out of your hair." Linda Manthos complains about Houston's infrequent but harsh winter weather.



"Maybe Apple Wine could keep it warm, it does a good job on me." Randy Weidner searches for an effective antifreeze on a cold winter night.

Mrs. Karin Cash leads the Symphonic Orchestra and Southernaires in a medley of songs.



Paula Kelley and Mike Koonce think Spaghetti-O's would be easier and less messy.

In holding the Spaghetti Supper, band members earned enough money to pay for a trip to Six Flags.

Marchers Make Music and Money

Robert E. Lee's Marching Generals exercised other talents when they performed at their annual "Spaghetti Supper." For the price of a ticket, the donors not only received a meal, but were entertained by the Symphonic Orchestra, Southernaires, Stage Bands, and Lieutenants.

Other money raised by the band paid for entry fees for band and orchestra contests, instrument repairs, uniforms, and new music. However, money raised by the "Spaghetti Supper" was earmarked for a special purpose. In May, the concert band traveled to Dallas to attend the Six Flags Music Festival.

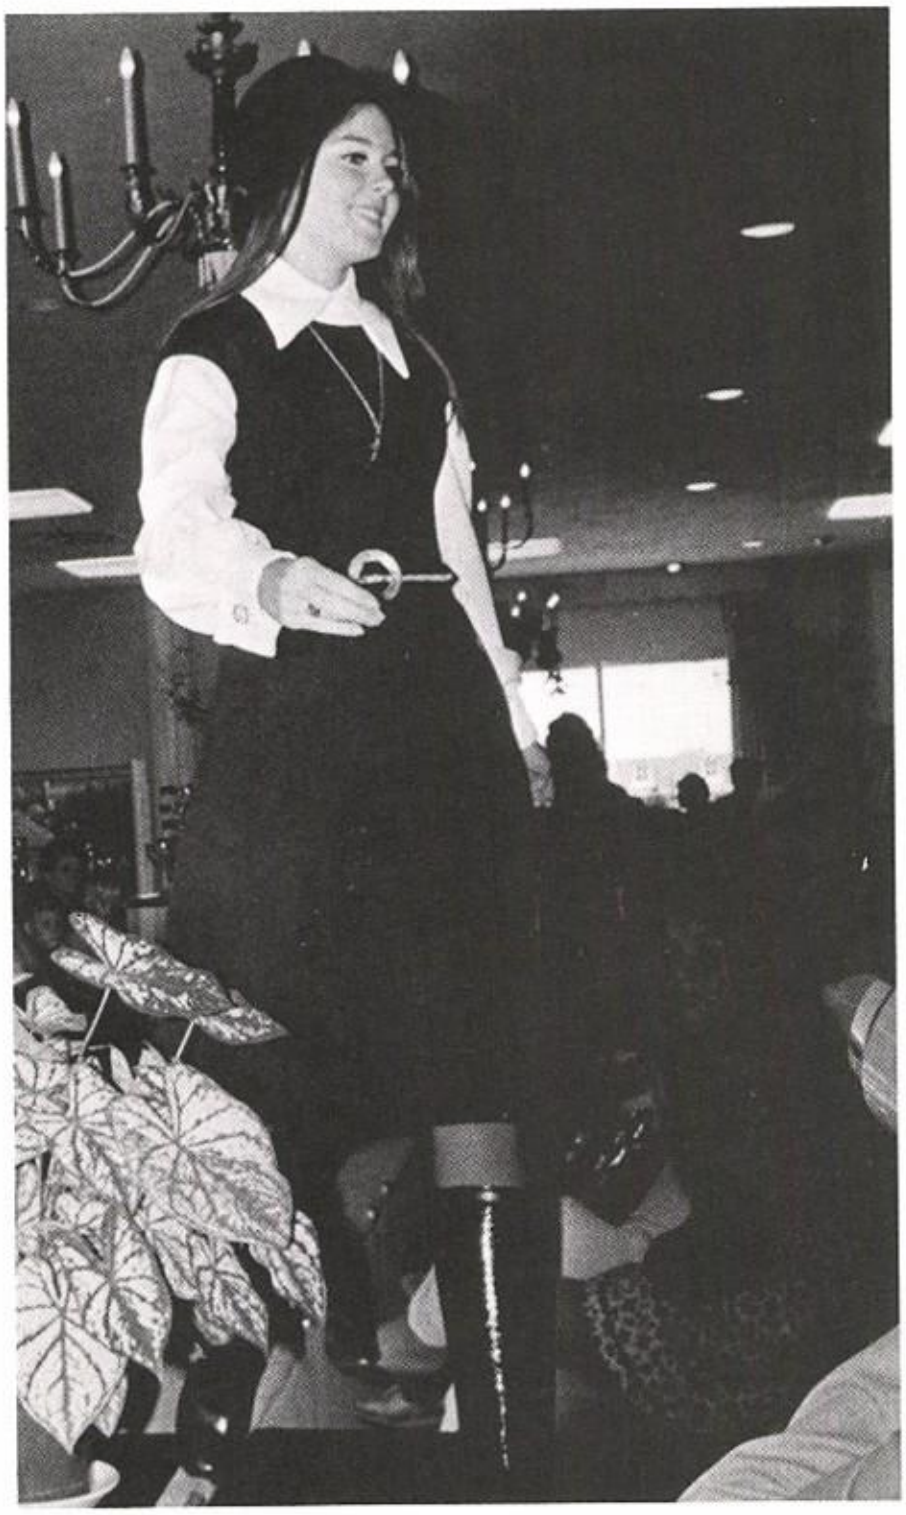
January Brings The Final Week

"Maybe I can take HER to have pizza, or maybe to get hamburgers, or maybe steak . . ." dreams Bobby Sellingsloh while he should be studying for that math final.

"Ho-ho! I sure fooled them this time — everyone has the same test!" chuckles Mr. Robinson as his English class takes his final.

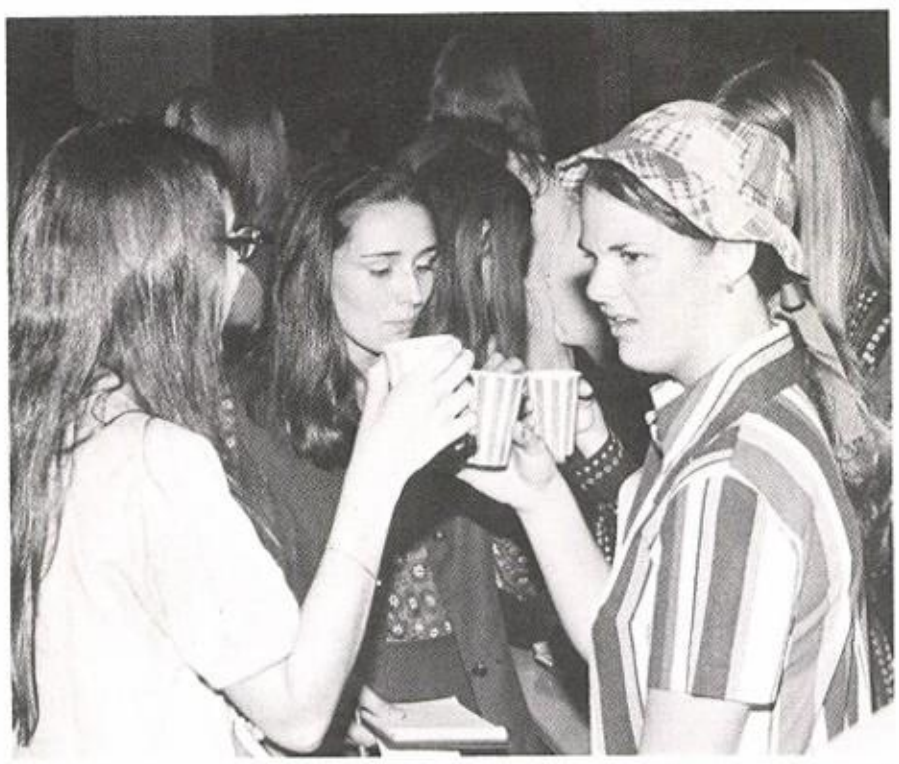
"Finals make me so hungry! I think I'll have three hamburgers, two chocolate shakes, and a Dolly's Delight," mumble Jane Demetriades and Pam Kostas as they take a break between finals at Across the Street.

Finals Are Over, Everybody Relax!



"My feet are killing me!" Donna Wells seems all uptight at one of the many style shows she appeared in during the winter.

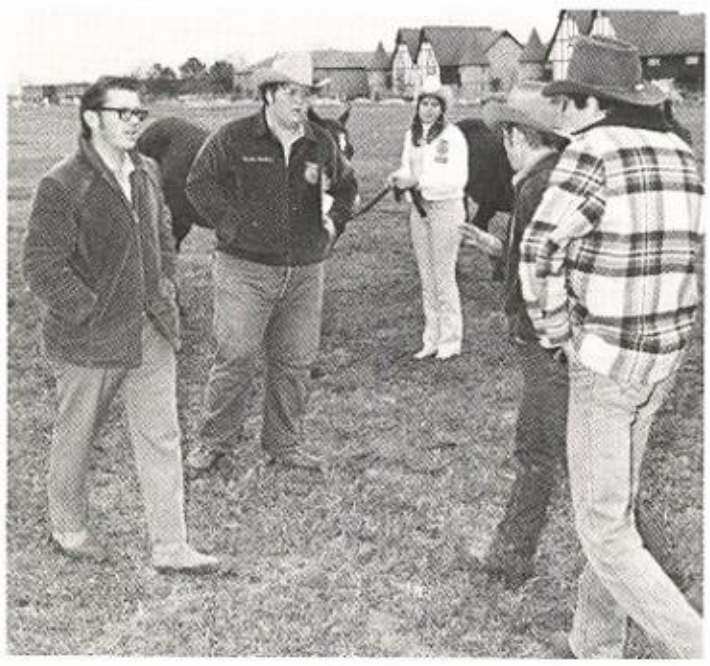
Vincent Zinnante, Marva Menzdorf, Bettina Herbert, David Crank, and Jimmy Foster are glad the pressures of finals and All-Region Band competition are finally over!



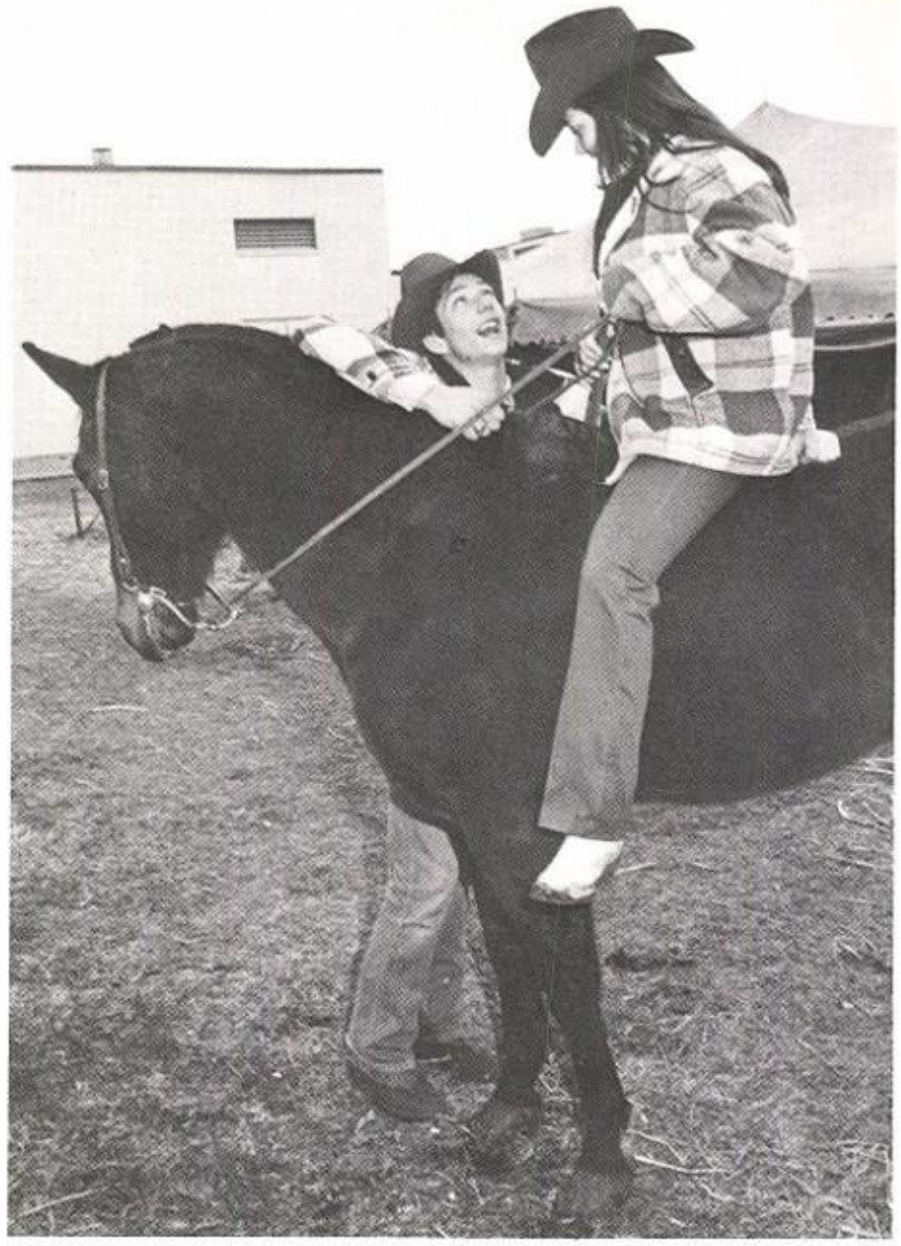
"Ever-what?" Gayle Spoor questions the punch at the Dramalee rush party, but Andrea Moore and Connie Mullins aren't worried.

"Come to our formal, you'll have a ball!" Cindy Hellmann helps with the decorations for her group's party.

Kicker Carnival Captures Crowds



"What do you mean that at 20¢ a pound you could make more money off of me?" retorts Mike Baker to his "ag" friends.



"Pardon me, but can you give me a ride to the lunchroom?" Ray Coreale finds that hitch-hiking is rare on the Lee campus.

"Don't brush so hard, this is one black sheep that doesn't have much wool," Robert Sherril warns Kay Knepper.

A lamb is a girl's best friend; at least Loretta Scardino thinks so.

"You know, cow, it's really refreshing to see someone eating grass for a change." Mrs. Peterson finds a friend at the FFA show.

"What she doesn't know shouldn't hurt her." Patti La Fitte conceals the real contents a cup of coffee from Kristen Stoley.

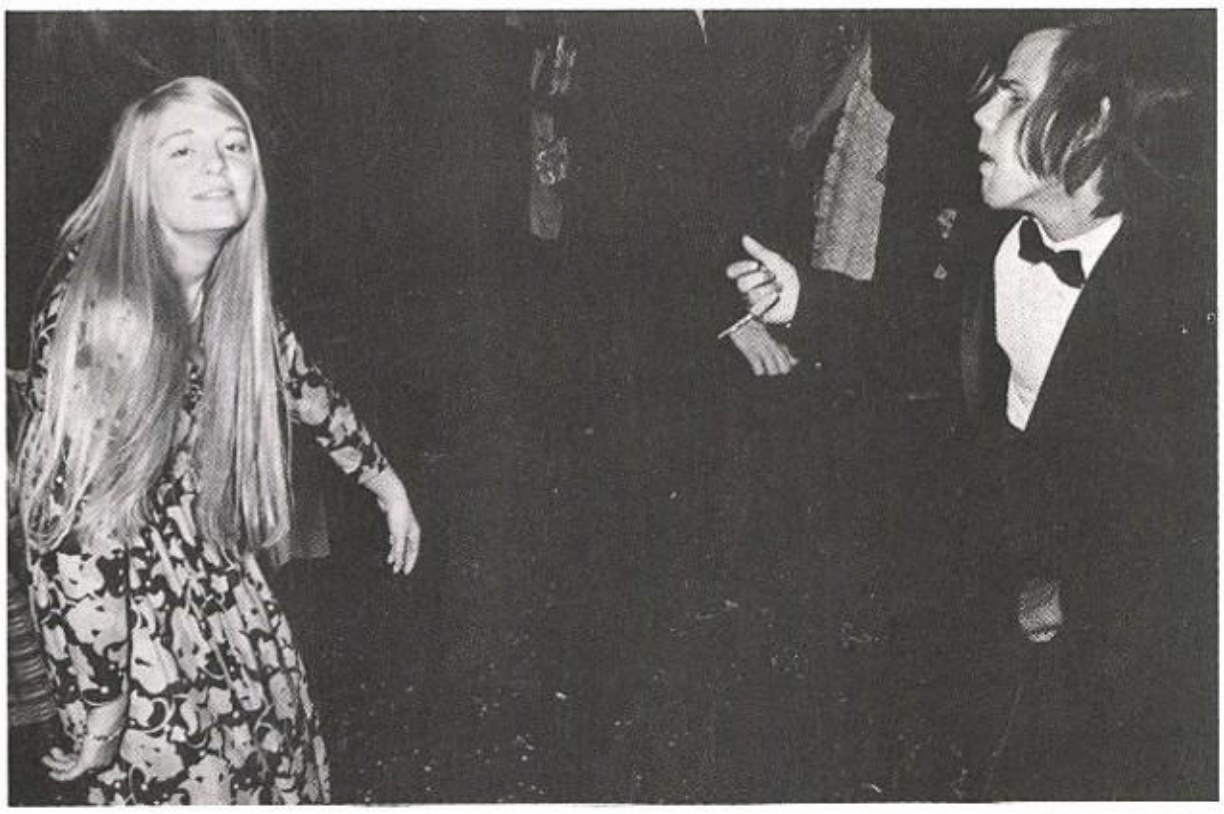
Celebrities Startle Students

"Well, John, if you're not impressed by my show, you can always have another chance to revise your opinion next Christmas in Saigon." Bob Hope threatens John Genge at the St. Joseph's benefit show.

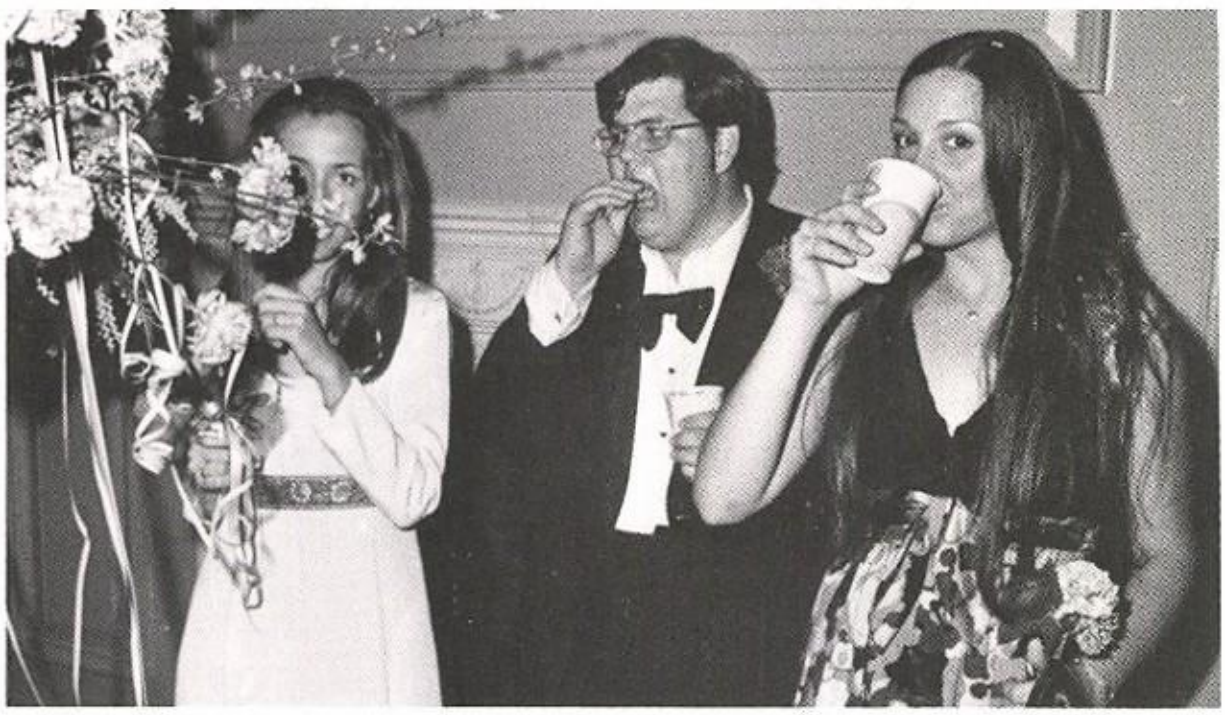
"Oh! David Hartman really is one of the bold ones." Kathy Golding gets to know her favorite television star.

"Shauna, I'm really impressed that you washed and ironed your jeans to come to Jones Hall just to see me." George Kirby is flattered by Shauna Pearce.

"Well, at least this 'Little Luke' is the real McCoy." Kathleen Hindman and Lynn Schissler meet the object of their childhood crushes, Dick Crenna, after all these years.



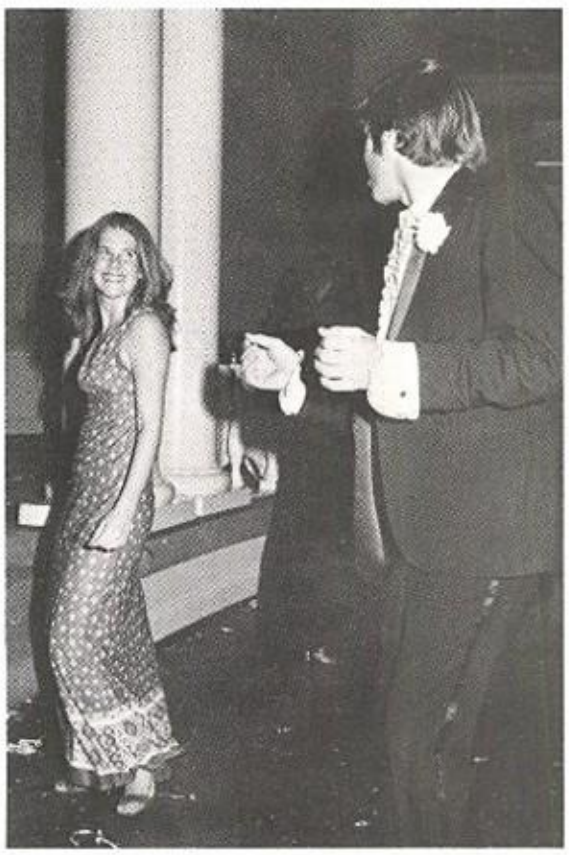
Kerry McGinnis and Brownlee Ferguson form their own imaginary rock group at the Mardi Gras formal.



The three "Mouthketeers": Debbie Brown, Mike Baker, and Debbie Roach.

"Bill, with this mask, nobody will know that you're not the wild man of Borneo." Karol Gandy jests with Bill Fisher.

"See you next week, same time, same place," winces Paul Smith as he and Robin Long depart another formal.



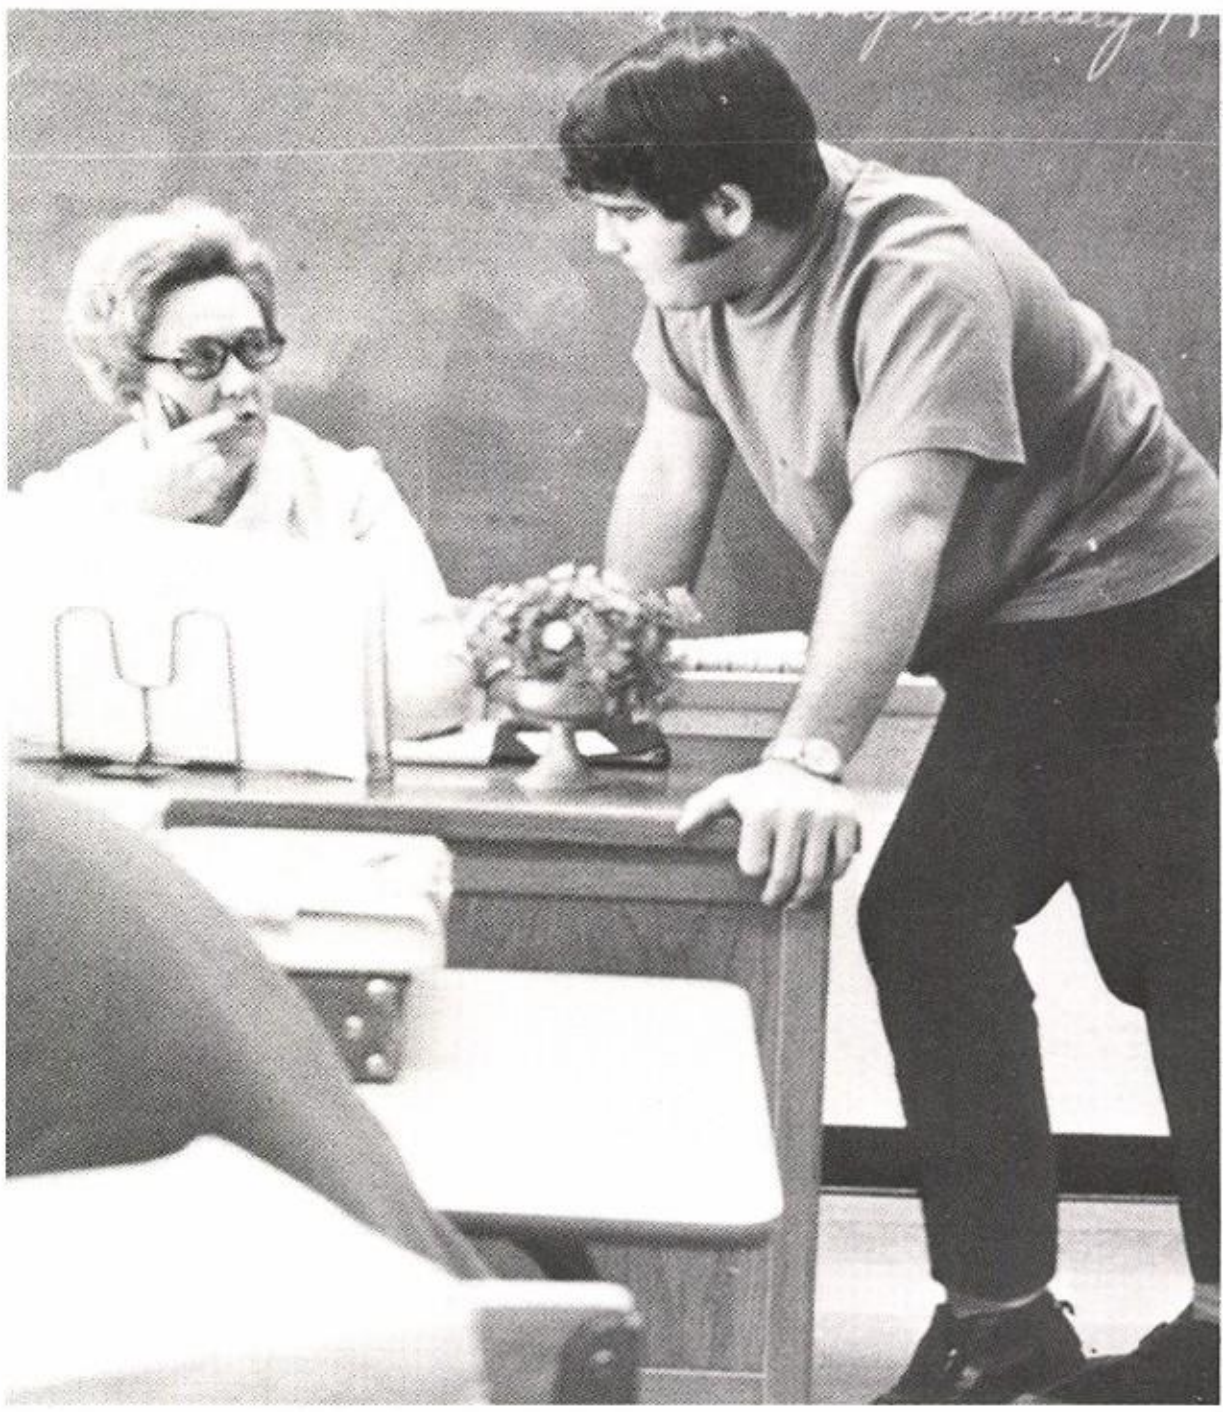
"Toni, don't you think we'd better boogie?" Mike Little coaxes Toni Ballard to make a quick exeunt.

Spring Fever Strikes Students

Warmer spring days find friends chatting in front of school after a hard day at the salt mines.

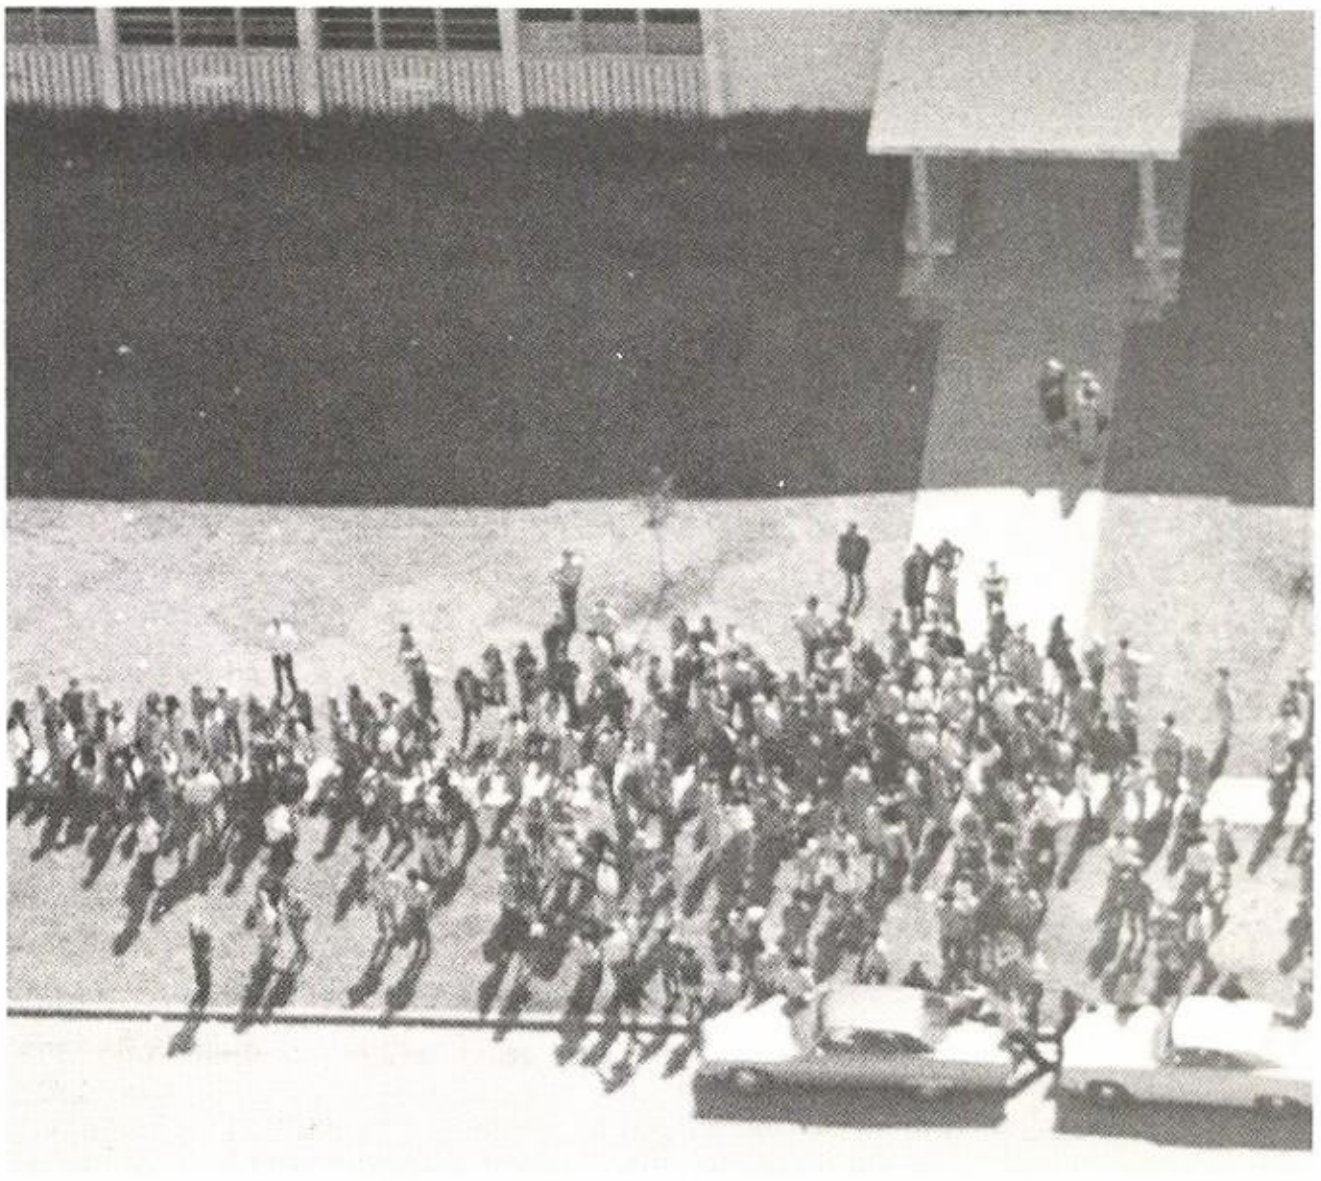
"Kerry, it's been at least an hour since I saw you last." Linda Manthos and Kerry Golemon are inseparable friends.

Jean Moreno would rather study the lessons of nature than those taught in the building.



"Don, you'd better quit calling me darling or I'll spring fever you right out of this class." Mrs. Levitt warns Don Anderson not to get carried away.

Martha Garcia and Jeanne Hoffman watch the airplane . . .



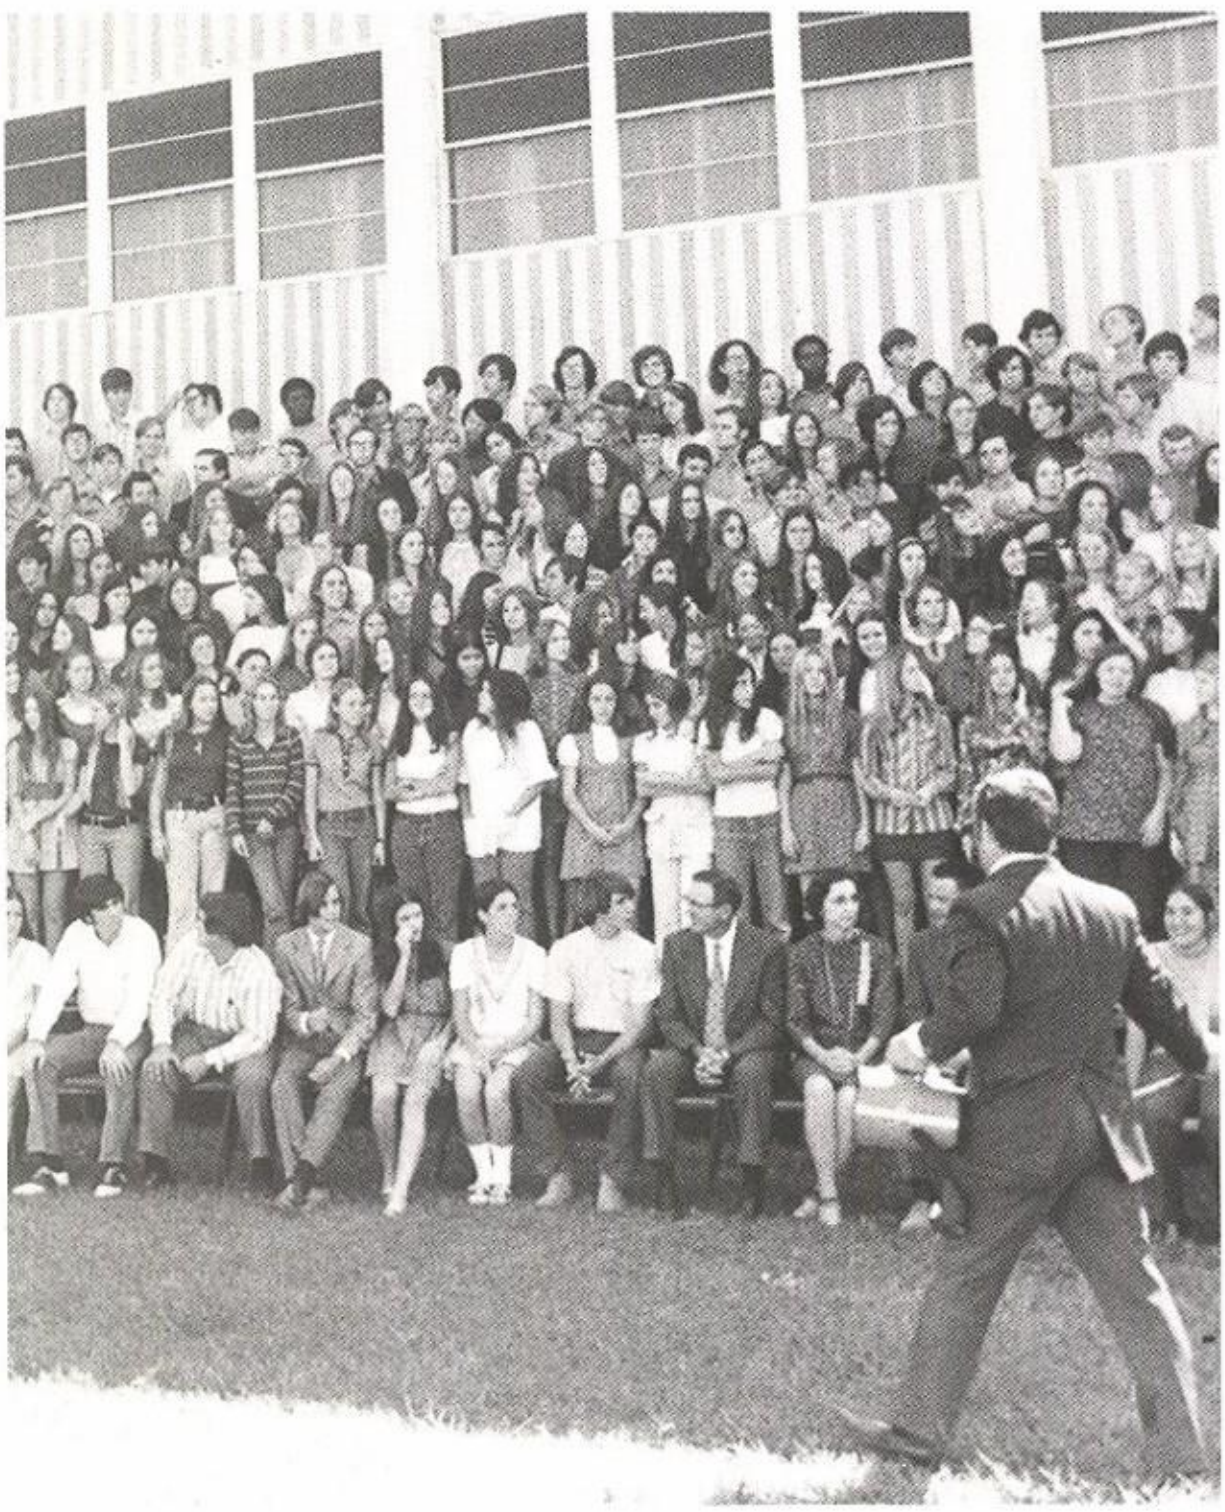
. . . from which this photograph of every student's favorite classroom activity, a fire drill, was taken.

"Now, let's see, only two months, three days, and thirty-six minutes until school is out." Edward Breland has much work to keep his spring afternoons occupied.

"Now that spring is here, there's no telling what you'll find in the bushes besides a tennis ball," chirps Walter Bering.

Graduation Becomes the End of the Beginning

On "skip day," seniors like Kathy Matranga and Gene Boyd don't have to go to all this trouble to leave school, but it is more fun.

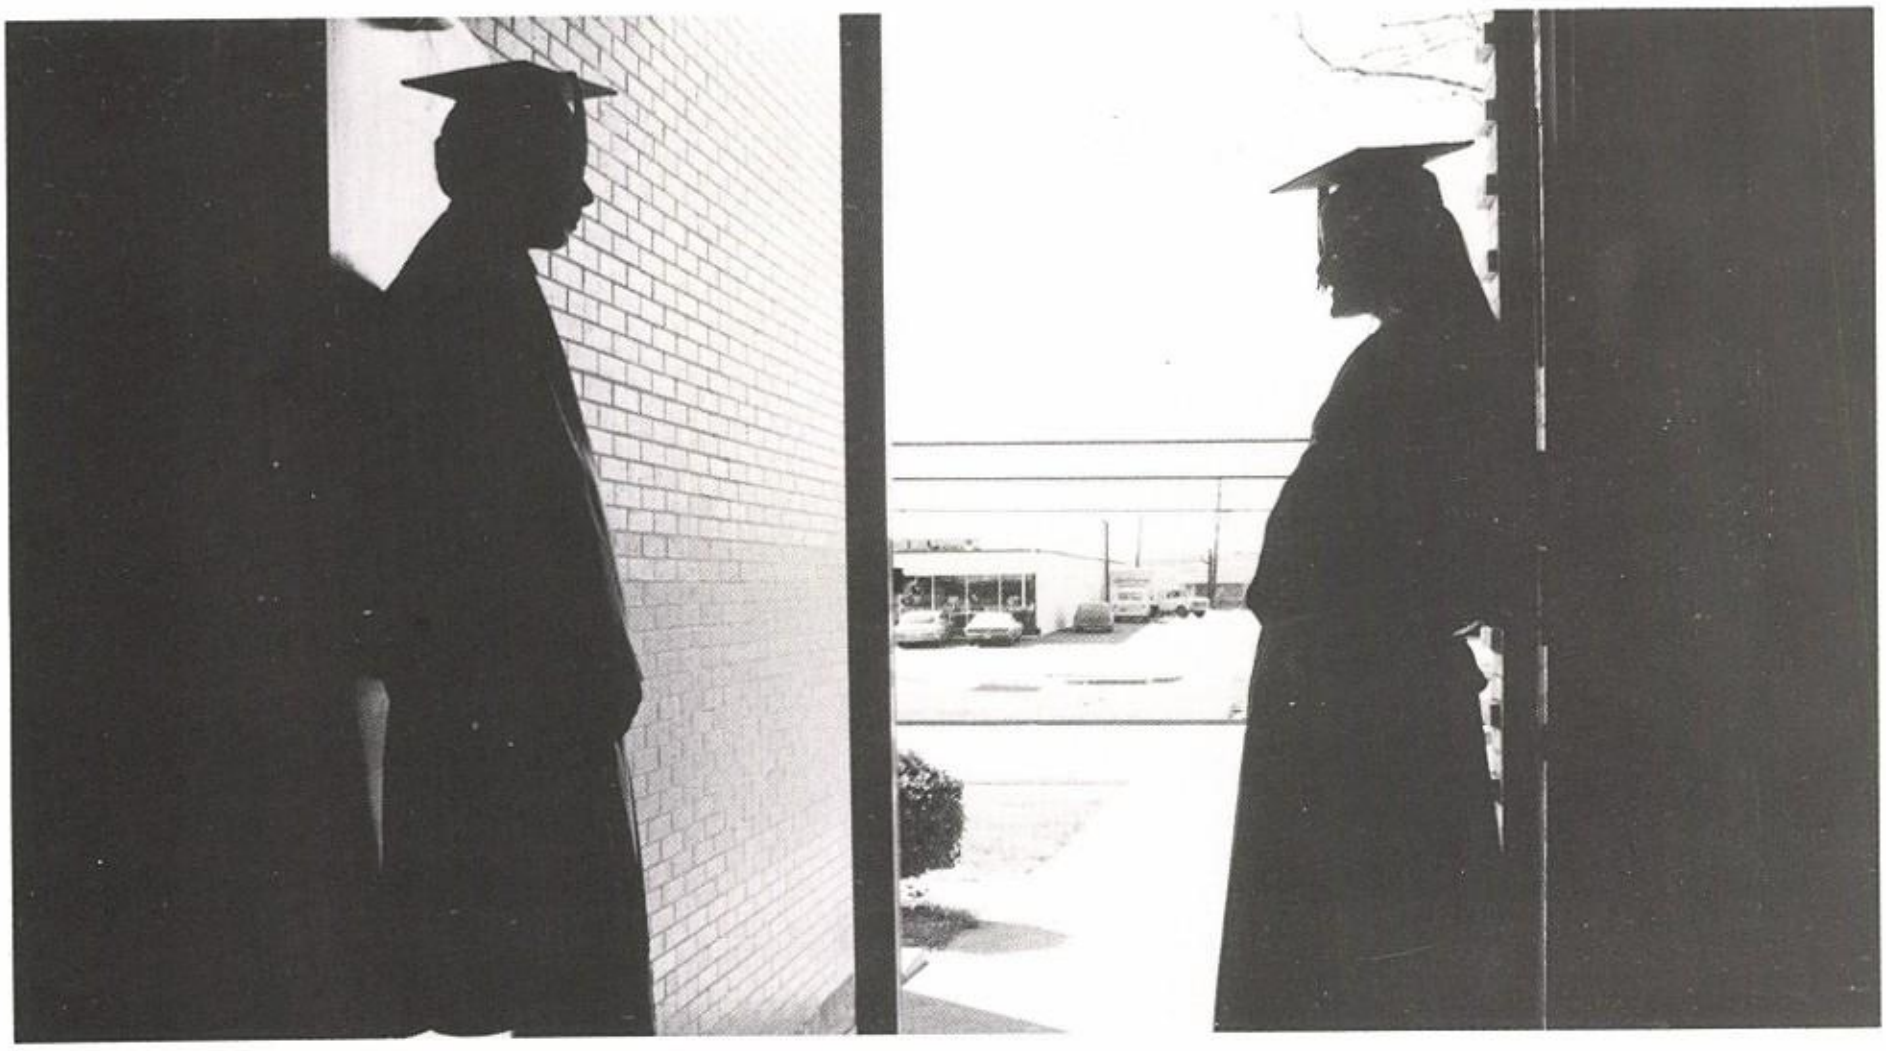


Seniors line up for their annual panoramic "mug shot."

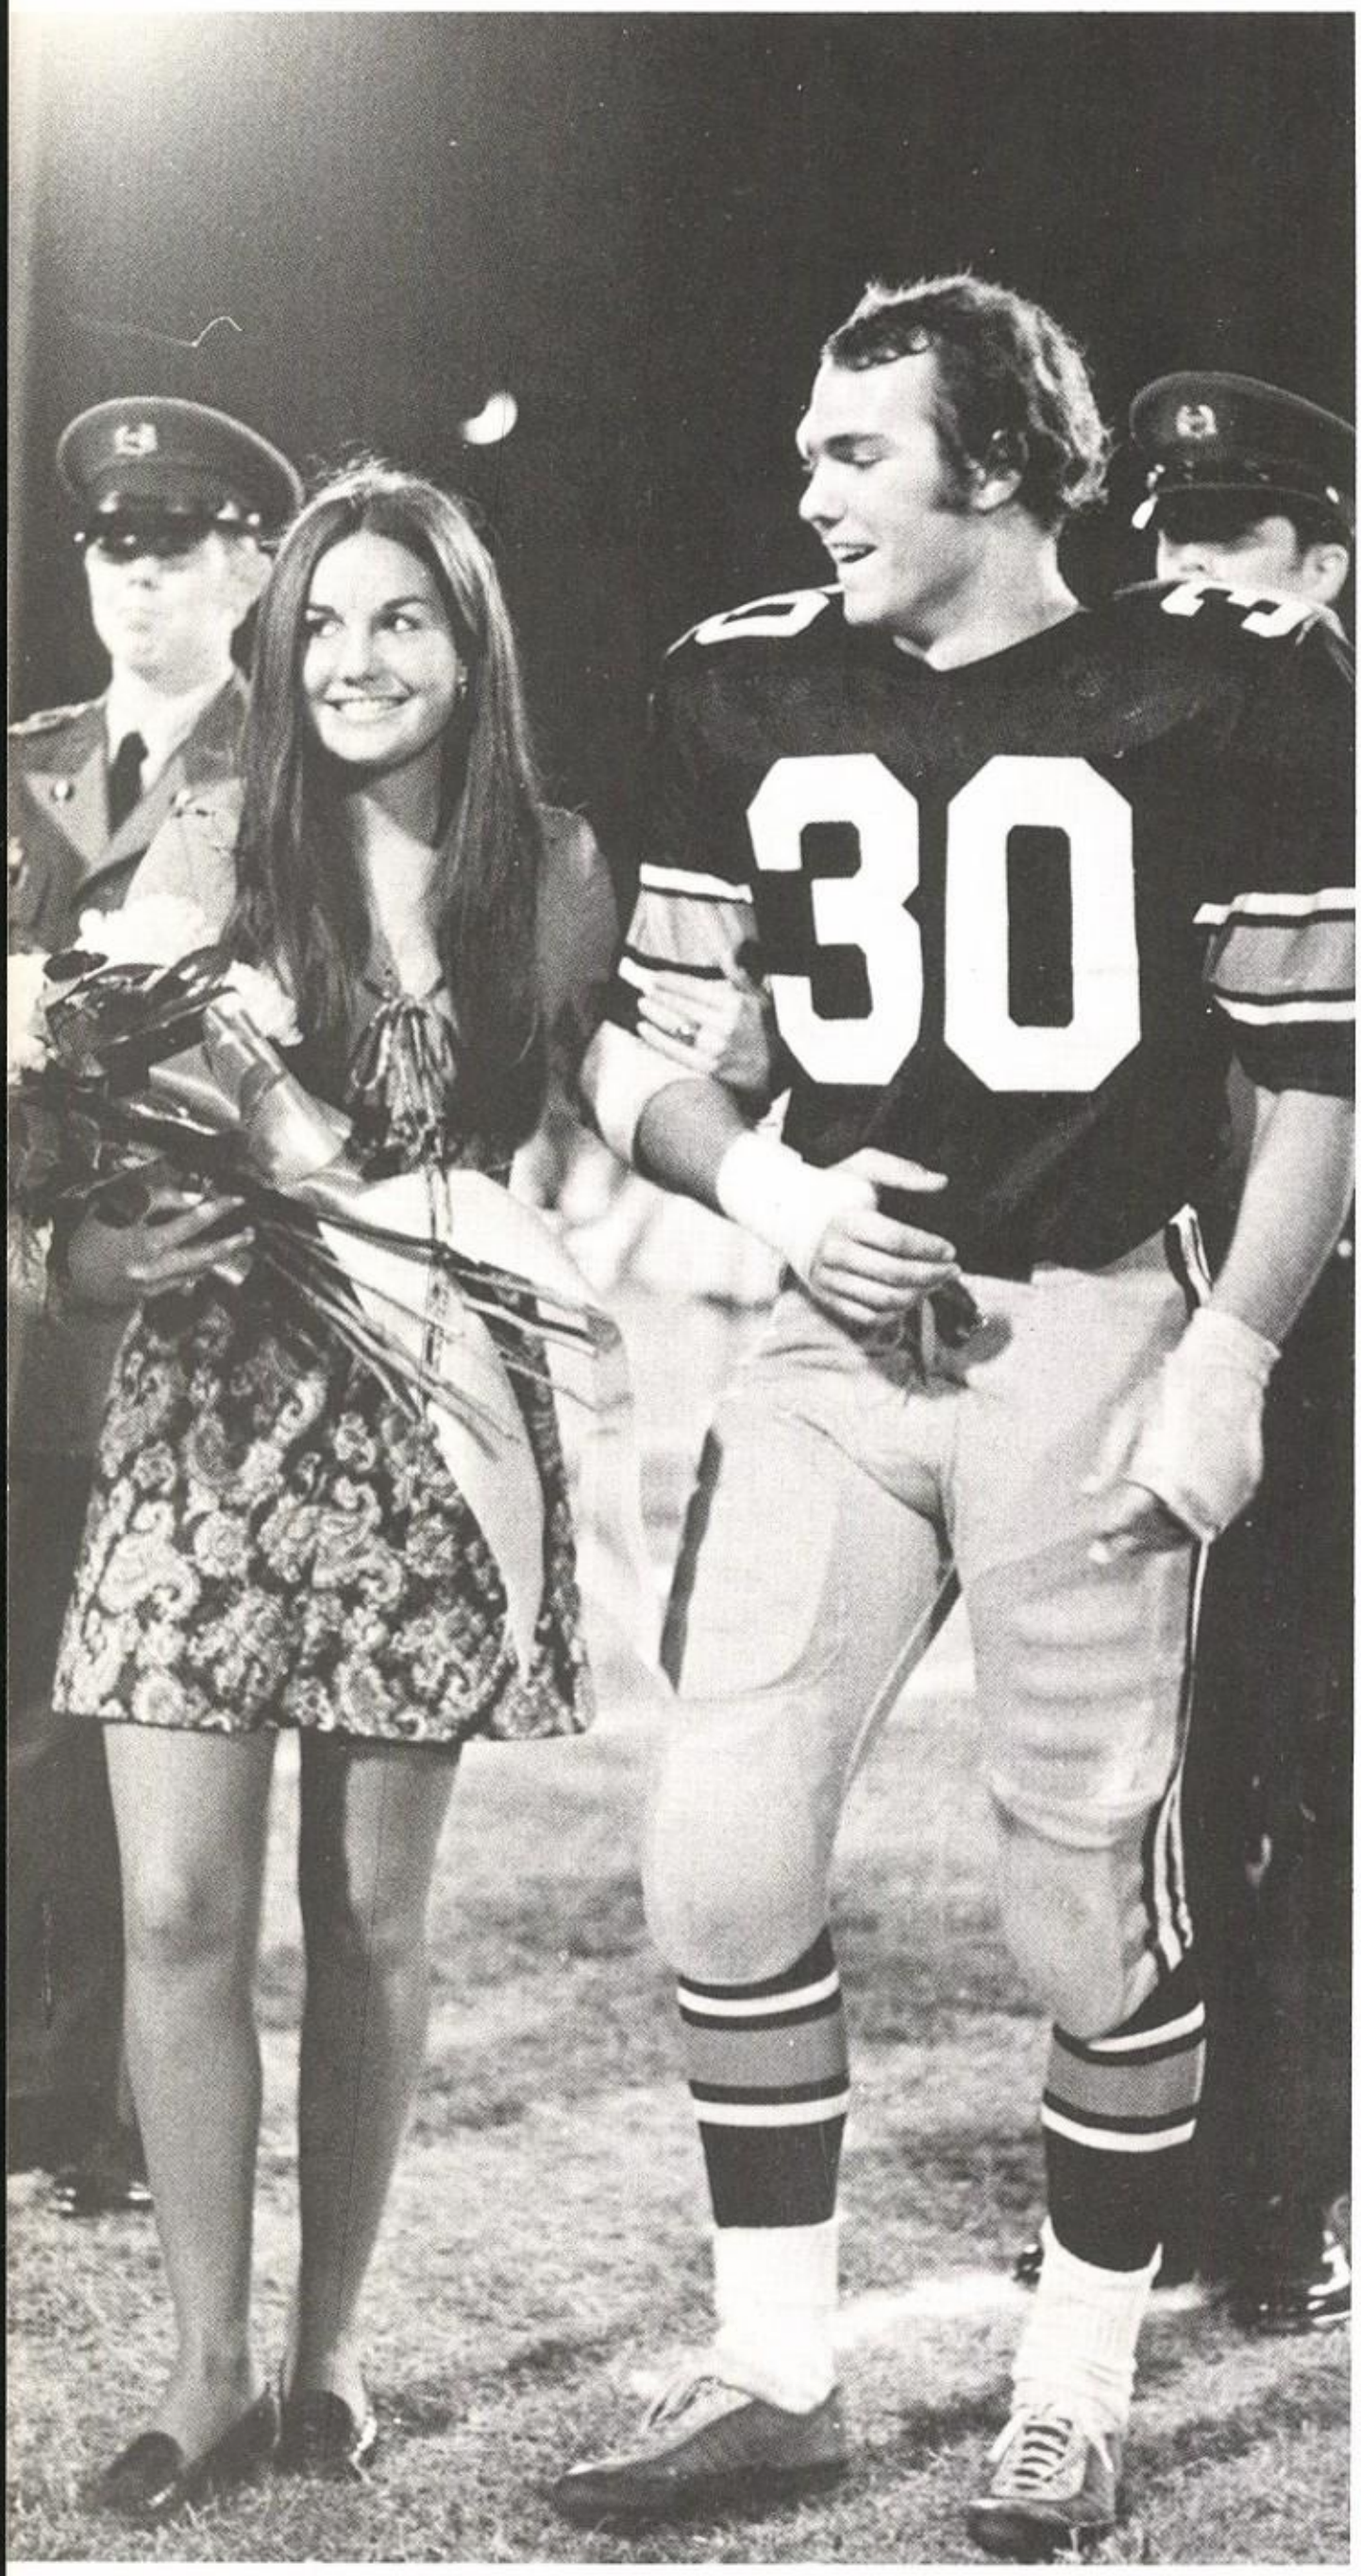
One advantage of being a senior is the chance to attend the oceanography field trip — just ask Robert Champion.

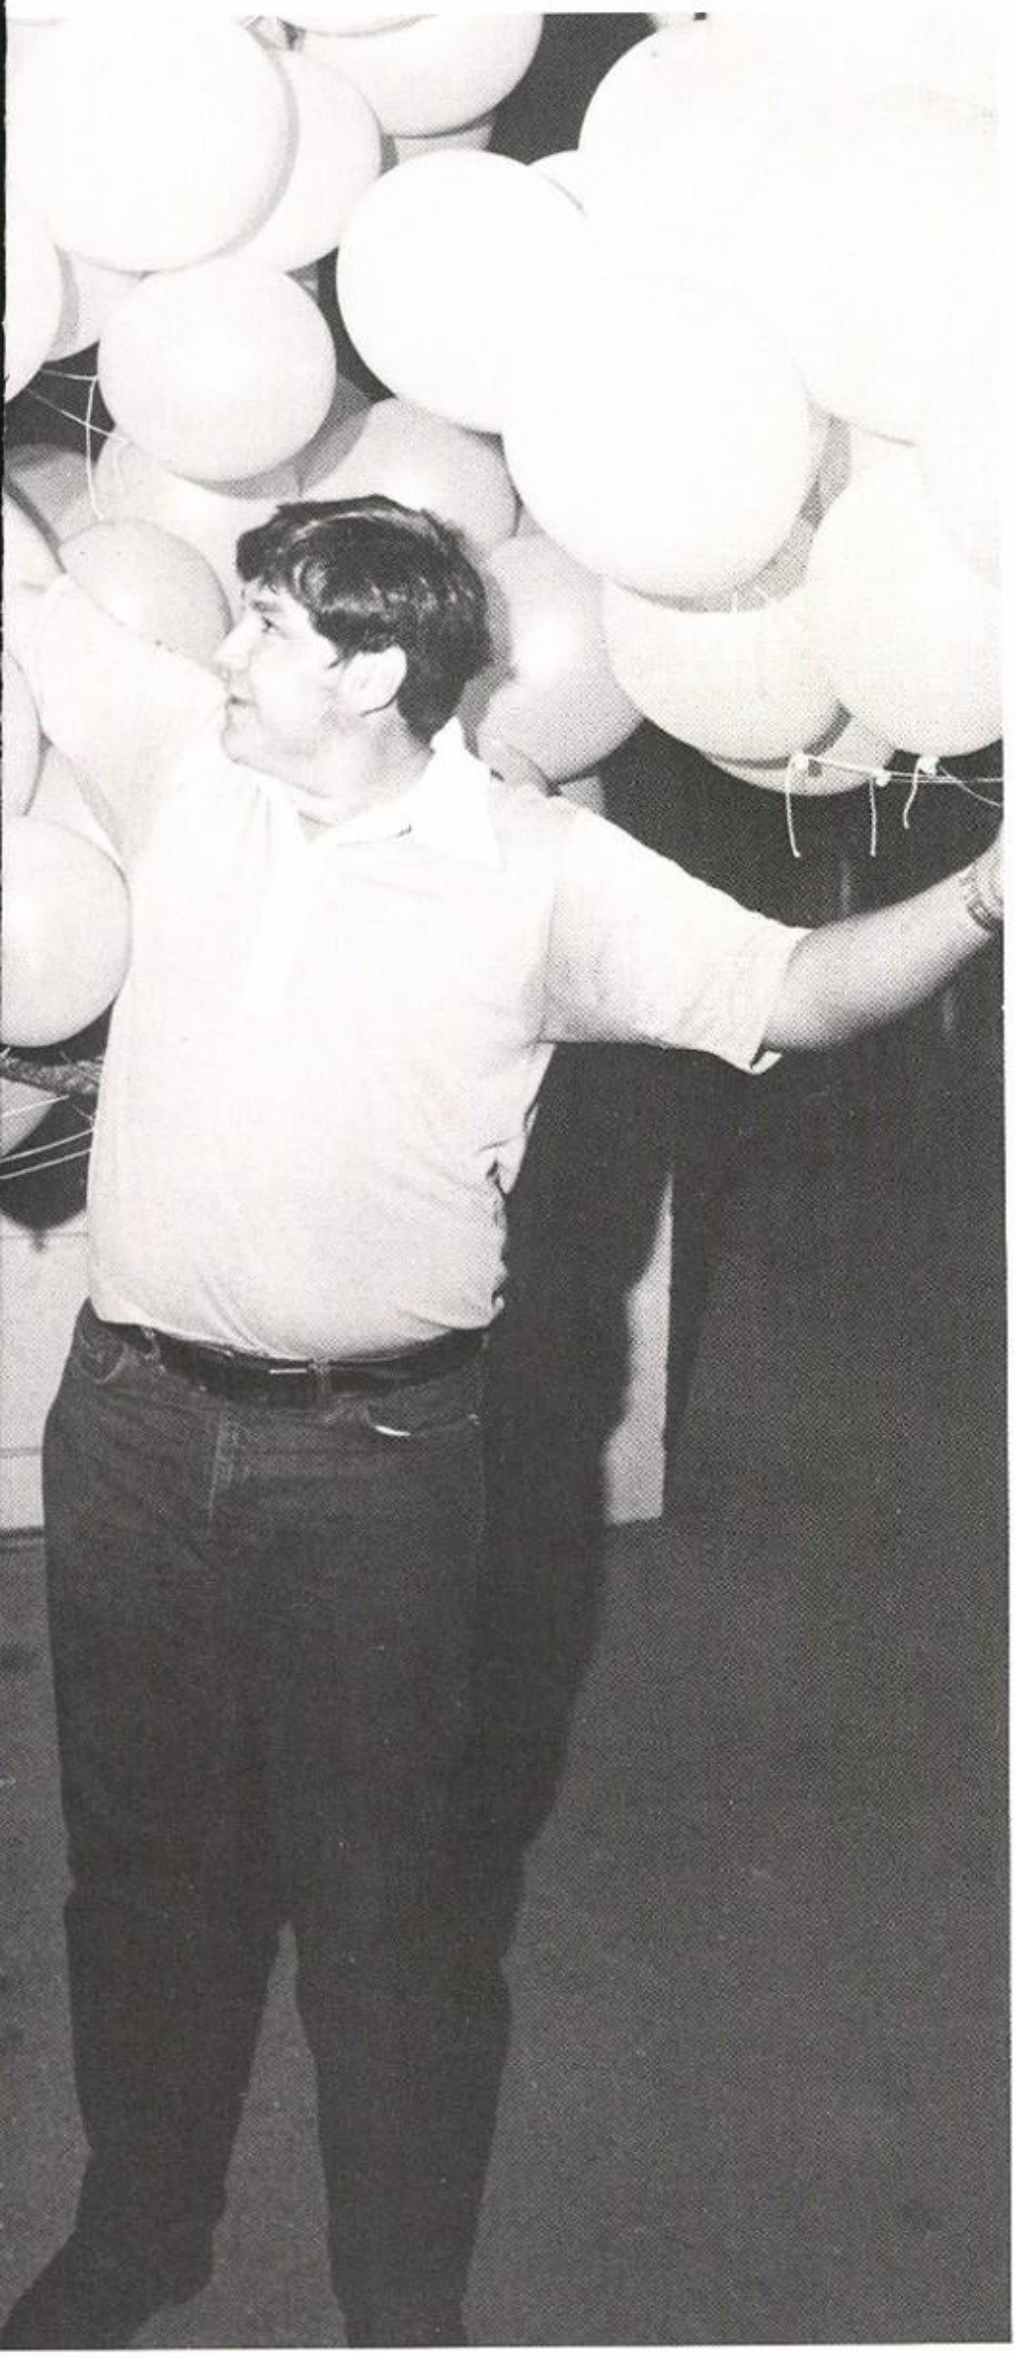
"This has got to be the gooiest dip I've ever eaten." Sarah Seward downs some refreshments at a girl's coke party while Diana Simmons tries to ignore the mess.

"The folks said that they had a little graduation gift lined up, but this!" Kerry Teaff admires the mark of twelve years' accomplishment.



"Well, we've come a long way, baby."





Favorites . . .

Behind these smiling faces are people — playing dual roles as friends and favorites.

Achievements such as these come from within the individuals themselves — beauty is an entity no one else can imitate.

Years after one has been graduated from school, one remembers the "beautiful people."

Seniors Discover Individualism

Individualism was a predominant factor to Lee's 1972 graduating seniors. It was a year to explore one's personal feelings, to find one's "true" self, and to establish one's beliefs.

The right of eighteen year olds to vote for the first time allowed many Lee seniors the privilege of expressing their individual viewpoints in matters that directly affect them.

Under the leadership of Mr. Kelly Ritch, class sponsor, the senior cabinet helps plan activities which involve each person's interests: the senior prom, Baccalaureate, and Commencement exercises.

The individual was seen in daily routines: studying in the classroom, serving as a leader in clubs and student government, participating in the fine arts activities, or representing Lee on the athletic field. As time passes, Lee's 1972 graduates will look upon their senior year as one that stressed individualism.

Reality has also been defined as that which exists, and it cannot be doubted that the very existence of a school is dependent upon its lifeblood — people.

1972 radically altered the life of a school and its people — some to a more acute degree than others.

Lee felt only tremors of this upheaval in its administration, teaching methods, and racial composition.

Altruism, a broad social goal, became the pretension of a conscious few toward the unsuspecting majority.

Has the quest for knowledge or decisions of personal choice ever been programmed into a human brain?

No one can carve anyone else's life or define its purpose.

Every human's unalienable right to formulate his own existence is undeniable.

A sense of unity was created by students, all searching for similar answers about self.

In this day of shifting morality, what is real?

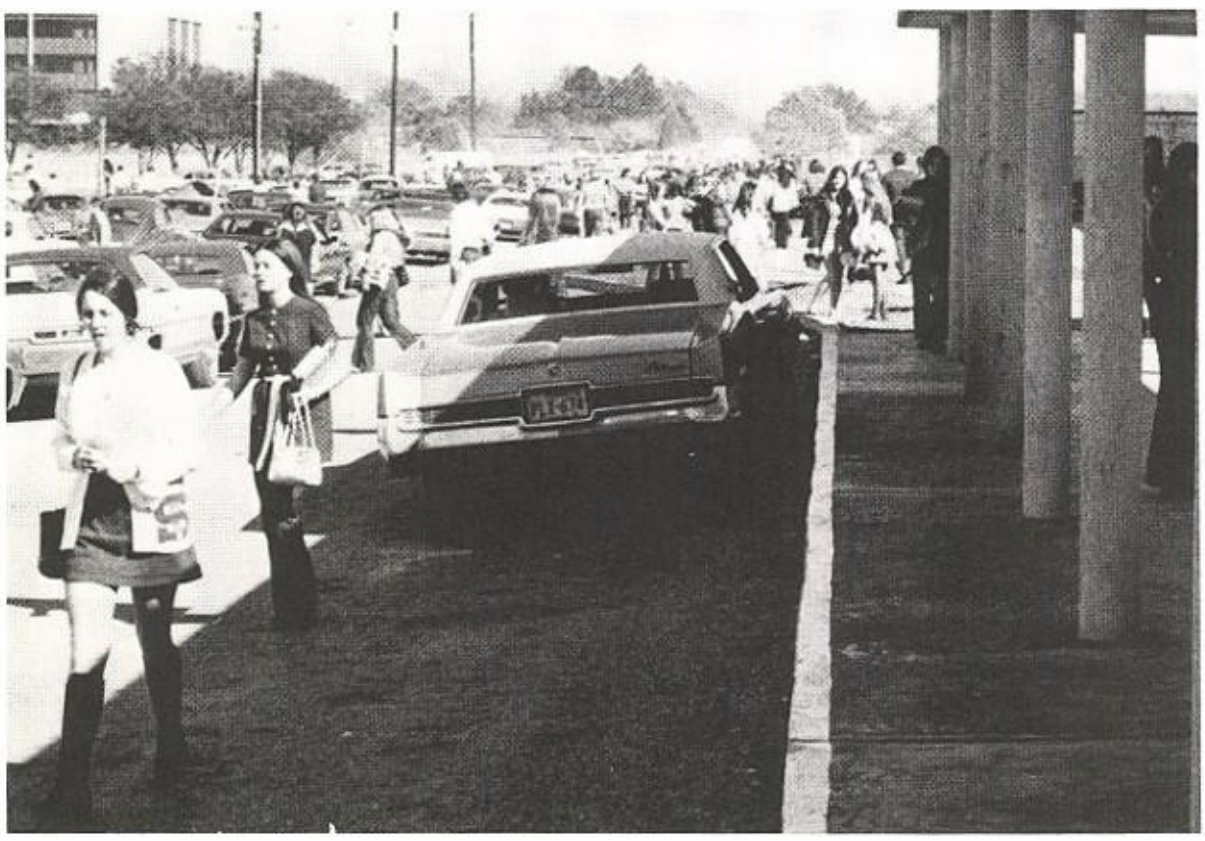
Linda Crooker
Editor, 1972



Editor's note: Working on this book, the story of 1972, was an invaluable personal lesson. But, it is really the combined efforts of twenty-eight staff members — because it was they who did the "dirty work."

To Mr. Shivers for keeping the gate unlocked and allowing a fire drill fiasco to Mrs. Parson for conducting elections to meet our deadlines, and to Mr. D-Eon Priest for his advice — thank you. However, there is one person whose presence I particularly appreciated: our sponsor, Mrs. Margaret Wisdom, "who married herself to me for nine months to produce this child — the 1972 SABER." I thank you all!

Meg.
I+ is really great knowin' ya and all. that stuff.
This year has been pretty good considering we Ducky ⇒ are only sophs. Ha Ha.
I hate that word. Having Miss Baldwin and being in the same homeroom has really been a total blast.
You are a great listener whenever I have news. Good or Bad. And for that I thank you. I hope to see ya lots this summer and next year too.
Be good. Love ya,

Meg,
Too bad we couldn't have stayed in the same Ecology Class but this is just as good.
Have a good summer.
Margaret Boland

Meg-
Well we made it through our sophomore year! Can you believe it. It's been so great knowing you these past two years. Even though we've had our ups & downs, I think we've become much more than friends. Maybe it was meant to be. Maybe it was our destiny. Maybe it was just luck. Whatever it was I'm glad we've had the opportunity to share it with you. Keep up the good work & remember you're always a friend.
Love ya,
Kisa

Hi Acker-man-
It's really been fun knowing you. You are fun to be around- Hope we are friends for a long time!

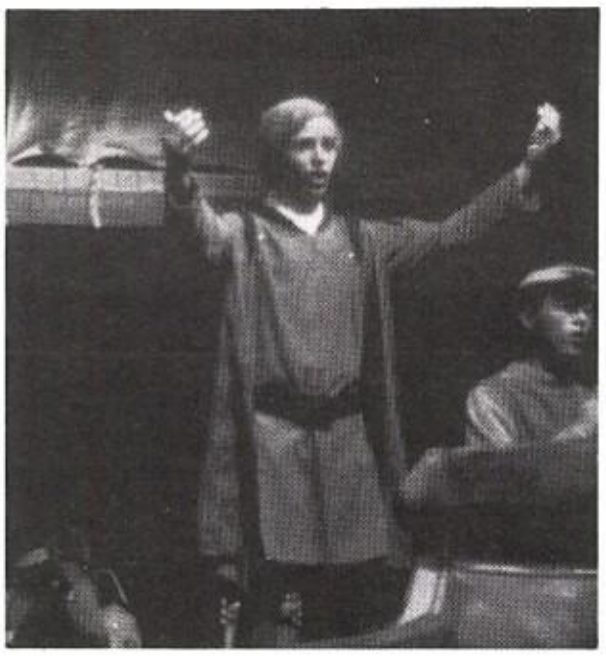
Mr. Shivers, who actively participates in all school functions, thoroughly enjoys himself on Open Shack Day.

"A-ha, I knew it had to be something like this after I saw those girls bribing the caddy for information." At the SABER banquet, Mrs. Wisdom is delighted with her new golf bag as Linda Crooker and Georgia Kostas look on.

The SABER staff's Open Shack Day elicited "patriotism" from each honored guest.

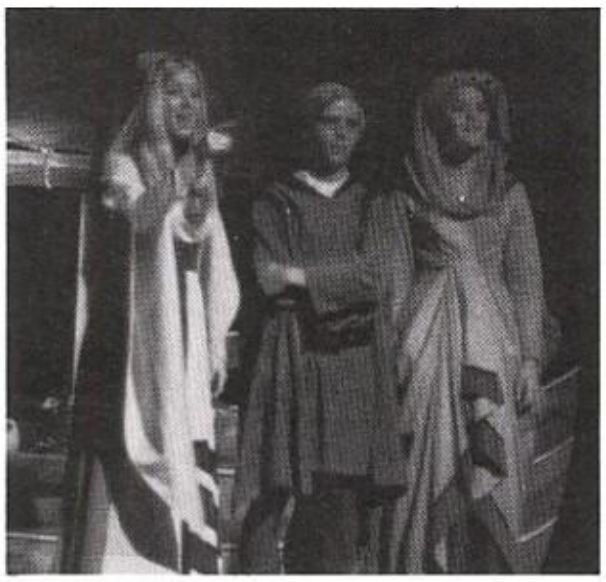
Mr. Shivers congratulates Jeff McCrehan, as he did all graduating seniors, at the climax of twelve years of learning.

"I will that so it be!" demands the voice of God, Kerry Teaff.

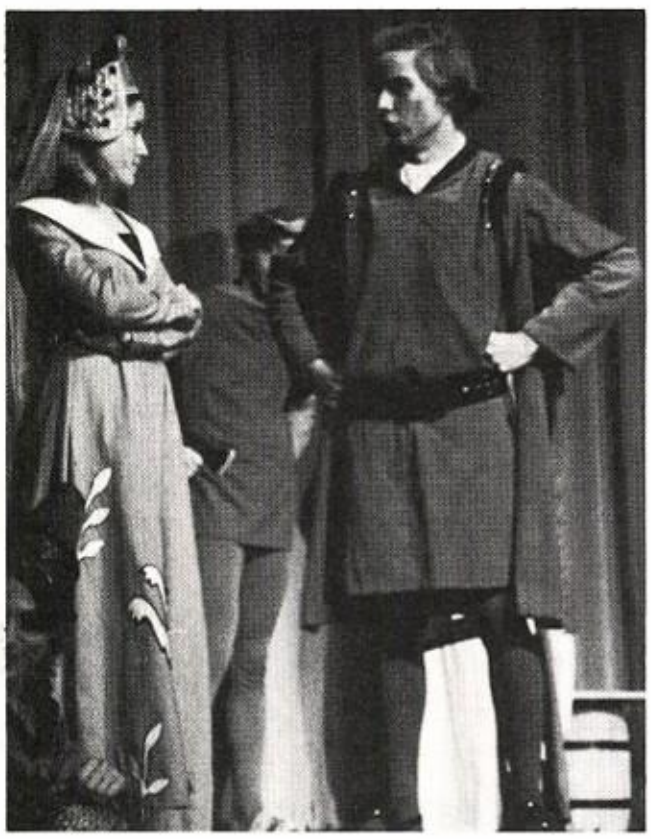


"Friends, Romans, countrymen . . .," articulates Larry Lewis.

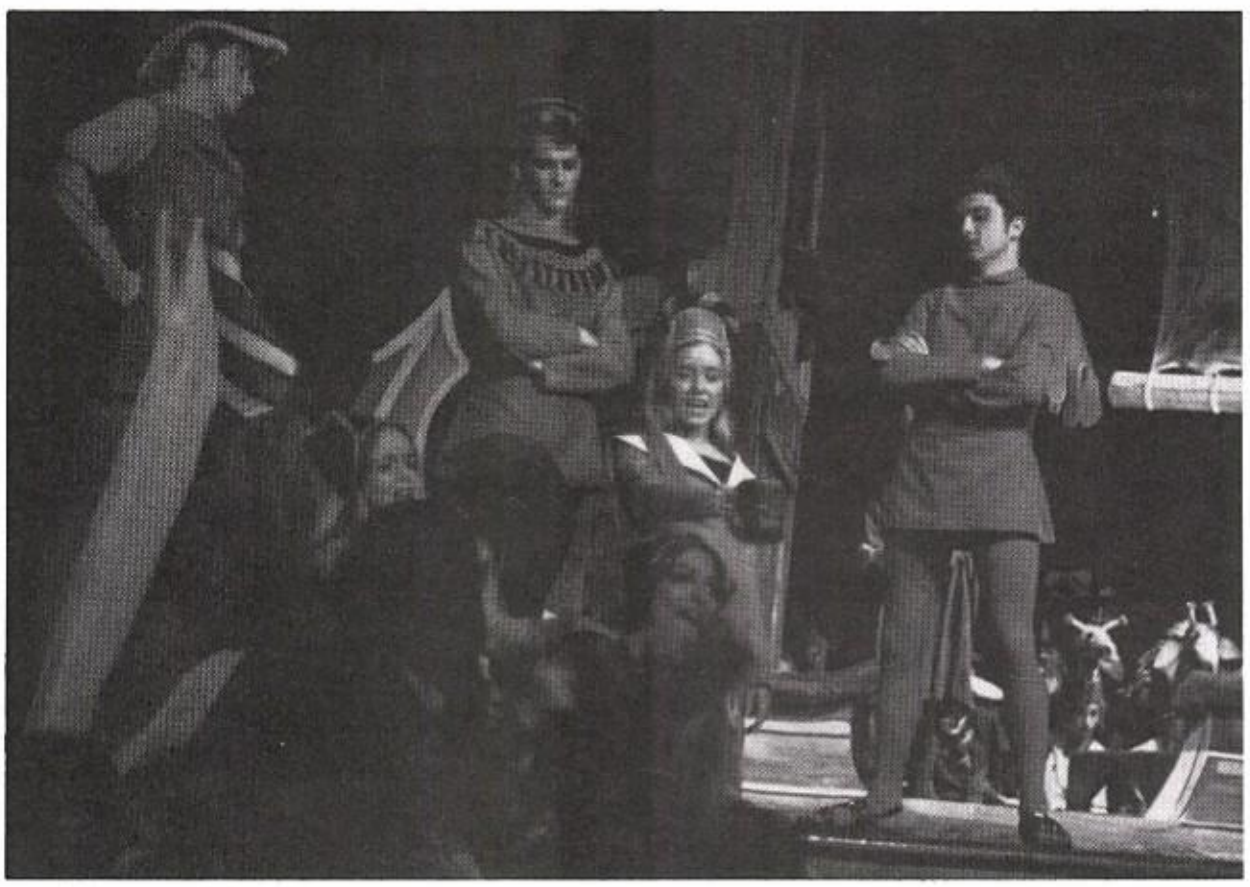
Noye, his family, the Congregation, and the animals rejoice the end of the rains during the Chester miracle play, "Noye's Fludde."



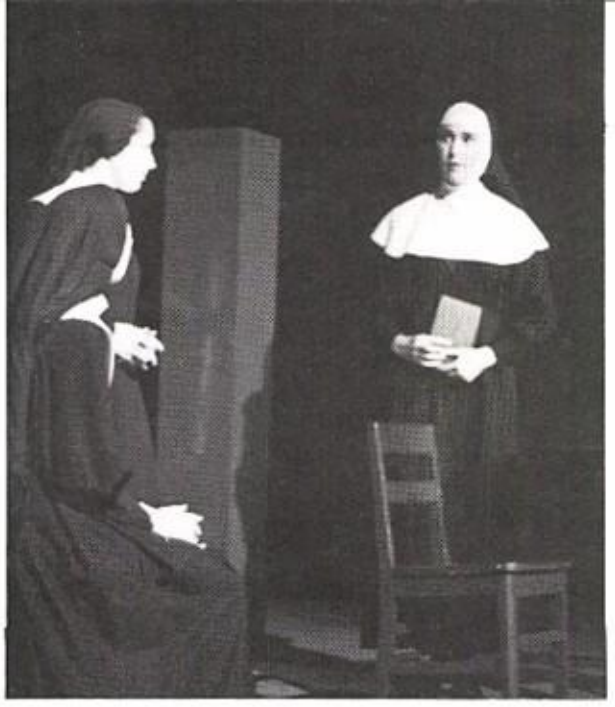
"Eeny-meeny-miney-moe, the ark is full, that bear must go," calulates Melody Lofton with the help of Larry Lewis and Joann Thompson.



"Why should I get on your boat . . . you don't wear the pants in this family," argues Mrs. Noye (Jan Wycough) to Noye (Larry Lewis).



Noye's sons, Tommy Burke, Paul Herman, and Roy Buckley, can't believe that their mother, Jan Wycough, and her Gossips, Dottie Roach, Laura Brown, Marie Whitmire, and Robin Long, prefer wine to forty days on a floating zoo.



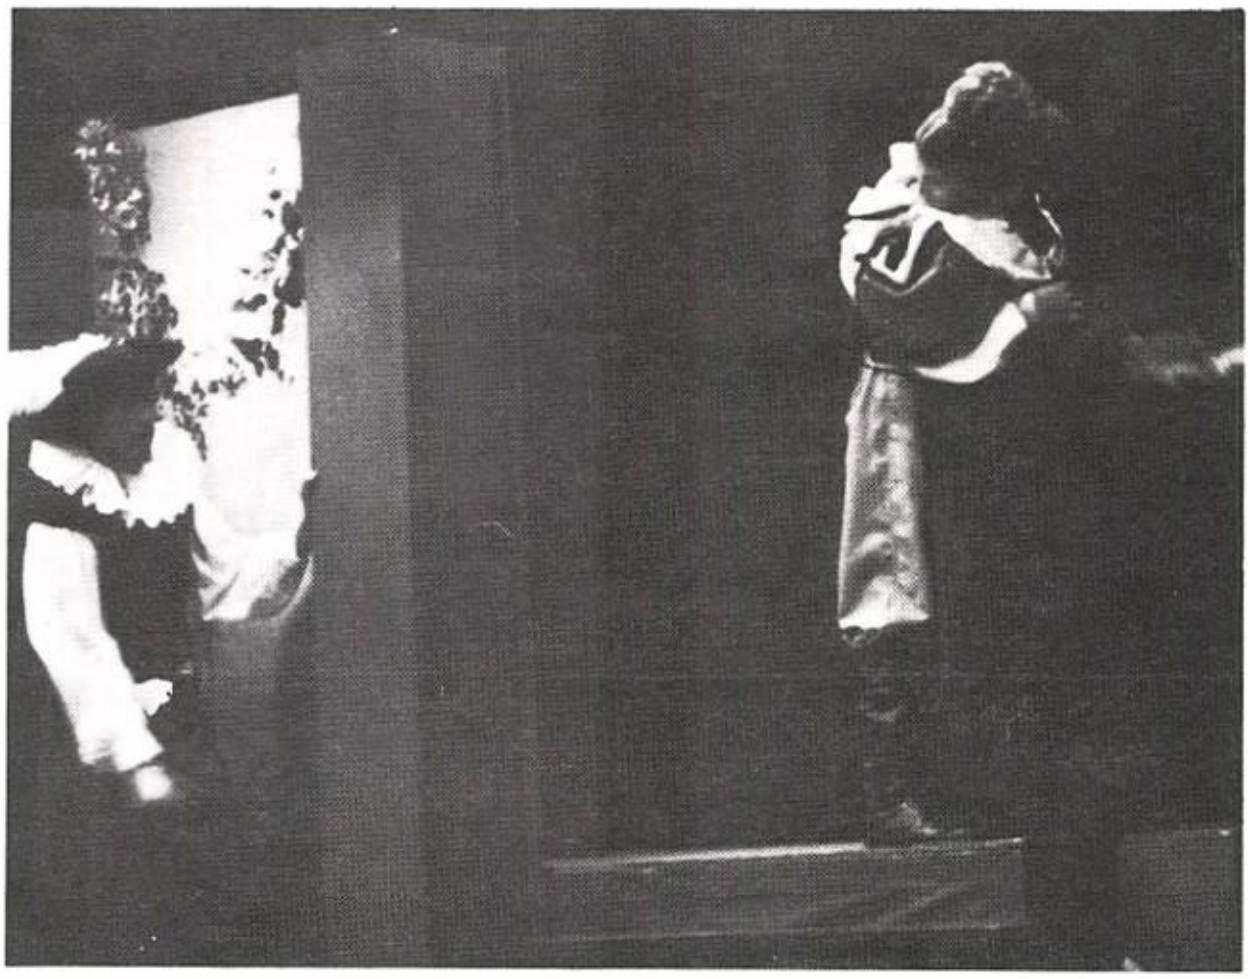
"But Mother Margaret, no one told us we couldn't have dates," explain Dee Russell and Connie Mullins to Susie Patterson.

"Honest, Jeanne, once in the morning does it." Jeanne Hoffman is stunned by David Jenny's advice.

Melody Lofton displays the gimmick that captured first place in the UIL humorous poetry competition.

As each student in a multitude of 2200 must necessarily discover his own reality, so did these performers of tomorrow—

In experiencing the realms of entertainment—musical presentations, one act plays—students gained not only insight into performing itself, but also an invaluable broadened view of life.



Cyrano (Royce Wilson) and Christian (David Jenny) vie for the love of Roxanne (Jeanne Hoffman) in the UIL one act play entry, "Cyrano deBergerac."

"Jeanne, I still can't believe Cyrano(se)!" Susie Patterson and Jeanne Hoffman find Royce Wilson's oversized nose incredible.

Portraying qualities of leadership, character,
scholarship, and service,
National Honor Society members pledged themselves to uphold the high principles
incorporated in membership.
Each, realizing necessary obligations involved in such honors, prepared for a subsequent year of setting examples, leading, and serving.

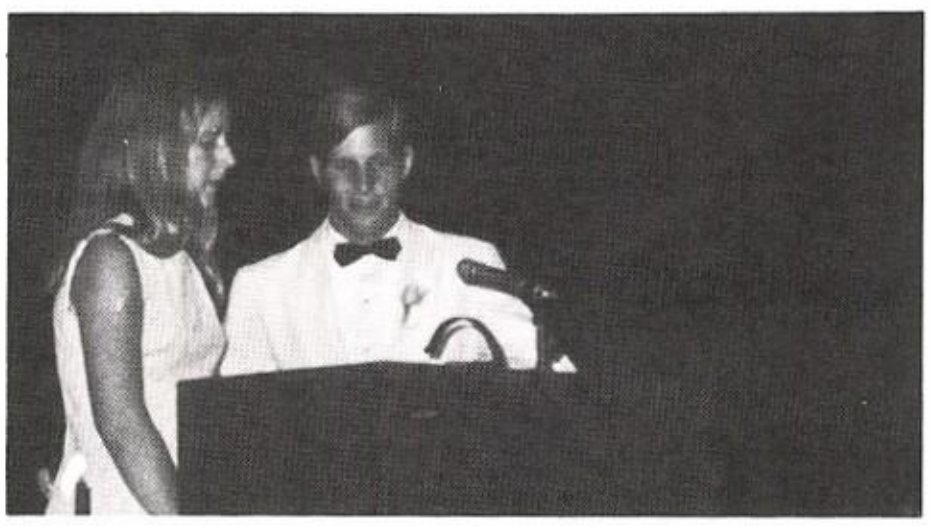
Charles Hewell, as he leaves the Honor Society Induction, seems to be a little choked up. Kathy Golding also seems to be sad that it is over.

Cam Lange, President of the National Honor Society, speaks to the new inductees.



Robert Ghrist bestows the honor of treasurer upon his successor, Janet McCormick.

Honor Society members, both old and new, recite their pledge to uphold the high purposes of the society.

"Oh, I feel a sneeze coming on, " cries Lynn Schissler. Could she be allergic to washing cars?

Spiritive people promoting an aura of enthusiasm in the world about them—at car
washes, parties;
Dedicating time and effort to boost an ever-important team;
Each spirit committee member devoted himself not through duty, but through an unending desire for excitement—for spirit.

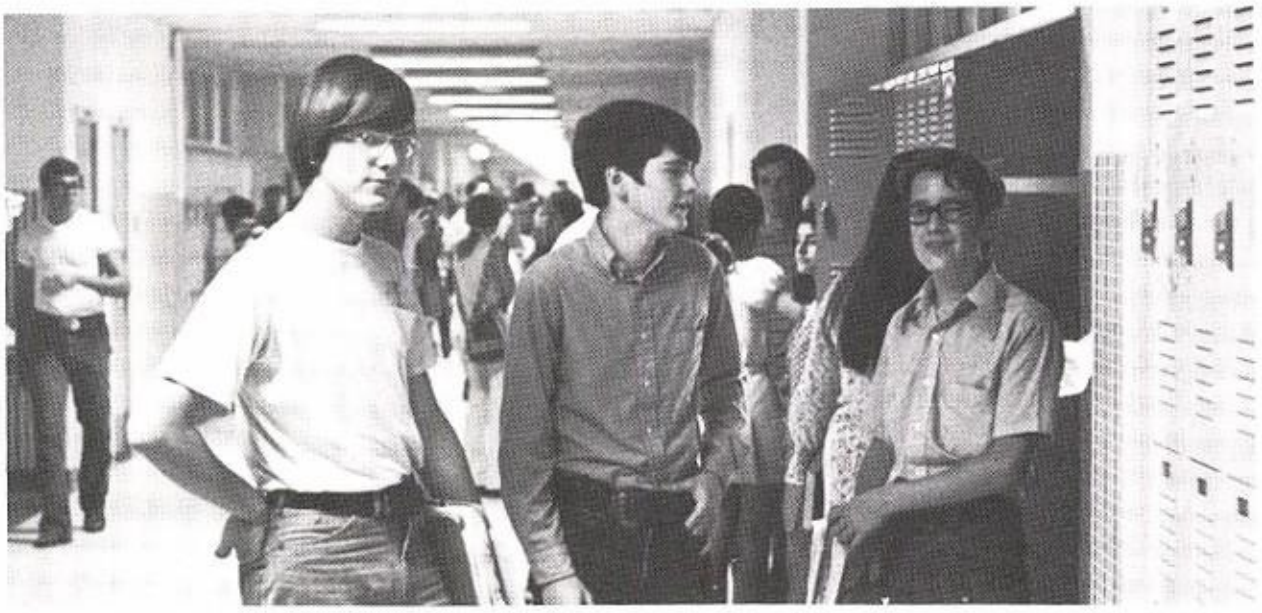
"One more remark like that, buddy, and I'll come after you with my hose!" warns Judy Graff.

Melinda Fugitt proudly announces at the Spirit Committee car wash, "Who said I couldn't draw any customers?"

"I finally made it to the end!" Sandra Pagel, geometry merit award winner, is enthusiastic about finishing the school year with "flying colors."

Mrs. Yoes congratulates David Donoho for his outstanding performance in geometry as a sophomore.



"I'll give her one more minute to get here—then I'm leaving." Tracy Wald is anxious to find an excuse for missing his final as Robert Schoen and Chuck Fugitt wait for their teacher.

Sophomores . . .
Each began to formulate his own identity in an existence of widespread ideas and opinions—
Establishing himself in organizations;
Setting goals leading him to lasting memories.
Each fulfilled a small, yet vital part of high school life.

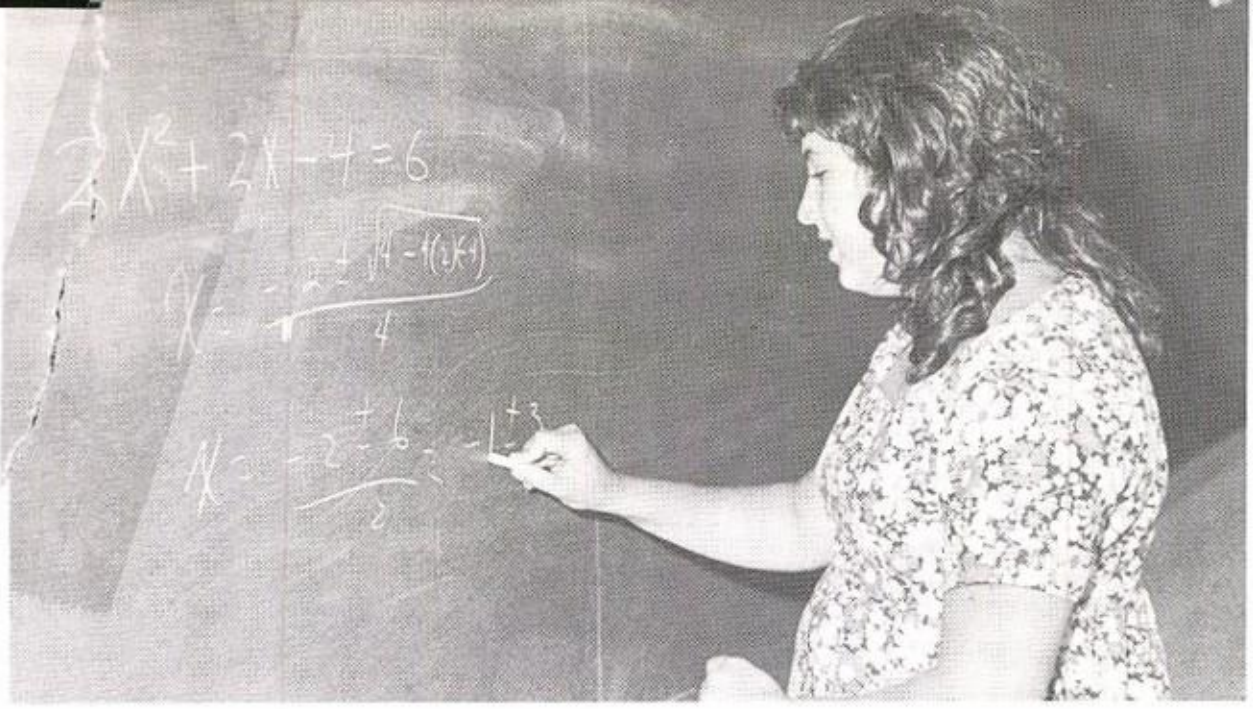
". . . and last of all, don't forget to stretch your vocal cords when you sing." At the Southernaires-Dixi-Liers banquet, Miss Countee gives Robert Barrett and DeAnn Lechtenberger a lesson in the biology of singing.



"Oops, I goofed again. That sure doesn't look like the solution in the answer book." Deborah Shapiro, winner of an algebra merit award, admits that finding algebraic roots just isn't her favorite pastime.

Donald Cochran and Marcus Hill survived the Great San Marcos Flood at a debate tournament, but David Donoho and Winston Cochran washed away with the filebox.

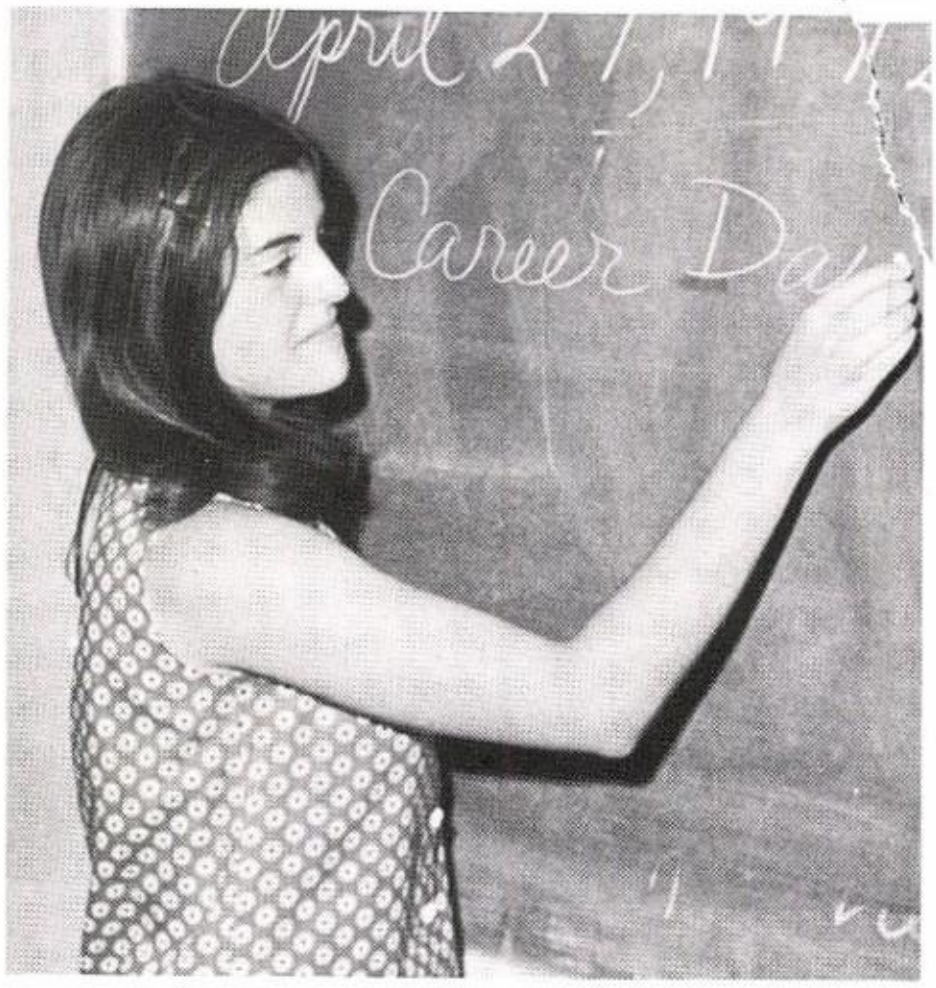
"Well, that was the last one. I'm a junior now!" Meg Ackermann gloats over her new prestige as a junior after finishing sophomore finals.

"I think that was the vinegar which I just drank!" Michele Ramshur is startled by the contents of her glass at the Future Teachers' banquet as Janet Jax looks on with amusement.

"Would you believe I finished the WHOLE final in fifteen minutes?" Lisa Farley boasts about her incredible feat.

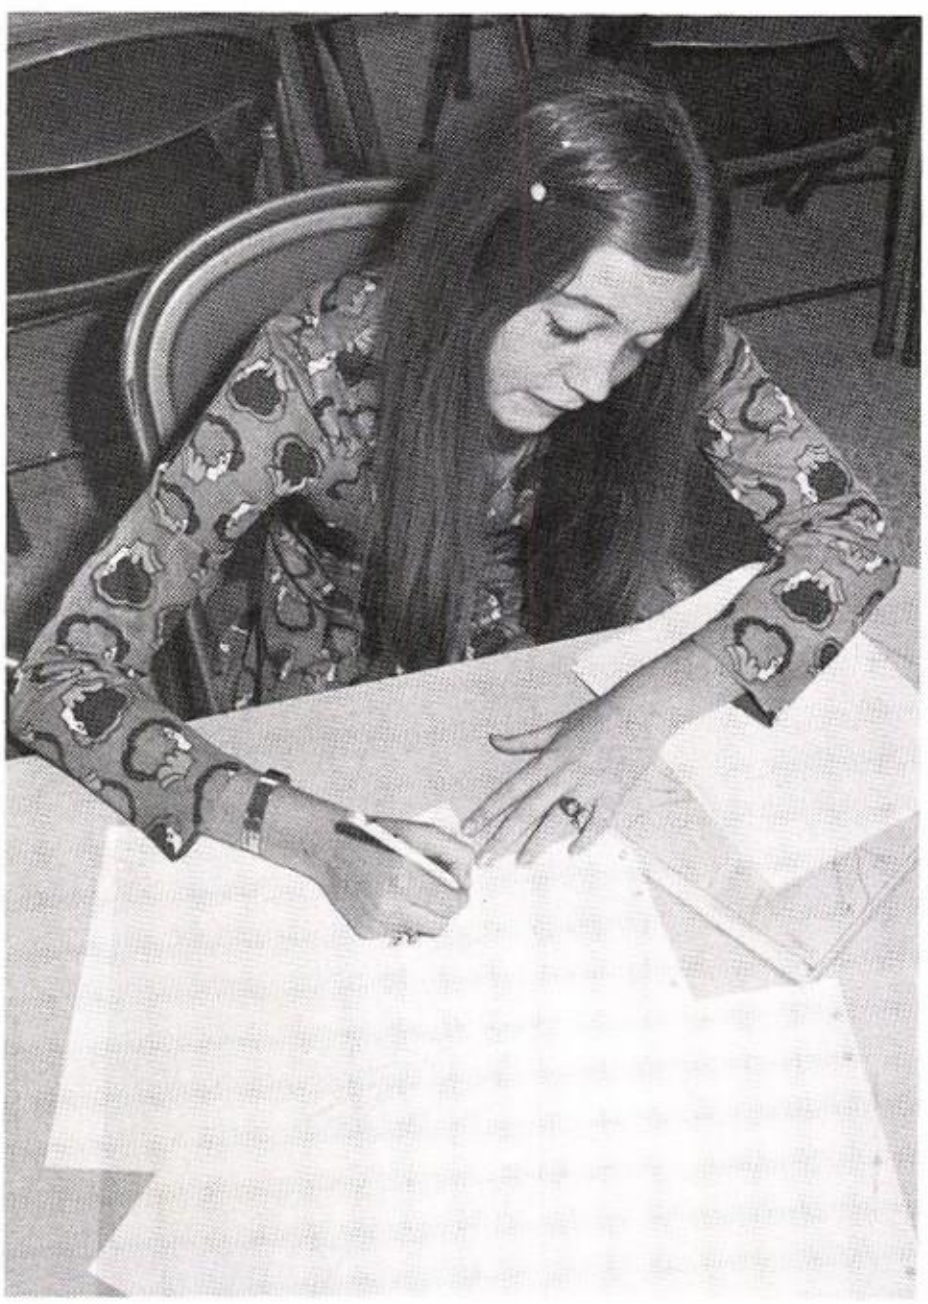
"Just because I got a geometry merit award doesn't mean I can do this problem," ponders Ellen Scully as she wonders whether her teacher expects the impossible.

To promote an interest among students in careers of diverse concerns;
To guide and direct the futures of Lee students;
Such was the ultimate goal of Anchor Club members, devoting themselves through hard work and effort for the realization of Career Day.



Organizer of Career Day, Georgia Kostas, posts a warning to the faculty of the upcoming day.

"But Mrs. Comstock, we don't have a class for Avon ladies!" snip Betsy Sengelmann and Pam Kostas.

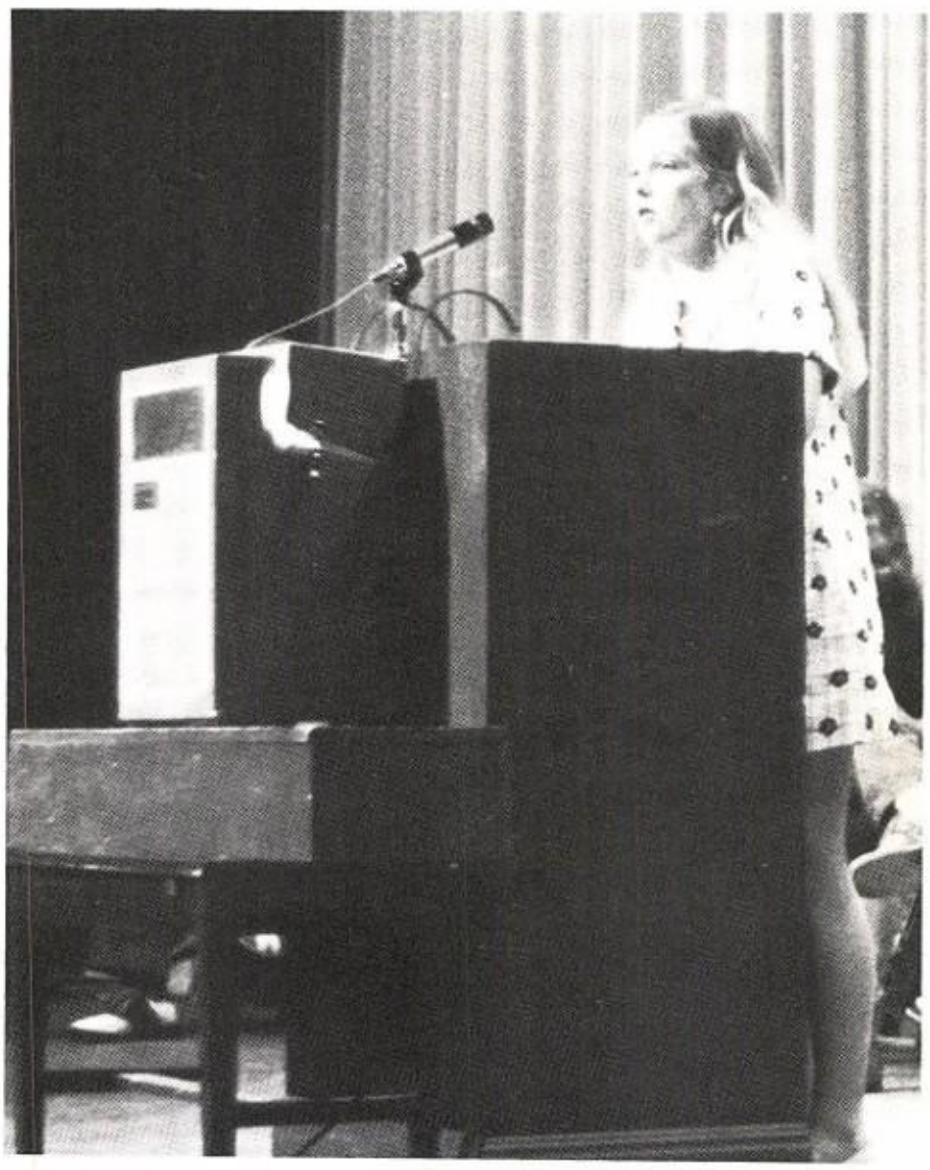


Suzy Cox, like other Anchor Club members, attempts to organize the choice cards for Career Day.

With the stage set, Kathleen Harrington addresses the student body during the student council election.

Experiencing processes of government;
Gaining principles of leadership through campaigning;
Formulating ideas of change—of improvement;
Each student council election candidate sought to project innovative ideas—ideas for the betterment of Lee.

The audience of the Student Council election seems to have stunned newly elected treasurer Robin Palmer into a rare loss for words.



"Listen wise guy! It may look easy talking up here, but try it and see if you like it!" fumes campaigning Betsy Gerhardt.

Competing with spirit and sportsmanship;
Exulting in victory, yet
accepting defeat;
Each participant gained exhilaration and pride through his chosen activity—
baseball, track, tennis.
Attaining reward, each sought fulfillment of higher goals—goals inspiring still further successes.

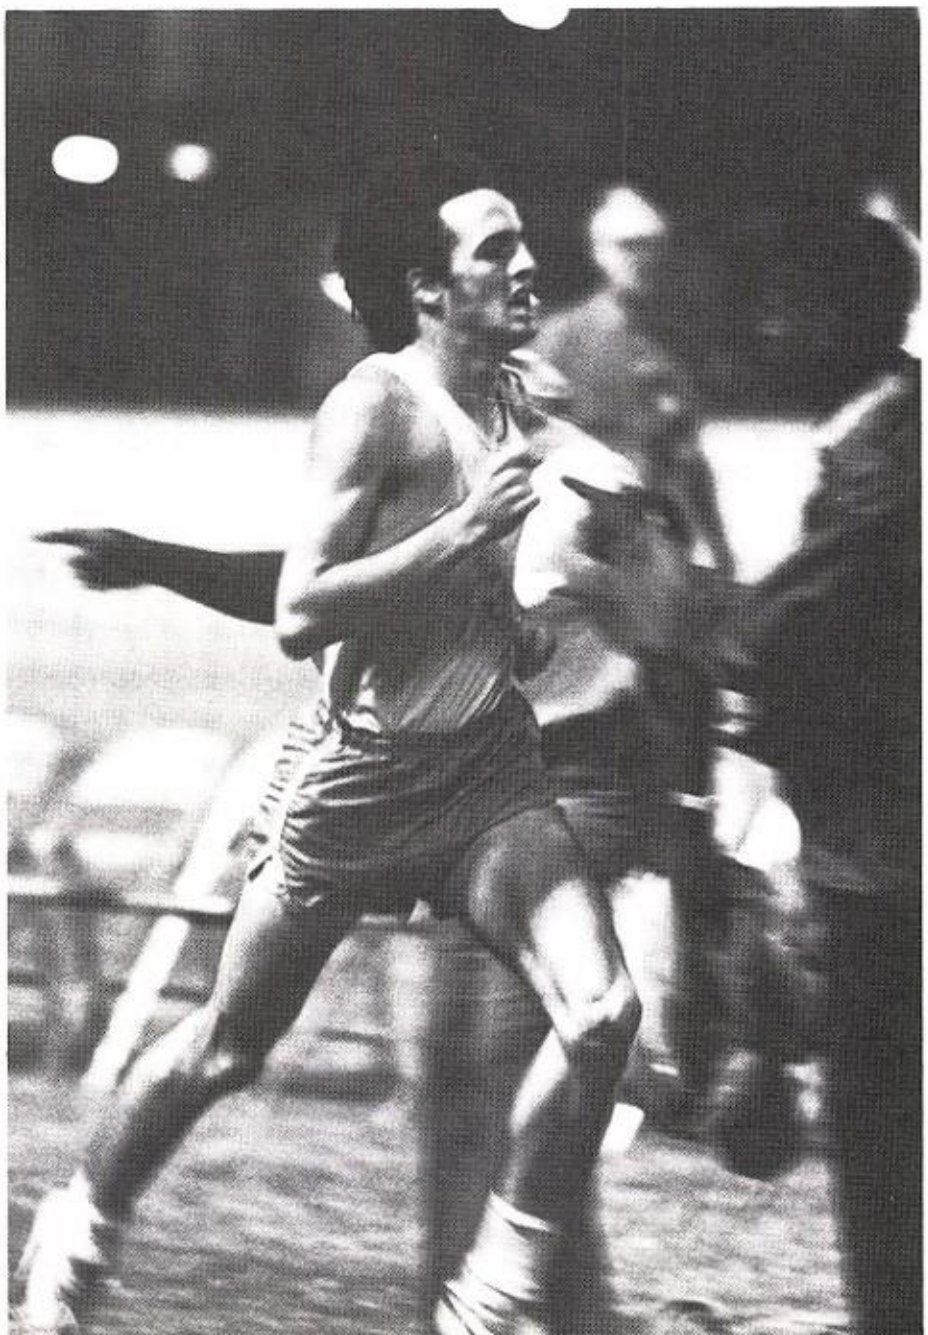
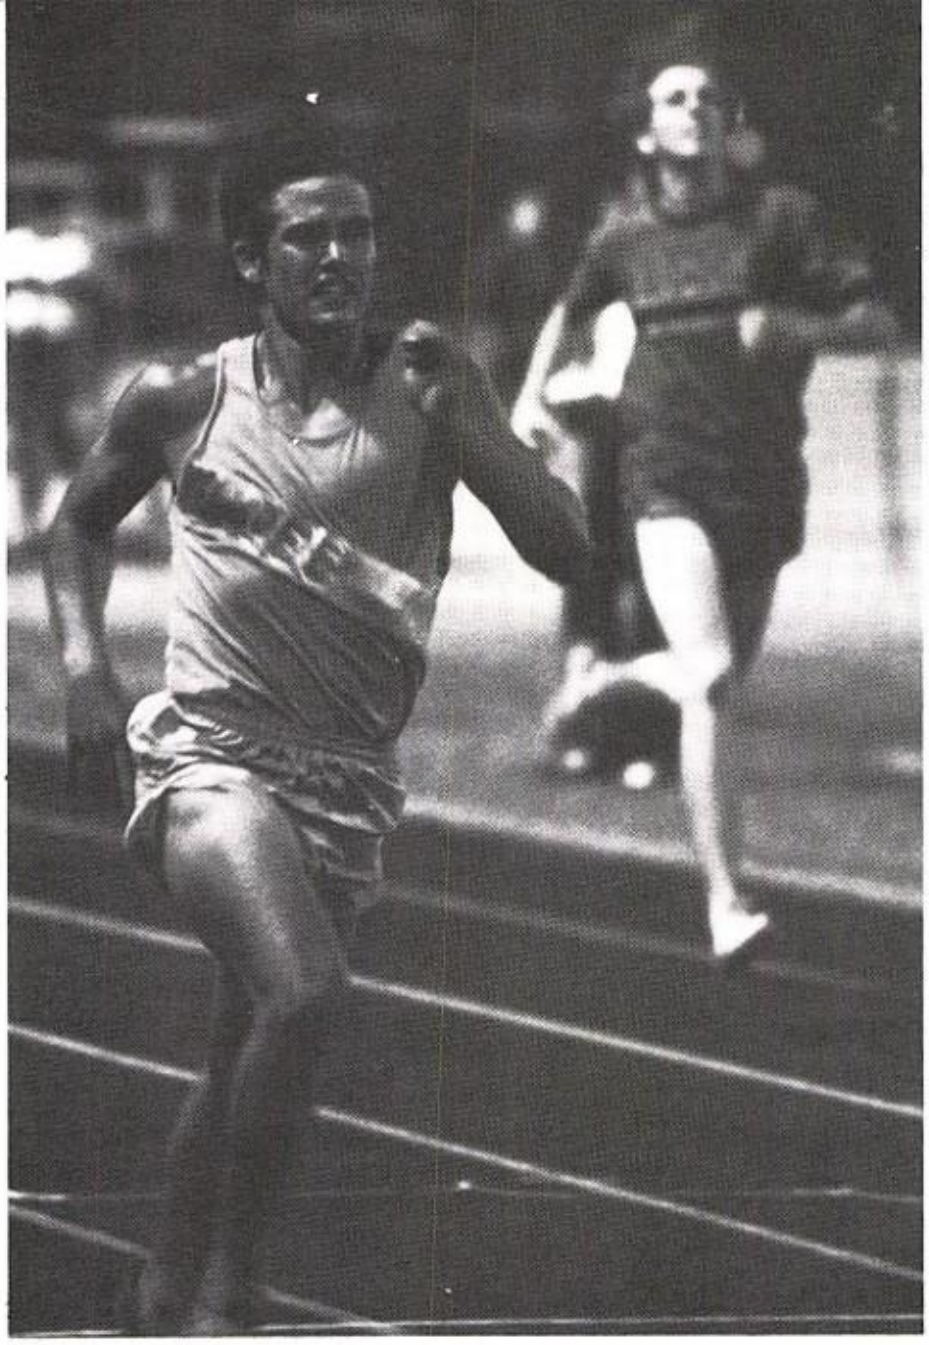
Charlie Williams blows out of the blocks at a track meet.

Don Riggs placed third in the high jump.

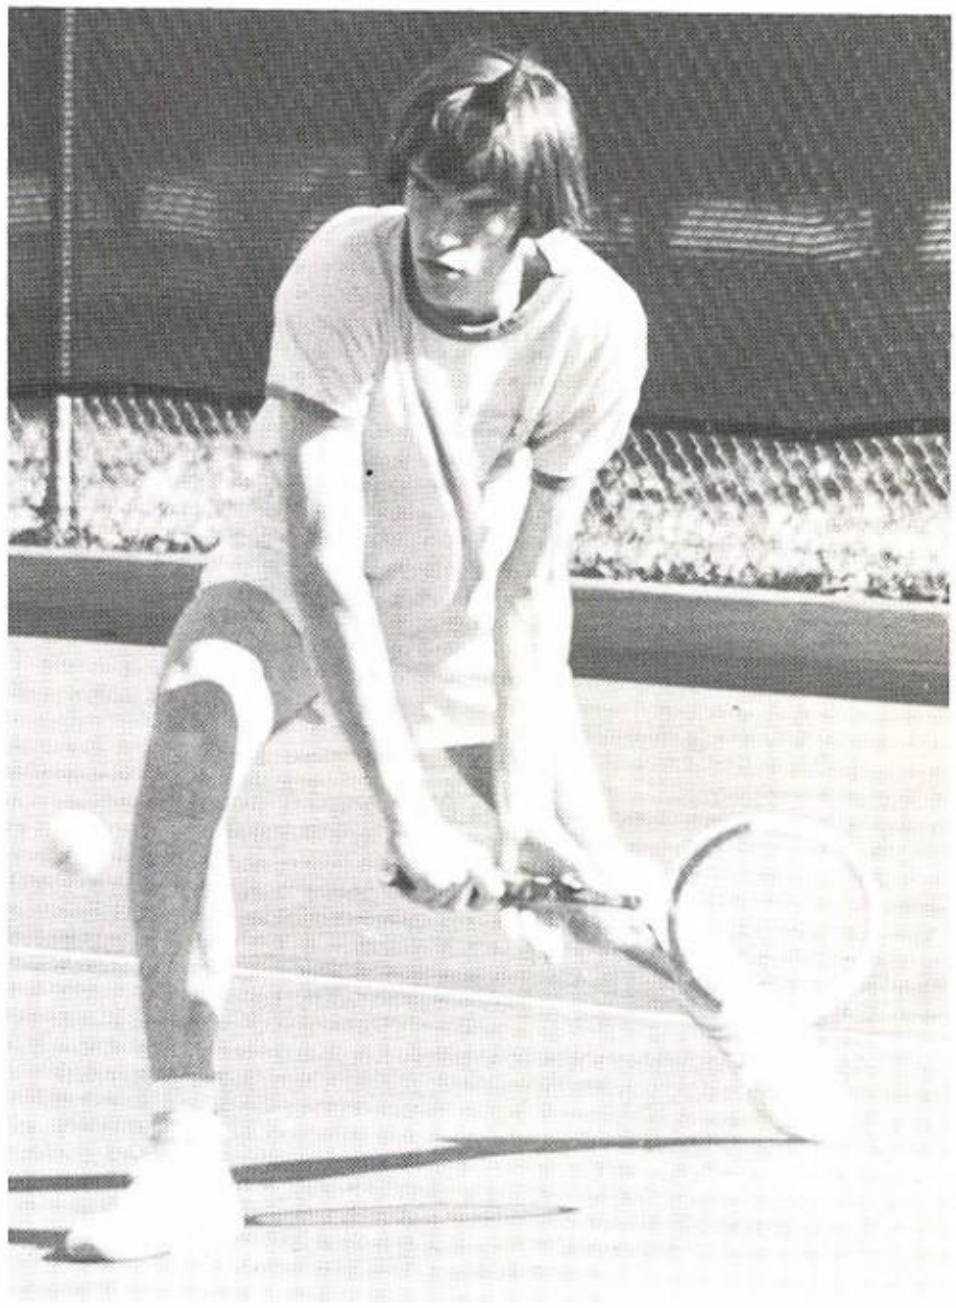


Keith Wilson races home to finish second in the 880 yard run at the district meet.

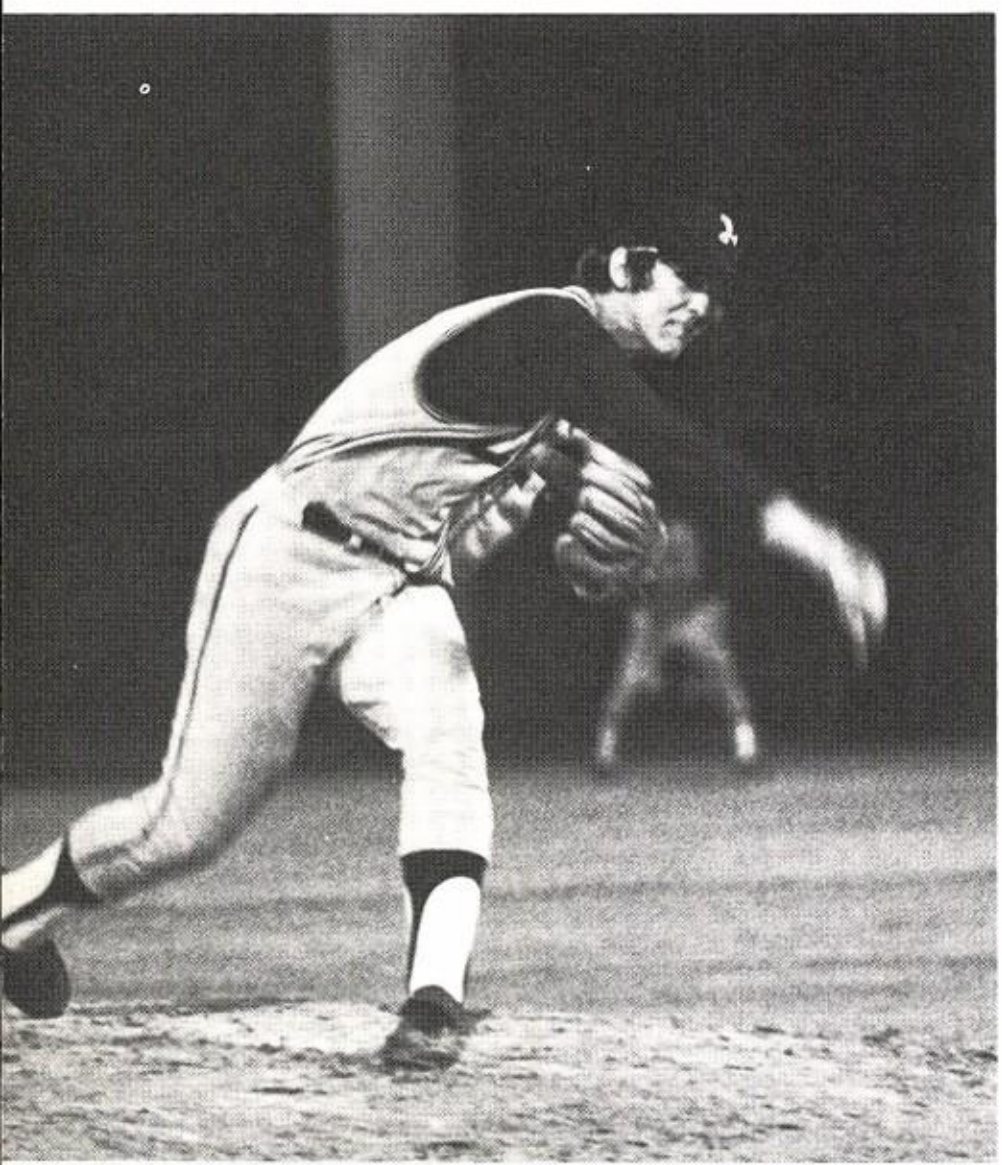


Kirk Pfeffer was truly an asset to the team in the 440 yard relay and dash.

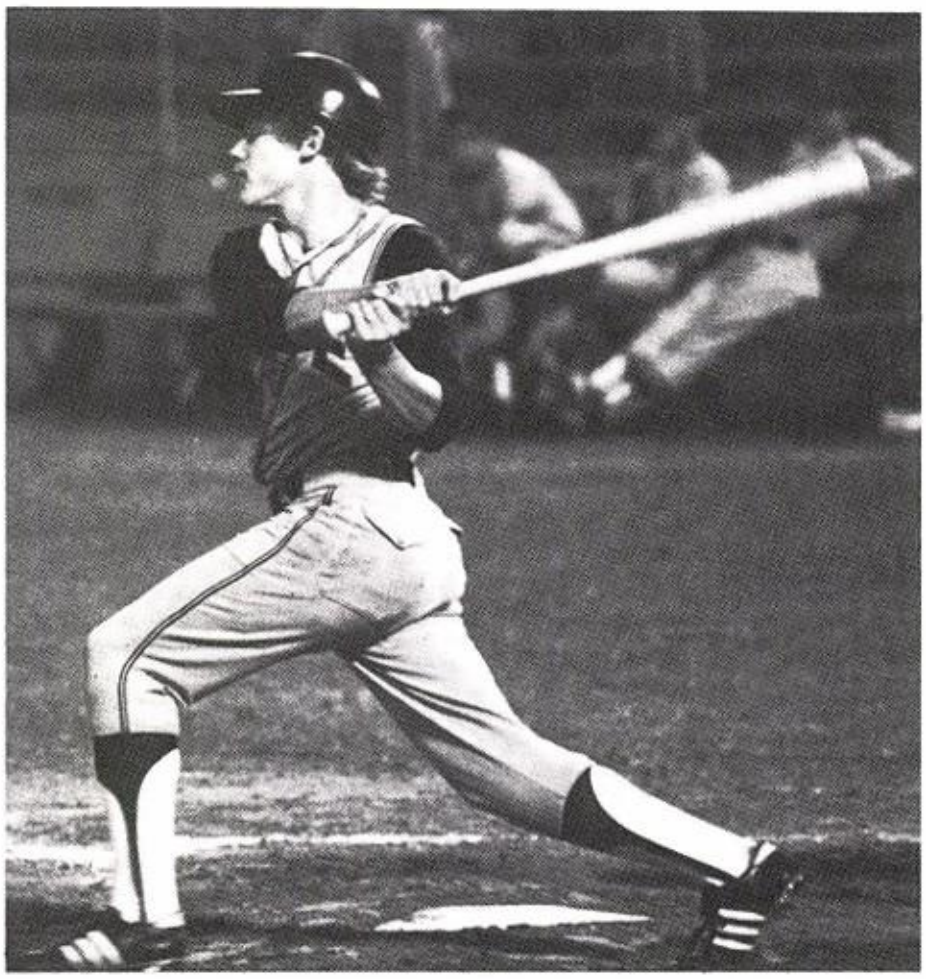
In the 120 yard high hurdles, Kevin Henry shows the leap that earned him the third place medal in district.



Bill Fisher, Lee's state-ranked tennis star, demonstrates the backhand that carried him through the regional play-offs.



Senior pitcher Tommy Smart was named to the All-District team.



Larry Wright shows the swing that made him All-City outfielder in his sophomore year.

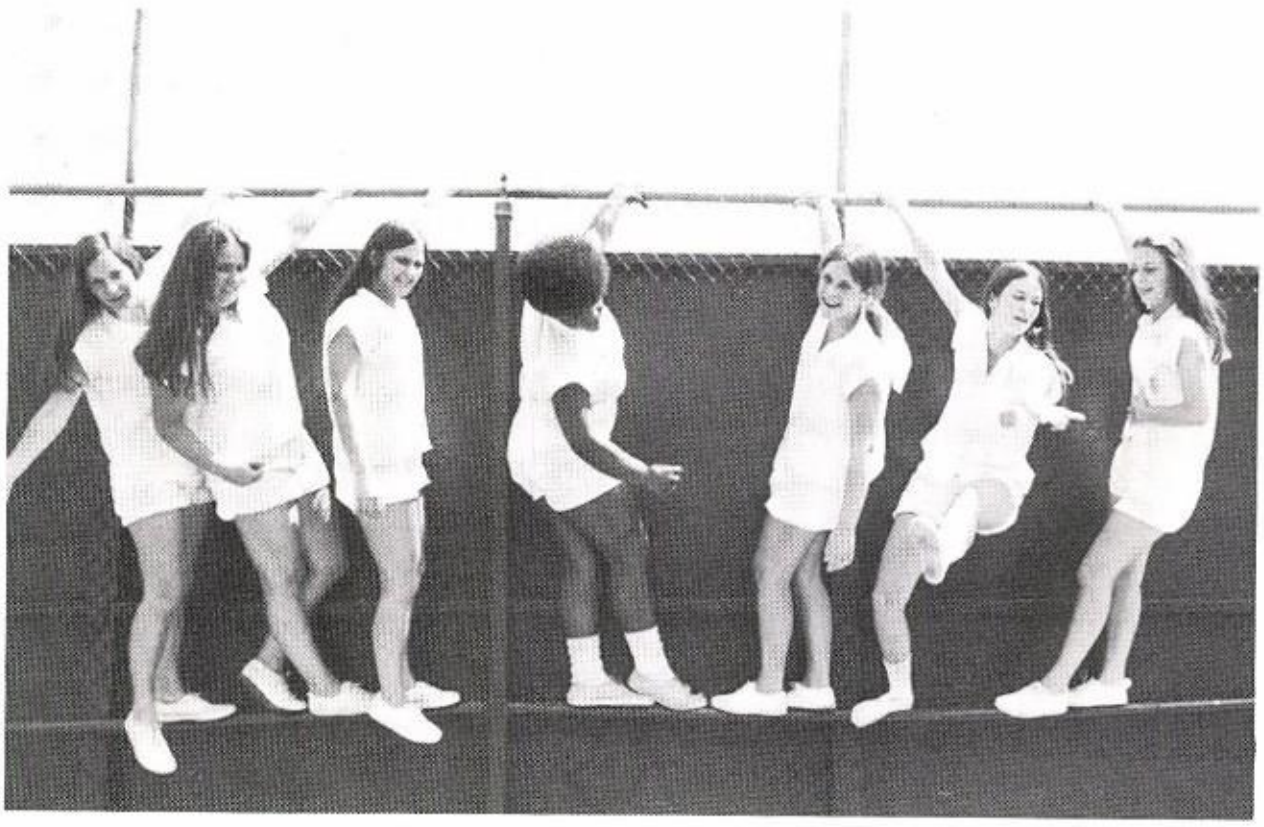
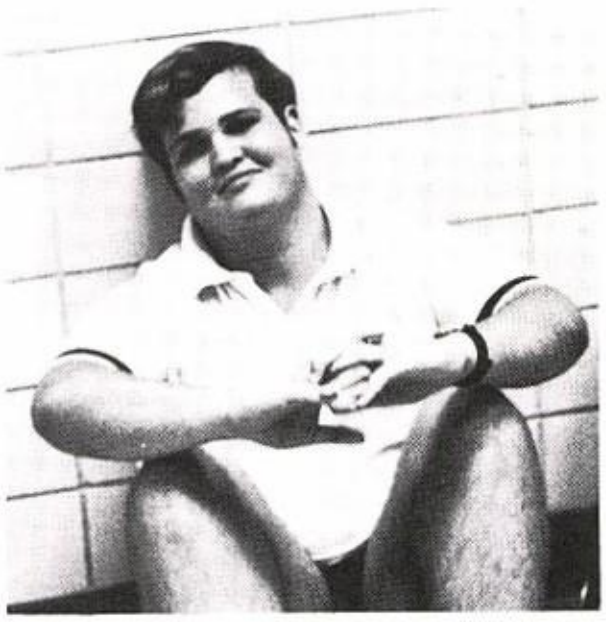
Girls maintaining competitive spirit;
Not only gaining awards, but also developing new friendships through teamwork, sportsmanship;
Each found girls' intramurals a necessary change from the normal educational atmosphere.



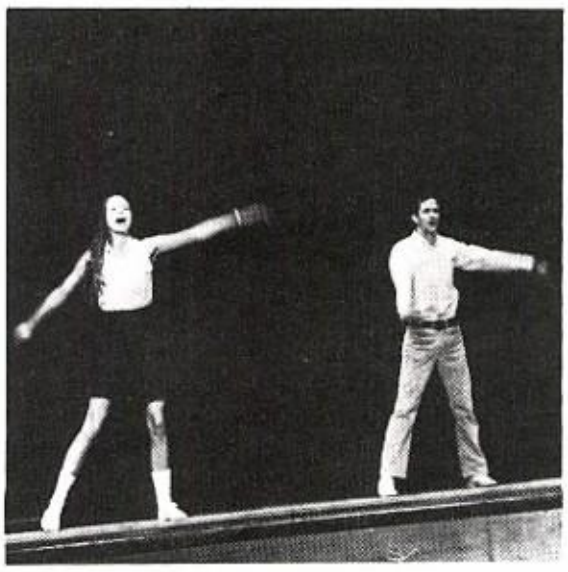
Senior softball winners are: Marty Shelton, Linda Saville, Karen Dvorak, Craven Crowder, Wissie Slator, Jan King, Stacy Broun.

Senior badminton winners are: Linda Saville and Karen Dvorak.

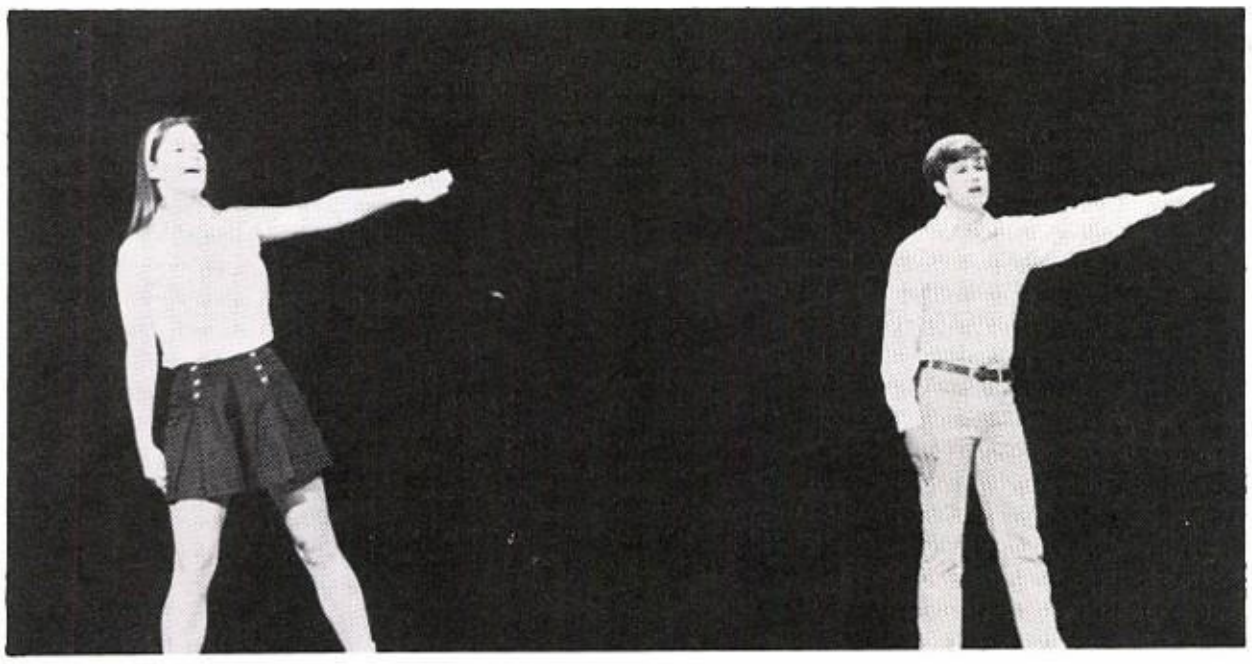
Junior badminton winners are: Robin Saville and Kathy Armstrong.



Pat Doherty is thrilled by the thought of staying after school every day for cheerleading practice.



Kitty Gallagher and Johnny Duncan want to take Lee's spirits higher as they try out in front of the student body.



"We're gonna fight with all our might!" Jackie Bang and Bill Hayes start early in generating spirit for next year as they try out for the position of cheerleader.

Fervently practicing after school hours;
Being judged by faculty and student leaders alike;
A chosen few facing the student body—with anticipation, nervousness;
Anxiously awaiting the moment of a final announcement . . .
Such were the tensions and pressures incorporated into the life of each student seeking the position of cheerleader at Lee.

Julie Ajello, Jackie Bang, Leslie Carothers, Kitty Gallagher, Judy Graff, Sharon Parsley, Betsy Sengelmann, and Kim Webb claim that competition against Don Palmer is not fair as they anxiously await the results of the cheerleader tryouts.

Students competing against fellow students;
Initiating spirit for another
football season—
The Gray-Gold game—a tradition at Lee—began a season filled with the anticipation of continued victories.

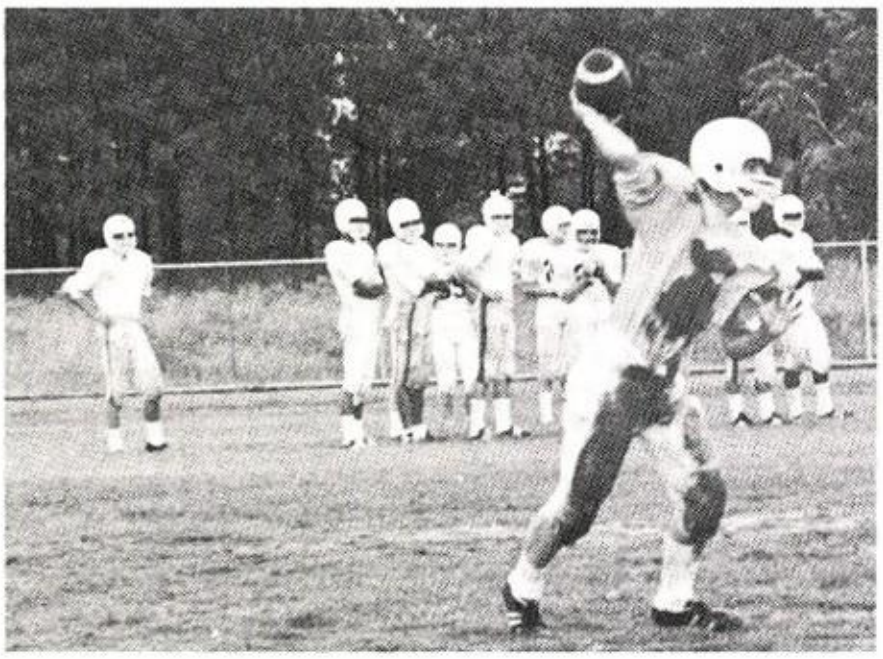
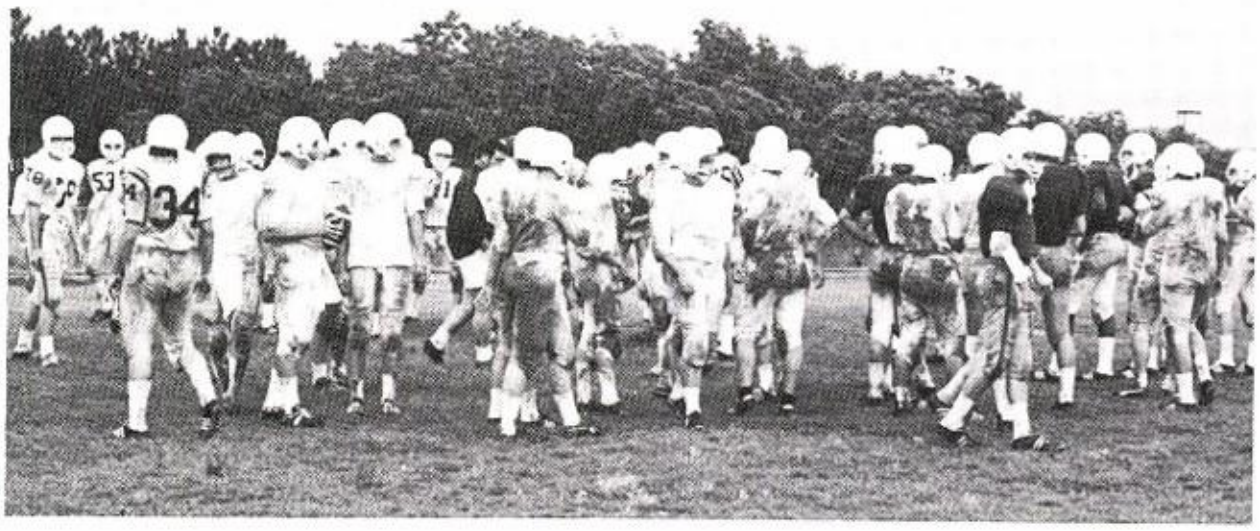
Generals watch attentively from the sidelines as the rest of the team works to perfect a play.

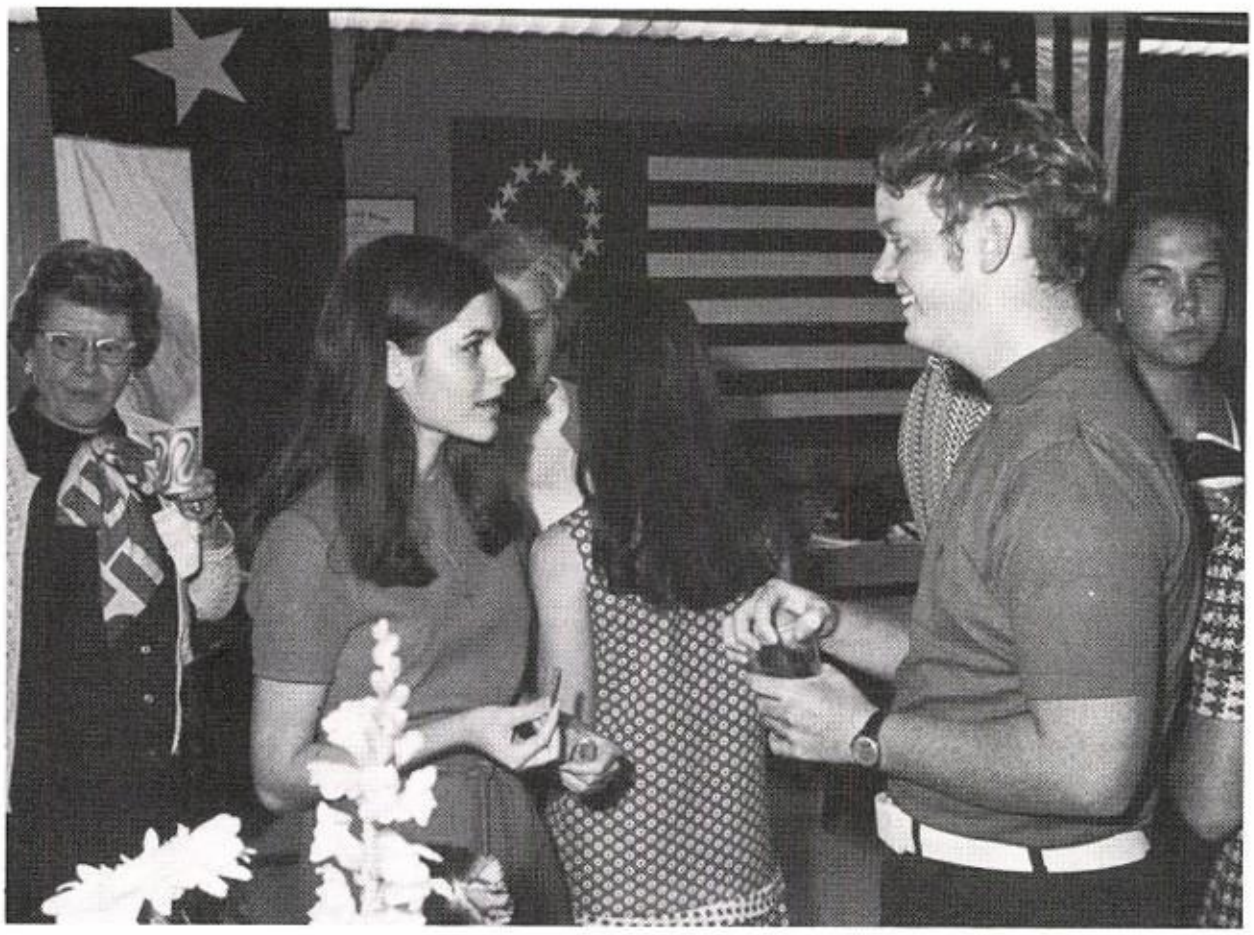


Dallas DiFiore practices passing for the Gray-Gold game as his teammates watch attentively.

The Generals strengthened their offense by practicing after school in the spring.



At the beginning of spring, the boys started training to prepare for the Gray-Gold game on May 10.



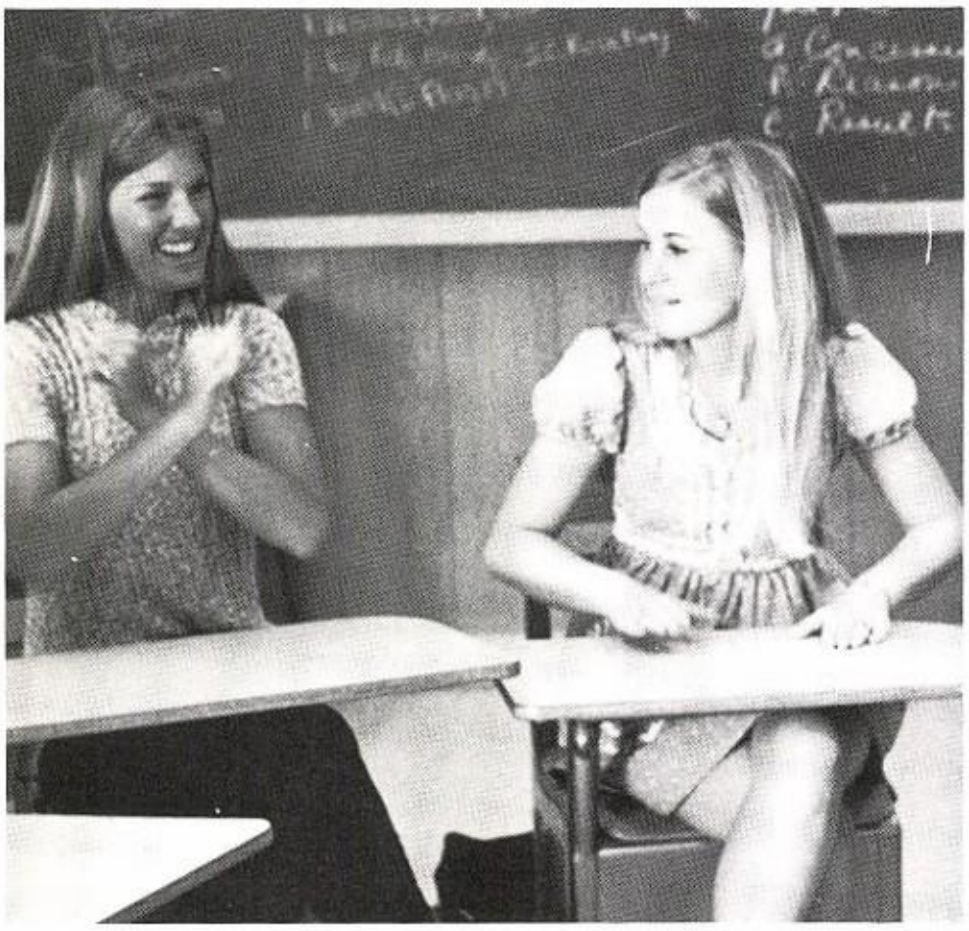
"But Bob, Mrs. Wisdom didn't say we could spike the punch!" Pam Kostas realizes that Miss Brittain seems to notice that peculiar old taste.

"Hey, Irby, the books can't be all that bad!" exclaim Stacy Broun and Richard Capps to Irby Williams as the three anxiously await the arrival of the SABERS.

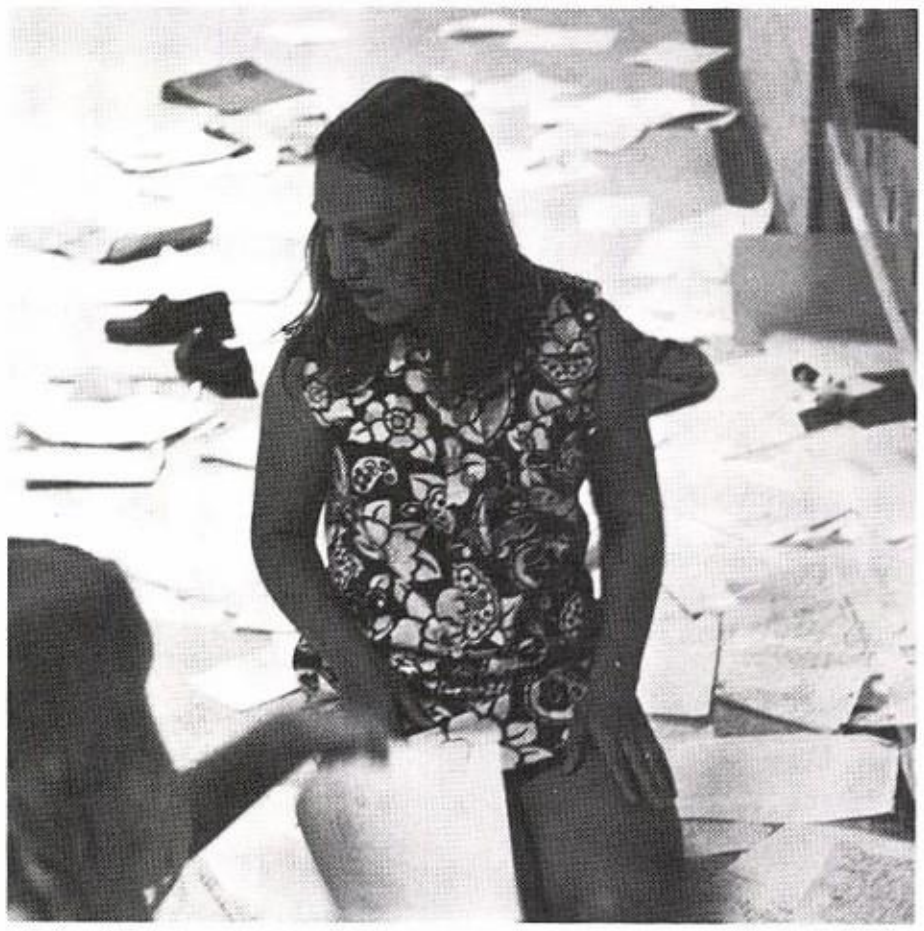
Having fulfilled a tradition of painting the shack, SABER staff members began a celebration with the declaration of Open Shack Day.
As the closing of school approached, the annual SABER banquet was held—a night of excitement and memories—
For the yearbook was to be delivered to homeroom the next day—a day to which almost every student at Lee looked forward.

Debbie Brown has finally found another victim for her crude remarks.

Mrs. Dorsey has discovered a sneaky way to reveal her true feelings about Brownlee Ferguson.



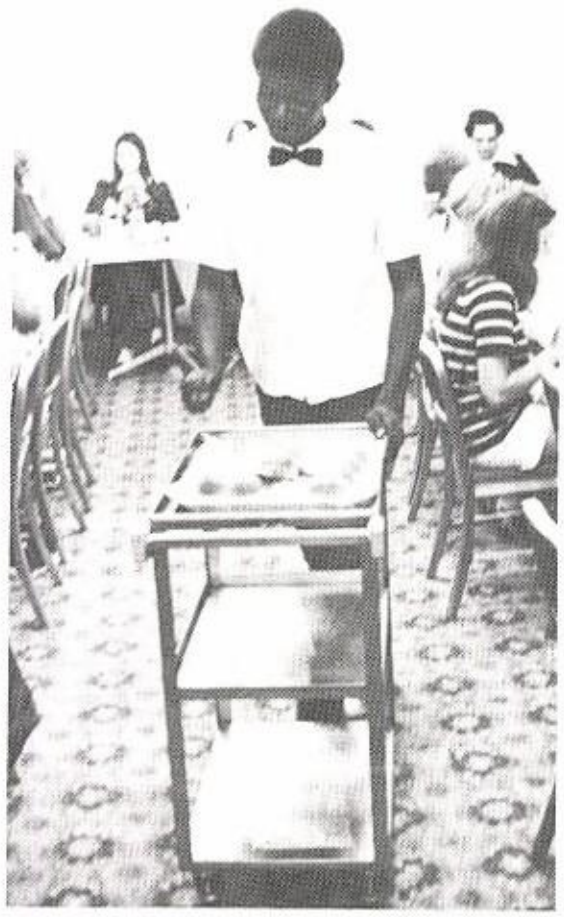
A lull in Mother Wisdom's American History class leaves Rosanna Deane and Catherine Stewart enough time to amuse themselves with Indian games.



"What do you mean we have a notebook check today? I can't even find my fly leaf!" grimaces Edie Woollett at the sight of the locker rip-off.

"Vivian, I don't really think the pictures of the beach party are going to help you too much on the final," warns Debbie Hosea to Vivian Streit.

Kellene Cutrer has thoughts of another "endless summer."



"I guess the boss didn't understand that when I said I wanted more bread, I meant a raise," ponders Robert Thymes as he serves rolls at the French Club banquet.

Juniors . . .
Each ended the year with anticipation of the following,
seemingly final, one—
Attending banquets;
Preparing for the climax of twelve memorable years of education.

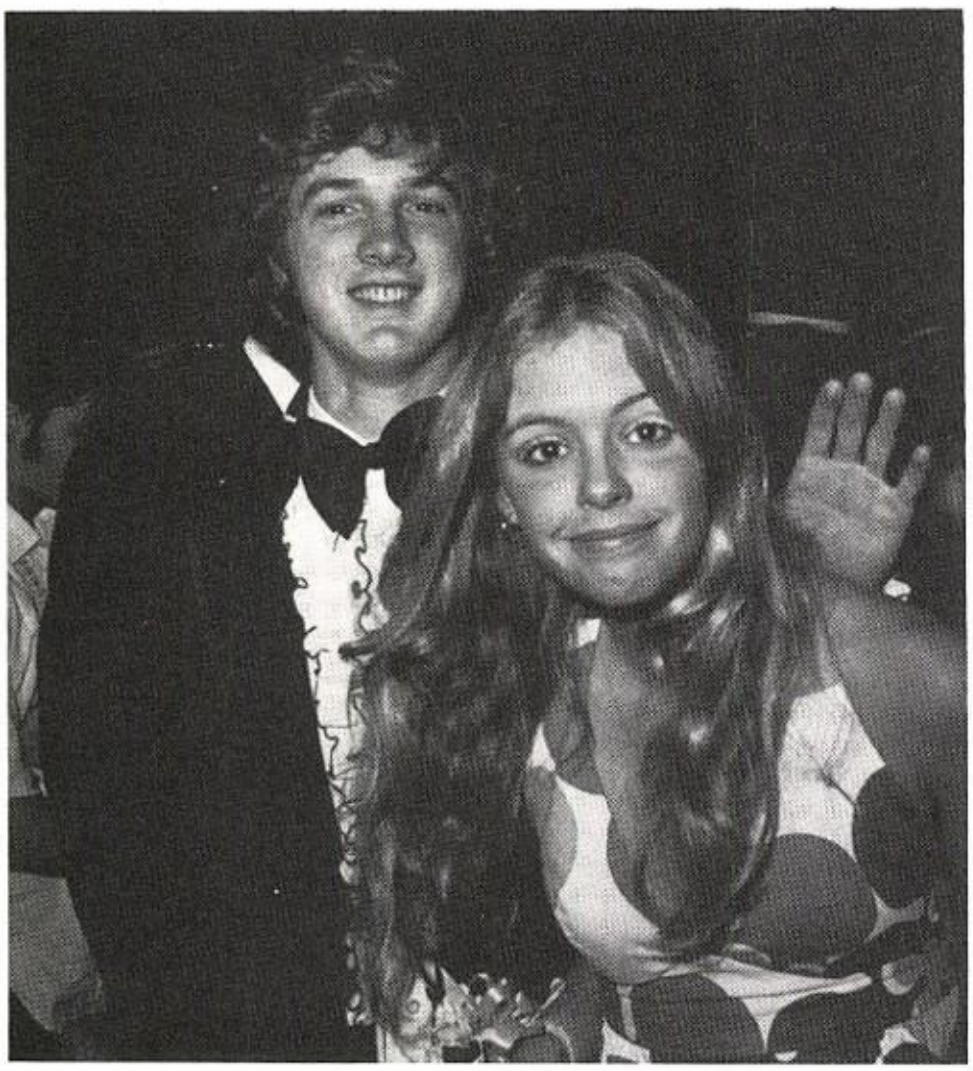
Diana McDade and Jean McIver find a little game of poker a stimulating change from lectures.

"Now that's a terrible picture of you!" exclaims Cathy Rain. Jet Cook, Joan Parnell, Catherine Stewart, Rosanna Deane, and Kitty Gallagher are amused by Cathy's "constructive criticism."

"Come on, Vita, stop crying! We'll have one of the policemen look for him in the bathroom!" Mrs. Genge consoles Vita Streit while Mr. and Mrs. Breland enjoy the late night festivities of the after-prom party.

"Hey, folks, it's time for the Flintstones!" Paul Herman shows off his pride for his new T.V. won at the prom.



"I may look happy, but she was third on my list," exclaims Jim Otis to his date, Kerry Goleman.

"I use Dial. Don't you wish everybody did?" Janice Pogue is desperately hinting around to her date, Bill Thomas.

"Hi, doll, do you really think I'm good looking?" Mr. Robinson trys to steal Ann James away from Kerry Teaff.

Cam Lange seems to have gone "strap happy" at a senior party.

Seniors . . .
Celebrating the last moments of seemingly endless hard work—
Socializing at parties;
Experiencing excitement at the much anticipated prom;
Each realized that enthusiasm for the accomplishment of knowledge could not be contained.

"Gosh, I thought I had an imagination, but she's impossible to draw!" An artist attempts to picture Kathy Purifoy's face.

Seniors bee-bop to the hop at the Houston Club.

Gaining reward for athletic achievement, girls in Le Melee accomplished much through participation in intramurals as well as on teams.
Each found that, through persistent practice, attainment of most any goal was possible.

Le Melee girls applaud all recipients of awards with enthusiasm.

"I know you deserve more than one award." Laurette Beeson comforts Julie Baucum as Jennifer Kane, Kathy Hildebrandt, Ann Vandivier, and Betsy Sengelmann receive their tennis awards.

Sarah Blades, Chris Putscher, and Ann Chapman "grin and bear it" at Le Melee awards day.

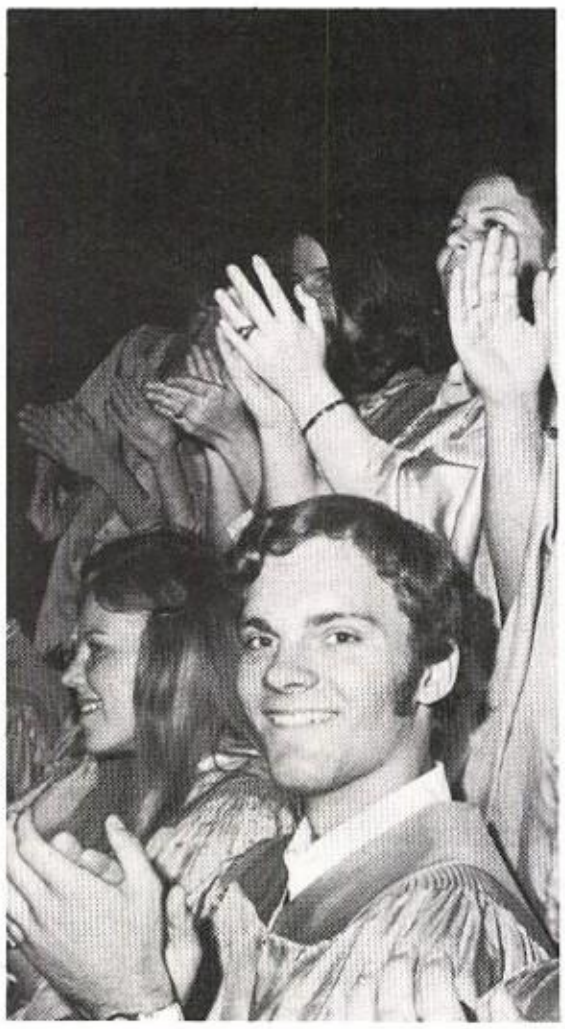
"No, Karen," quips Mrs. Allen, "you can't redeem it for money." Karen Dvorak, Linda Saville, Betsy Sengelmann, and Julie Baucum are really mercenary about their recently won tennis trophies. Miss Borneman and Debbie Roach look on in disbelief.

Linda Saville receives her medal from Miss Borneman for earning the highest number of points.

Senior Entertainment Day brings an unusual chorus of "Rubber Ducky" from the band.

Announcement of knowledgeable students who excelled in a particular area;
Acknowledgement of college acceptances as well as scholarships;
Awarding those who truly achieved;
In such ways was Awards Day involved—a day climaxed by senior entertainment; a day signifying for many the approach of an end to high school life.

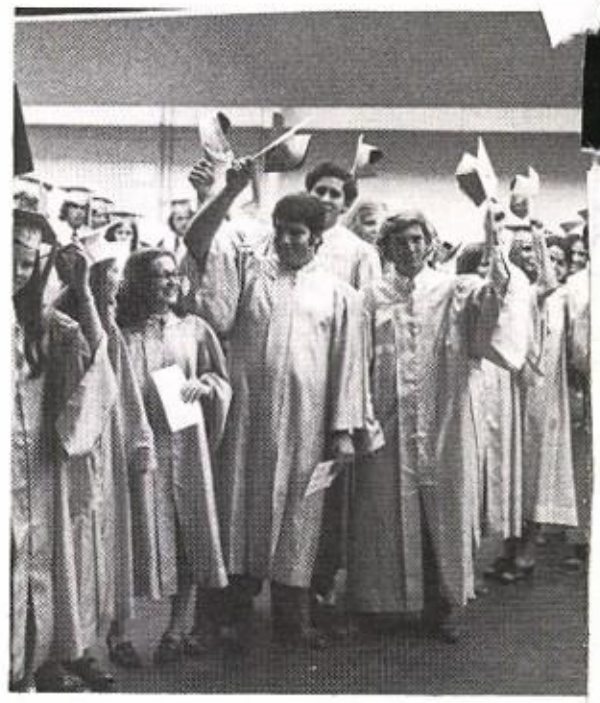
"With the success of my poem, I think that Rod McKuen will definitely have a competitor." Brownlee Ferguson feels that his poem was worth special attention.



Randy Weidner seems to agree with other seniors that Entertainment Day was!

Mr. Robinson proves that teachers can jive it up too.

"My fellow Americans . . .," begins class President, Richard Capps.



Mr. Adams' homeroom salutes a wonderful (?) three years.

Students experiencing the last moments of years filled with thrills and heartbreaks,
learning and exasperation;
Some looking toward a higher,
more involved education;
others preparing to experience
life itself.
Rejoicing in these last moments,
Yet realizing that life had just begun,
Each student faced the unlimited horizons of the world of tomorrow.

Principal J. T. Shivers pays his last respects to the class of '72.

"Human faculties are common, but that which converges these faculties into my identity separates me from every other man."

Giles

Hey! Wow
this year has really gone by fast. It's been great. You are so cute & sweet.
Good luck always.
